HUNT LINDY BABY ON SHIPS

Furore Held Bar to Child's Return

Today

When Ziegfeld Starts.
Wise Japan.
If, How Sad a Word.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHEN THIS was written yesterday, those in charge of the Lindbergh kidnaping case expressed hope of early, important developments. Col. Breckenridge, an attorney who could legally promise protection for the kidnapers, had left on an errand said to be important.

FRANK GORMAN, ablest police reporter in New York, suggests that a reward should be offered to anybody giving information concerning the whereabouts of the child. He says:

"Criminals, especially if they are amateurs, nearly always talk to somebody, usually a woman, of their plans in advance, and brag about their accomplishments afterward. The chances are that somebody not connected with the kidnaping knows who kidnaped the child, and where it is, and if they offered a substantial reward, with absolute secrecy, that might bring results."

"MAN BLINDLY works the will of fate."

Not so with Japan. She plans, and carries out her plans.

Manchu rulers came down from Manchuria, made themselves emperors of China, making Manchuria part of the Chinese Empire.

China's republic got rid of the Manchus and unlike Westerners, China allowed the Manchu heir to the throne, Henry Pu-Yi, to live.

Now Japan takes Manchuria, and wisely also takes Henry Pu-Yi. She put him on the throne of his ancestors in Manchuria, while Tokio hails a "new epoch."

Japan asks:

"How, can China or the League of Nations find any fault? The boy's family originally owned the place and he is now in possession. What more do they want? We, the Japanese, shall build up a great country there, industrially, financially, agriculturally, and let the Chinese do the work."

A ZIEGFELD Follies first night interests thousands, not interested in the Einstein theory. Historians of the future, describing our era, would like information about such a first night. Here it is.

As many as could be packed into the theater paid each $16.50 for their seats on Tuesday. The majority present were "somebody," the others paid $16.50 to be mistaken for somebody.

There was Paul Block, who owns newspapers, and Kobler, who owns a tabloid. Ask him:

"How is circulation?"

He jumps from his chair, reaches both hands toward the roof of the theater. Words can't tell how circulation is going up.

WALTER CHRYSLER, automobile maker, was there. He said:

"Ziegfeld gives you ideas for decorating interiors of cars."

The Ziegfeld formula is "beautiful girls, plenty of humor, a nebulous plot." The chief girl, this time, is Lupe Velez, a Mexican, who dances, sings, rolls her eyes and wriggles.

Thirty "glorified" American girls that stand behind her, and also wriggled, are, compared to Lupe Velez, like thirty plates of vanilla ice cream standing behind a red-hot coal.

MR. ZIEGFELD at the moment specializes in tall girls, with bored expressions, long legs and no more hips than a plucked canary. He makes an exception in favor of one very short girl who, when she stands straight and kicks, can raise her knee above her forehead. Try to do that.

HUMOR IS supplied by an active person named Bert Lahr, who is persuaded to become a bull-fighter, although he has never seen a bull. When he sees one, in real life a very gentle steer which appears in person on the Ziegfeld stage, the bull-fighter runs.

MR. BUDDY ROGERS supplies the manly pulchritude. You have rarely seen such black and glossy hair, or hair that billows so magnetically. He also sings, and pleases Lupe Velez. That is part of the plot, for there is a tall, blonde lady who ought to mean something to him. She does not.

W. Averill Harriman was there. He deals in railroads and money. His father rebuilt the Union Pacific and other roads.

Herbert Bayard Swope was there also. He deals in everything.

There was William A. Curley, the best evening newspaper editor in the country just now, and William Randolph Hearst, Jr., who is learning the business, and an intelligent Frenchman, who only said "Ces Americains!" but said a great deal in those two words and rolled his eyes to heaven.

JAPAN HAS its crime organizations. But, unlike our racketeer-bootleg gangs, they work for what they call "patriotism," not for profit.

A "blood brotherhood" recently employed two Japanese peasants to assassinate two conspicuous Japanese officials, disapproved by the "patriots." There were, in this brotherhood, only three. One is jailed; the others, sought, are a teacher and a Japanese priest.

It must add excitement to know, as officials do in Japan that if they do not please their constituents there is a patriotic society ready to murder them when they leave office. Imagine

CULBERTSON CHILD ON STAND

Son Follows Mother Who Sobbed Story of Killing Mate in Gun Struggle

A mother, widowed by a shotgun which blazed a climax of death to a gay week-end party in her home four months ago, and her 11-year-old son, named for the man who died, sat in a witness chair in Criminal Court today and sought to prove through their testimony that their husband and father was the victim of accidental death—and not of murder.

A chubby little figure, dressed mannishly in a tan suit—coat, vest and knickers—"Junior" brought the first smiles to the faces of the jurors who have heard the tragic story of how a week-end of hilarity, starting with the Pitt-Army football game, bridge and cocktails, ended in tragedy as man and wife struggled for possession of the shotgun which caused the husband's death.

NEIGHBORS TESTIFY

Junior was followed on the stand by several neighbors of the family, who testified that the Culbertsons were a devoted couple and seldom quarrelled.

With this testimony, the defense rested its case and the prosecution ended a short rebuttal soon afterward at 2:20 p. m.

The first question put to Junior was by Defense Attorney Oliver K. Eaton:

"Do you go to school?"

"Yes."

"Do you like it?"

The boy grinned and the jurors smiled as he answered:

"No."

His testimony bore out Eaton's contention in his opening address that bruises on Mrs. Walker's arms came from joining in a wrestling match which he and his

STATE JOBLESS GET WHEAT

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—An allotment of 250,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat or its equivalent in flour, was set aside today to feed hungry unemployed in Pennsylvania, Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, announced. He said he had reached this agreement with John Barton Payne, Red Cross chairman, whose organization are to handle the Farm Board wheat which Congress donated to the relief of unemployed.

Davis said applications for the wheat or flour would have to be made to him through the local Red Cross chapters. He added he would ask Pennsylvania mills to grind the wheat into flour if demands were made for flour. He said:

Prosperity Bonds Urged by Rukeyser

Public Construction Will End Slump, House Quiz Told

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—America's economic troubles are man-made and constitute "a serious indictment of management in the large," Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, noted New York financial writer, declared in a statement before the Metcalf sub-committee on education and labor today. The committee is considering the La Follette $5,500,000,000 prosperity bond issue bill to finance a public works construction program.

Rukeyser advocated that the United States government immediately launch a public construction program as one of the logical steps toward economic recovery. He said:

"Instead of being merely the cheer leader for business, the government could break the deadlock by authorizing a far-flung plan of public construction over a period of years, starting as soon as possible with plans which are ready and available.

"In order to regiment the Record March Cold Stays, Says Forecast

The severe March cold spell, said to be without precedent, entered its fifth day today, with little sign of relief for the next 48 hours, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman.

The low mark overnight was 11. Tonight the minimum will be around 10, Brotzman predicted.

Lawyer Little Pays Fine, Asks Grand Jury Quiz

After paying his fine, imposed by Magistrate J. Scott Morgan, Little announced to newspapermen:

Sergt. Daniel Bradley testified Little interrupted a hearing yesterday and that when Bradley asked him to step outside the railing, Little jostled him, knocking papers and a fountain pen from his hand. Later, when lodged in a cell, Little struck at him, missed and hit Cell Sergt. Harry Pebler in the face, Bradley said. Several witnesses corroborated Bradley.

Little testified he had only tried as an attorney to see his client, Max Leibowitz, held on a charge of passing a counterfit bill. The latter was ill, he said, due to being kicked in the stomach while being given the third degree the night before, Little asserted.

JURY OPENS KLINE 'FIX' INQUIRY

Prospective Jurors and Butler County Clergyman Among Witnesses Called

BUTLER, March 10.—The grand jury today began its investigation of the alleged attempts to "fix" the jury panel for the Kline-Succop trial with a score or more witnesses on hand—prospective jurors, state police, a Butler County clergyman and the four men under arrest.

The revelations being made before the grand jury today probably will determine whether counsel for Pittsburgh's Mayor Kline and his deposed Supplies Director, Bertram L. Succop, or District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny County, will ask for a postponement of the trial scheduled to begin Monday before Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia.

One witness this afternoon was the Rev. Father Francis Clifford, of Murrenville.

DETECTIVES ASSIST

Butler County's District Attorney Edgar H. Negley denied that he would bring the entire jury panel of 75 before the grand jury, but declared he would call in a great number of them. Four Allegheny County detectives today were assisting state police in rounding up the jurors.

Among other witnesses scheduled for today were Attorney Harry Oswald, of Butler County, who said he did not know why he had been subpenaed, and the four men charged with embracery as a result of the investigation. They are R. J. Cunningham, Pittsburgh contractor; Howard Gross, Pittsburgh city employe; Roy Eakin, Bakerstown, and William H. Cook, of Hilliard, Butler County.

As members of the jury panel were trotted before the grand jury, Attorney Albert Troutman, associate of Earl F. Reed, of Pittsburgh's crusading Citizens Com-

Political 'Godfather' Of Coolidge Dies

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 10.—(INS.)—Judge Richard William Irwin, known as the "political godfather" of Calvin Coolidge, was dead at his home today.

While practicing law here, Judge Irwin was impressed by Coolidge, then a young law student. Later, when Calvin Coolidge was elected to the Massachusetts Legislature, Judge Irwin gave him a letter of introduction to Speaker John C. Cole, declaring Coolidge as "like a singed cat, better than he looks."

Mills Sees Better Tone in Industry

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—Enactment of the Glass-Steagall bill and organization of the Reconstruction finance Corporation, has created a decidedly better feeling in commercial and industrial circles, Secretary of the Treasury Mills said today.

While not forecasting business revival, Mills declared that reconstruction activities have had a "very great effect."

Chicago Professors Favor Football Ban

CHICAGO, March 10.—(INS.)—A majority of the professors at the University of Chicago would like to see abolition of football on the campus. This disclosure was made today by John M. Stalnaeer, instructor in Social Sciences, following a survey. He said 51 per cent of the professors replying to his questionaire voted in favor of abolishing the sport.

King Albert Plans First Congo Visit

BRUSSELS, March 10.—(AP.)—King Albert of the Belgians has arranged to spend his Easter holiday in the eastern section of the Belgian Congo in Africa.

It will be his first visit to Belgium's vast African domain. Rapid and easy means of transport will be used, including airplanes.

Nettie Gordon Held On Gang Loot Charge

Nettie Gordon and her sister, May Gordon, both of 10 East North avenue, were indicted by the county grand jury today on charges of receiving stolen goods, valued at $1,900, which members of the Robert Considine gang, under sentence, recently confessed to having taken from homes in the Pittsburgh district. The two are at liberty in $5,000 bail each.

Baby Jean, 606 Bower Hill road, Mt. Lebanon, fatally hurt when the sled on which she and her brother and a 15-year-old uncle crashed into an automobile in East Marlin drive. The brother, Thomas, 7, died today.

MELLON BANK OFFICIAL DIES

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—(INS.)—H. S. Zimmerman, 64, vice president of the Mellon National Bank, Pittsburgh, died suddenly here in his hotel suite today.

Zimmerman arrived in Los Angeles from the East last night. Early this morning the banker complained of severe illness. A hotel physician attempted in vain to ease the pain. Finally, there came a severe attack from which Zimmerman expired. The body was first taken to a mortuary and later removed to the Coroner's office for an autopsy.

Zimmerman was on a business trip at the time of his death, it was said at the Mellon National Bank. He apparently had been in good health, except for accosional difficulties during the past two years due to an enlarged heart.

Mr. Zimmerman was a bachelor and lived with his sister, Mrs. C. M. Wilson, 358 South Atlantic avenue.

He was born in Stoyestown, Pa., 64 years ago. In 1901 he became cashier of T. Mellon & Sons, the predecessor of the Mellon National Bank. He was made a vice president in 1927.

He was a member of the Duquesne Club, Oakmont Country Club and Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

PARENTS REPORTED ORDERED TO 'KEEP QUIET AND WAIT'

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service

NEW YORK, March 10.—Although fluctuating reports whispered that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was the center of protracted negotiations, or was even en route home, search for the missing child today spread to the sea and overseas.

British authorities searched the liner Ile De France when she docked at Plymouth. Operatives of Scotland Yard's criminal investigation department peered into the faces of nine babies who were passengers on the vessel with their parents. The parents were questioned at length, but nothing was gleaned about the whereabouts of the missing child.

ATLANTIC CITY SEARCHED

Other European ports also conducted a child hunt on incoming ships from the United States.

Today's bombshell report (there has been at least one full-fledged one every day) came from Atlantic City, where it was said that the Lindbergh baby was captive on a boat off shore.

They said some Coast Guard men had heard it scream.

A house-to-house search was conducted through sections of the resort city by police following the report.

And there were more "hot tips" to keep the blood racing faster and the heartbeats pounding more furiously through the nation.

From Paris came word to American Legion headquarters there that the missing babe might be found in Larchmont, Westchester County.

Orders were cabled to Bergen, Norway, to search the liner Bergensford when it tdocks tomorrow. A customs inspector said that before the Norwegian-American liner sailed from Brooklyn, tthe day after the kidnaping, a man carrying a 2-year-old child hurried up the gangplank.

FURORE ON TRAIN

Passengers on the Broadway Limited, crack western train, were thrown into a furore by the report that "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, underworld ambassadors appointed by the Lindberghs to conduct negotiations with the kidnapers, were coming from Chicago with the baby.

From Harrisburg on each station stop caused a group of detectives and reporters to board the train. At Philadelphia there was a mob to greet it. When it drew into the terminal at New York it took several squads of policemen to hold back the crowds.

However, there was no baby on the train and no Spitale and no Bitz.

The report also had another version—that the baby was being brought in by agents of Al Capone.

BABY BELIEVED SAFE

Meanwhile, belief that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is safe and well and will be returned to his

HUNT KIDNAPER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 10.—(INS.)—Chicago police, at the instigation of New Jersey authorities, today began search for Lee Turner, notorious St. Louis kidnaper, in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

What prompted the hunt was not divulged here. Turner was believed to be hiding in Chicago.

Turner has been wanted several months for questioning in connection with the abduction of John J. Lynch, prominent turfman. Four or five months ago Turner was reported seen in New York with "Buster" Brown, another St. Louis police character. Brown is now in jail here, charged with kidnaping Dr. Max Gecht.

Police also were seeking Joseph (Red) O'Riordan, another alleged kidnaper, who was the object of a raid in Detroit yesterday.

Meantime, reports that Salvatore Spitale, underworld go-between in the Lindbergh case, was in Chicago, went unverified. Detectives said they found no substantiation of rumors Spitale had completed a "big deal" here yesterday.

'Peter Pan' Protege Marries in London

LONDON, March 10.—(AP.)—Peter Llewelyn Davies, one of the five children to whom Barrie dedicated his "Peter Pan," was married today in the Savoy Chapel to the Honorable Margaret Leslie Hore-Ruthven, one of the twin daughters of the Lieutenant Governor of Guernsey.

Memorial to Peers Unveiled by Wales

London, March 10.—(AP.)—In the royal gallery of the House of Lords, whose walls are scarred by anti-aircraft shell splinters reminiscent of the air raids of the great war, the Prince of Wales today unveiled the lord's own memorial to the 245 peers who fell in that struggle.

Baby Curls Cut in Anne's Fear of 'Sissy' Label

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., March 10.—(INS.)—"Mum-Mum" was the kidnaped Lindbergh baby's name for his mother.

And she invariably called her 20-months-old son, "Baby," doted on him, worshiped him, and two weeks ago had his pretty golden curls clipped so he would not be a "sissy."

These and other intimate glimpses of the stolen child were given today by Mrs. Erna Scholtz, beauty parlor owner, who trimmed the famous baby's locks. She said:

"The baby had an unusual amount of hair for his age. It was of a most beautiful golden color with wonderful curls. Any little girl would envy them."

The first time she cut the child's hair she was summoned to the private sitting room of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, in her home here. Mrs. Scholtz related:

"His mother didn't want him to have long, golden curls. She said she didn't want him to be a sissy. She did not mind a bit when I cut them off.

"Mrs. Morrow came into the room and exclaimed:

"'Oh, what a pretty baby!'

"Anne turned and said to her mother:

"'You mustn't say that, mother. You mustn't spoil him. Don't tell him he's pretty."

'Keep Quiet and Wait' Parents Reported Told By Abductors of Child

famous parents when the present excitement subsides is supported by the report that an agent of the abductors has so advised Col. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow.

Although no confirmation or denial is forthcoming from the home with the vacant nursery at Hopewell, N. J., it is understood that negotiations with the baby stealers are still being conducted.

Gov. A. harry Moore, of New Jersey, said:

"I have absolute confidence that the baby will come back alive and safe. I do not know when, but whenever it is, I feel sure he will be in good health."

TOLD TO WAIT

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of the New Jersey State Police, said:

"We have every reason to believe that the baby is alive and well."

The message to the Lindberghs "to keep quiet and wait" was reported to have been transmitted to the Lindberghs through an attorney acting as a go-between for the kidnapers.

Another report was that the negotiations were being conducted through Morris Rosner, former government investigator, who is working hand-in-glove with Spitale and Bitz.

PARLEYS REPORTED

The sudden excursion of Col. Henry S. Breckinridge, silver-haired adviser to the Lindberghs, are supposed to have led him to several conferences with the kidnapers or their representatives in sequestered spots in Trenton and the East Side of New York.

The main discussions at these "board meetings" were said to have revolved about the present and future safety of those who participated in the crime.

All "official" knowledge of this contacting with the kidnapers is disclaimed by the police. This was considered natural, inasmuch as authorities have publicly declared that they are working independently of the Lindberghs and are willing and anxious to aid them in any way to recover the missing 20-month-old infant.

They have admitted that what Col. Lindbergh does in his attempt to have the child brought safely home is "a private matter."

RIBBEN IN CONFERENCES

This much was certain. There was obvious optimism in police and the Lindbergh household circle. There were also conferences held at the home with Col. Breckinridge and President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, sitting in. Morris Rosner, investigator extraordinary, was also there.

Dr. Hibben, a friend of Col. Lindbergh, has said that he would be glad to act as an intermediary, if requested.

SAILOR STILL HELD

They indicated that Henry "Red" Johnson, sailor sweetheart of Betty Gow, Lindbergh nurse, would be further detained in Newark, N. J., for some time. Col. Schwarzkopf said:

"Johnson is still under investigation. This investigation will still take four or five days to complete."

State troopers continued to recheck the "poor white" section of the Sourland Mountain region near the Lindbergh estate. They searched abandoned shacks, the homes of the dwellers and the shadowy caves and caverns of the isolated area.

It was reported the search was connected with the alleged tracing of the wood in the ladder used by the kidnapers to timber left over from construction work at the Skillman village for epileptics. The village is near the Lindbergh estate.

If and when the Lindbergh baby is restored, it was considered probable that he would be delivered to the residence of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, his grandmother, in Englewood, N. J. His parents have spent most of their time there, with only week-ends at their isolated home in Hopewell.

One of the favorite amusements of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was to stand before the grandfather clock in the Morrow home and try to sway to the left and right with the swinging of the brass pendulum, saying:

Members of the jury panel subpenaed for today are Joseph Anderson, Adams Township; Roy Bartley, Middlesex Township; E. H. Bish, Donegal Township; George Boltz, Winfield Township; Peter Burns, Donegal Township; Vance Gaiser, Brady Township; Elizabeth Gormley, Venango Township; Stanley Gray, Mars; Margaret Hovis, Venango; Fred Keasey, Winfield Township; Fred Kull, Adams Township; J. A. Midberry, Marion Township; Howard Morris, Washington Township; Ada Price, Penn Township; Walter Stewart, Butler Township, and John Volrath, Zelienople.

Cunningham, last of the four to be taken into custody, was arrested yesterday when he appeared in Butler, it was said, for the purpose of putting up bond for Eakin, arrested on a bench warrant the day before.

Allegheny County's district attorney, Andrew T. Park, conferred with District Attorney Negley here yesterday. With Park at the conference were his first assistant, George Lanfitt; special assistant and representative of the Citizens' League, Earle Reed; Attorney Stewart, an associate of Reed's; County Detective Michael Ford and Special Investigator Peter Connors.

Asked at the conclusion of the conference if the commonwealth would ask for a continuance of the Kline trial, District Attorney Park replied:

"I cannot say at this time."

"If there is evidence of widespread tampering, will you ask for a postponement?"

"If the tampering has been of such a widespread nature that it would impair the commonwealth's case, yes."

It was revealed that out of the special venire of 75 men and women called for jury service next week only 70 were available. Of this number it was indicated that perhaps 20 or 25 had been canvassed by persons in the interest of Kline and Succop. District Attorney Park, apprised of these conditions, said if such were the case it would hardly be likely that there would be sufficient veniremen left from whom a jury could be chosen.

CURLEY REPORT ON BABY DENIED

BOSTON, March 10.—(AP.)—Information received by Mayor James M. Curley that the Lindbergh babey had been returned Sunday night to his Hopewell (N. J.) home has proved just another rumor. The Mayor could not be reached last night for comment on the information, which New Jersey authorities said was without foundation.

The information, Mayor Curley said, had come from a New York broker, whom he declined to name. The Mayor said he was informed the baby had been returned after his parents had made an agreement with the kidnapers not to notify police for 72 hours.

BYRD ESCAPES AUTO CRASH

Preparation of plans for the next expedition to the South Pole and daily lectures crowd the waking hours for Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who made a brief stopover here en route to McKeesport for a lecture tonight.

Byrd was surprised by a report sent out of Liberty, Ind., that he has suffered bruises in an automobile accident there yesterday. He had been best man at a wedding in Anderson, Ind., but was not with the party in the wrecked car.

On Byrd's next Antarctic trip he said he planned to operate with a staff half the size of the first one, and to establish his base nearer the South Pole.

New Haven Lindy Suspect Released

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10.—(AP.)—Tony Meslo, 45, held since Monday while state police investigated a story that he had been overheard discussing the Lindbergh baby, was released today. He had been held on a technical charge of idleness.

Meslo was arrested by state police after Mrs. Victoria Burba, of Colchester, said she had heard him and two companions discussing the baby 10 months ago.

ACQUAINTANCE OF LINDY SAYS HE SAW BABY

Declares Kidnapers Took Him to Rendezvous and Asked $75,000 Ransom

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Legendary or otherwise, here is a story which eclipses all the colorful reports which have taken wing since the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped.

A casual friend of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the kidnaped child, claims that he was taken involuntarily to see the missing infant by the kidnapers.

He claims he was then told to inform the Lindberghs that the child was well and that his keepers expected $75,000 ransom (an increase of $25,000 from the sum demanded in the original ransom note) and would open negotiations shortly.

(International News Service which learned of the tale confidentially today does not vouch for its authenticity other than that it was told.)

BLINDFOLDED IN AUTO

The story, as confided to friends by the man, a resident of Peekskill, N. Y., follows:

"On Saturday, I received a message asking if I knew Col. Lindbergh. I said I knew him casually. Immediately afterward I was escorted into an automobile and blindfolded. I believe there were two men in the machine.

"They searched me for possible weapons. I asked them sarcastically why they did not take a small penknife on my watchchain. They then took away the penknife.

"We drove for some time. I estimated we were in Connecticut, in the vicinity of Bridgeport, before we stopped before a house. I was taken inside. The bandage was removed from my eyes for a few seconds.

"There was the Lindbergh baby sitting in a highchair. He was playing with a toy and appeared happy and well.

SEARCH TERMED USELESS

"My eyes were quickly bandaged again and I was led out. The men ordered me to get in touch with Col. Lindbergh and tell him that the baby was well. They told me to say that a ransom of $75,000 was expected and that a channel of communication would be established within a day or so.

"They drove me back to a place near my home and instructed me to communicate with Col. Lindbergh and nobody else. They told me it would be useless for a search to be made for the house in which I had seen the baby, as they had moved with the child to another location immediately after my visit.

"I communicated with the Lindbergh household as requested."

Slayer of Cincinnati Child Found Insane

LIMA, O., March 10.—(INS.)—Charles Bischoff, said by police to have confessed murdering golden-haired Marian McLean, 6, at Cincinnati last December, has been found insane, Dr. W. H. Vorhau, superintendent of the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, reported today.

As a result Bischoff will be compelled to spend the remainder of his life in the state hospital here.

NEW U. S. STEEL CHIEF

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM A. IRVIN . . . U. S. STEEL'S PRESIDENT

Mr. Irvin, former U. S. Steel vice president and former vice president of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company of Pittsburgh, named to succeed James A. Farrell when he resigns April 19.

Irvin Election Forecasts Return of Gary Policies In U. S. Steel Affairs

The announcement that William A. Irvin had been chosen from the ranks of all American executives to head the giant United States Steel Corporation came as a distinct surprise to the steel industry, since the promotion put him over the heads of a large number of senior and more widely known officials of the organization.

Discussion of the new appointment and the changes it might make in the policies of the corporation were going on this morning in nearly all the offices of steel executives, both within and outside the corporation.

RECALL GARY REIGN

The general opinion was that the management of the corporation will be returned to much the same situation as during the days of Judge Elbert H. Gary and that Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, and not Irvin, will be in Gary's shoes. The Judge was a lawyer, not a practical steel operating man. He outlined the general financial matters where J. P. Morgan at that time, as he does today, stood as dictator.

James A. Farrell, the president, who will retire on April 18, found his principal duties in supervising the operating end of the business. It is understood that he was not generally concerned with the broader policies of the management.

With the death of Judge Gary, the corporation had to find a new figure to dominate its activities. J. P. Morgan was made chairman, but this did not make any particular change in his relation to the corporation, which was largely financial. Morgan is not a steelman. He has so many diversified business interests that he could not be the active head of such a large industrial unit as the United States Steel Corporation.

STRINGS ON FARRELL

Farrell continued as president, but his duties were materially widened. To a large extent he stepped into Judge Gary's shoes as the real director of the policies of the corporation. There were more strings upon him than on Gary, however. The finance committee, headed by Myron C. Taylor, was given an increased voice in the management.

The reasons impelling the resignation of Farrell before the age at which he would normally retire never have been made known. Following the announcement of his retirement, the corporation directors began an intensive search for a second Judge Gary. It is definitely known that serious consideration was given to several prominent men not connected with the company.

Among those understood to have been approached have been E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, and Sewell L. Avery, president of the United States Gypsum Company. These negotiations never came to a head so it was necessary to reexamine the material within the corporation.

The selection of Irvin, a purely operating man, for the presidency, is believed to indicate that the status of the president's job will be returned to that of Gary's days when the post was largely an operating one.

This leads to the assumption that the control of the general policies will revert entirely to Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee.

NEW RATES AID STEEL MILLS

A new schedule of freight rates will reduce Pittsburgh district steel shippers' disadvantage in competition with eastern producers, the traffic division of the Chamber of Commerce announced today. The new rates on less than car-load consignments to eastern consumers will become effective May 2.

On the new basis Pittsburgh's fourth-class rate a 100 pounds to New York is 41.5 cents as compared to the former 52-cent rate. Johnstown's commodity rate is 37.5 cents, and accordingly the Pittsburgh disadvantage is reduced from 14.5 cents to 4 cents. Other similar examples apply to Steelton, Bethlehem and other eastern points.

Butcher's Kidnaper Gets 12 to 20 Years

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—A second man convicted of kidnaping an Upper East Side butcher, for which one prisoner already is under a life sentence, was sentenced today to serve 12 to 20 years in Sing Sing Prison.

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., in sentencing Max Lipsky, 32, said kidnaping was one of the most serious offenses known to the law, but he would consider the jury's recommendation for leniency and also that Pipsky had a previous good record.

'Mounties' Trace Betty Gow Record

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, March 10.—(AP.)—At the request of New Jersey authorities, Royal Canadian Mounted Police yesterday questioned persons believed acquainted with Betty Gow, nursemaid for the kidnaped child of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Betty Gow was said by police to have been a visitor here three years ago. The officers searched a house boat on the water front and questioned the occupants for three hours.

QUIZ OF POLICE AGAIN FAILS IN LINDY CASE

Nurse Not Yet Eliminated In Probe of Troopers; Answers Continue Vague

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 10.—(AP.)—Rumors that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby had been found within five miles of this village or that the child was being brought in on a train from Chicago were denied from the Lindbergh home today.

In accordance with the procedure established by police, the press submitted a list of questions about the case this morning.

It has been customary for police to confer on the questions about an hour and in some instances showing them to the Lindberghs. This morning, however, two of the questions were answered immediately.

RECOVERY DENIED

The first was:

"Has baby been found five miles from Hopewell?"

"No."

The other question read:

"Is baby being returned now on train from Chicago?"

The reply was:

"We have no knowledge of it."

The other questions were held for more consideration and an hour and a half later answers were telephoned out from the Lindbergh house. Aside from the two answered earlier, the questions and answers were:

A—No.

Q—Has the baby been returned?

A—No.

Q—Is there any indication that baby is alive or when it will be returned?

A—This question previously answered. (The police answer to this has been "no.")

Q—Who is Morris Rosner? Did he visit the Lindbergh home yesterday?

A—Do not know.

Q—Did the Lindberghs have any visitors on the day of the kidnaping and who were they? Did the servants have any visitors?

A—No.

Q—Philadelphia police teletype reports New York wants Michael Bennito and two accomplices, Coali and Morganelli, for kidnaping and robbery. Is there any connection with the Lindbergh case?

A—We do not know, investigators still out.

Q—Do police know if Spitale and Bitz have been in Chicago and Detroit since Saturday?

A—We have no knowledge of this.

Q—When did Col. Breckinridge return from New York and did you learn what his mission there was?

A—No answer.

SEARCH NOT CONTINUOUS

Questions and answers at an earlier conference included:

Q—Has there been a continuous search since the kidnaping through the woods, farms, houses, etc., in the area surrounding the Lindbergh estate or has there been at some time a lapse in this search?

A—Search has not been continuous. Previously searched but now re-checking area.

Q—Have officials or Col. Lindbergh been in communication with Detroit officials, lawyers, gangsters or their emissaries from that city? Has Abe Bernstein, Detroit gang leader, offered to enter the search for the missing child? Do police or Col. Lindbergh believe it possible that the baby may be returned to Col. Lindbergh's mother in Detroit? Has $50,000 ransom money been sent there to provide against this contingency?

A—No knowledge of such action.

NURSE NOT ELIMINATED

Q—In view of answers made to various questions during the past two days, we wish an opinion as to whether police have completely eliminated Betty Gow (the baby's nursemaid) from any consideration in the case? Can some more definite statement be made in this connection than the usual "investigation incomplete?"

A—No. Not at this time.

Q—Is there anything further which can be divulged concerning the status of Henry (Red) Johnson, (suitor of Miss Gow being held in Newark?)

A—No.

Flight Ordeals Aid Anne In Crisis, Doctor Says

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 10.—(INS.)—Training in hardship received in long, gruelling flights with her husband enabled Anne Morrow Lindbergh to bear up under the intense strain since the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, Dr. Joseph S. Vanneman, of Princeton, said today. He added:

"She has reached a fineness which permits her to keep her head and retain her health.

"Her cold, though annoying, is not serious. When I went to see her I met her walking on the terrace. Her only concern was for her baby's health."

Dr. Vanneman attended the baby until it was 10 months old. He called on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh yesterday to treat the latter for a cold, induced by exhaustion.

He believed the abducted son of the Lindberghs will suffer no ill effects in health from his experience unless he fell into the hands of a feeble-minded person. He said:

"The baby is healthy and normal in every respect. Strange surroundings or change in food should not hurt him.

"Even though in the midst of his teething period, there is no particular danger. It is comforting to realize that milk is uniformly pure."

Suicide Reveals Tragic Life Of Lya De Putti's Mate

BUDAPEST, March 10.—(INS.)—The tragic story of the last 12 years of the life of Judge Soltan deSzepessy, divorced husband of the late Lya de Putti, film actress of American fame, came to light yesterday following his suicide by pistol in a hotel here.

It was 12 years ago that Miss De Putti left him and his two daughters, and it was then that his happy normal life ended.

He bought a plot in a cemetery, erected a monument to his wife and journeyed there each Sunday with his daughters, to place flowers upon the "grave." He said:

"Lya has gone from my life and the life of my children, and for us she is dead. It is as though she had really died, and the old Lya is beloved to us."

That was all he would say. He took extreme precautions to keep from his children letters and parcels sent from their mother in America, and kept the lives of his children and his wife apart.

When the actress died, in the United States three months ago, following an operation, Judge De Szepessy became melancholy.

CHINA AGREES TO TRUCE PARLEY IN SHANGHAI STRIFE

PATH CLEARED FOR DEFINITE ARMISTICE

Defenders Insist Japanese Withdraw Unconditionally; British Envoy Mediates

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service.

SHANGHAI, March 10.—Forecasting a definite armistice in the Shanghai conflict, the Chinese government today officially agreed to enter negotiations for a cessation of hostilities as proposed by Japan under the terms of the March 4th resolution of the League of Nations assembly.

China named two important conditions, however, which she demanded be used as a basis of truce discussions:

1. The negotiations must be limited to the cessation of fighting and the withdrawal of the Japanese troops.

2. There must be no conditions attached to the Japanese withdrawal.

The Chinese statement concludes the government is convinced, following Japan's overture, that Japan is equally ready to negotiate, and that the way is cleared for a conference.

Sir Miles Lampson, British minister, acted as intermediary for both countries. Japanese Minister Mamoru Shigemitu notified Quo Taichi, vice-minister of foreign affairs for China, through Sir Miles that Japan was ready to negotiate along the lines of the League resolution. The Japanese note pointed out that the situation now was delicate.

The resolution called for negotiations for a complete cessation of hostilities, the simultaneous withdrawal of opposing forces, and the inauguration of a round-table conference under the auspices of the western powers.

League Resolution Asks Settlement of Conflict

GENEVA, March 10.—(INS.)—A strongly-worded resolution calling for settlement of the "entire conflict" between China and Japan was completed by the drafting committee of the League of Nations assembly today.

The resolution tacitly includes Manchuria as well as Shanghai in the scope of the settlement negotiations, ignoring Japan's oft-repeated contention that the two situations are not related and therefore cannot be considered simultaneously.

Echoing the stand of United States Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, the resolution provides for non-recognition of any territorial or political gains achieved by force.

According to the terms of the resolution, a permanent commission, endowed with plenary powers, will be appointed to settle the conflict between China and Japan.

U. S. Decides to Keep Troops at Shanghai

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—The government has decided that the 31st Infantry will not withdraw from Shanghai immediately.

Conditions are quiet at Shanghai, according to reports to the State Department, but there is still uncertainty as to when the Chinese and Japanese may arrange a truce.

However, Washington has ordered five United States destroyers to leave Shanghai. The Peary, John D. Ford and Borie left for Manila. The Edsall went to Amoy and the Truxtun went to Nanking.

4 Chinese Kidnapers Face Firing Squad

Two of the men were convicted of kidnaping a compradore (native commission merchant) of the British American Tobacco Company in March, 1929, and the others were convicted of kidnaping a compradore of a British company in 1930.

PARENTS SAVE SIX IN FIRE

James Dixon, a confectioner, and his wife rescued their six small children when fire destroyed their home, 1515 Merchant street, Ambridge, early today. The home was destroyed.

The fire started in the basement of the 14-room structure, and worked upwards to the first floor storeroom and sleeping quarters on the second floor. Dixon, awakened by smoke, summoned his wife, and the children were carried to safety.

300 Bandits Attack Gen. Honjo's Train

TOKIO, March 10.—(INS.)—Three hundred armed bandits attacked a special train carrying many prominent Japanese officials to Mukden today from Changchun, according to government dispatches.

Among those aboard the train, returning from the ceremonies inaugurating Henry Pu-Yi as chief executive of Manchuria, was Gen. Honjo, commander of the Japanese Manchurian army. The bandits were dispersed with little difficulty by Japanese reinforcements.

Japanese Consul In Manila Menaced

MANILA, P. I., March 10.—(INS.)—Following receipt of a letter written in Chinese and stating that Japanese Consul General Jun Kimura would be killed at 11 p. m. March 15, police placed heavy guards at the Japanese consulate today.

The letter threatening death was signed "Ti Chuan."

HOLD, FREE 44 IN FORD RIOT

DETROIT, March 10.—(AP.)—All but four of the 48 persons arrested in connection with the riot at the Ford Motor Company plant Monday were released today on orders of the prosecutor's investigators.

They were released after they had made statements to assistant prosecutors. Before being released they were served with subpenas to appear before the Wayne County grand jury which next Monday will start an investigation of the riot.

The four men still held are Karl Most, Daniel Grey, Peter Topek and Ben Miller. Investigators indicated they appeared to know more about the riot than the others.

The bodies of the three men and one youth killed by gunfire during the riot are in the morgue. Members of the Detroit Comunist party worked on plans for a mass funeral Saturday.

Stray Dog Visiting Class Bites 2 Girls

Two pupils of St. Peter's Catholic Senior High School, Market street, McKeesport, bitten by a stray German police dog that wandered into their classrooms yesterday, were receiving medical treatment today.

The pupils, Ellen Main, 17, of Elizabeth, and Paul Takac, 15, of 120 Gannon street, McKeesport, were bitten on the leg by the dog when it became frightened at the excitement caused by its visit.

The pupils were panic-stricken and school authorities summoned police. The dog was captured and held for observation.

HITLER REVOLT FEARED IN GERMANY

Government Ready to Act As Nation Prepares for Presidential Election

BERLIN, March 10.—(AP.)—Government officials prepared today for any eventuality which might follow next Sunday's presidential election, even a general revolt of Adolf Hitler's National Socialists.

Two Hitlerite engineers, Theodore Eickel and F. Kemmet, were arrested at Ludwigshafen, charged with illegally manufacturing 80 bombs. An editorial in the Nazi newspaper at Halle declared there must be no second balloting even if Sunday's election brings no absolute majority for any of the four candidates.

Police chiefs throughout the country assured the people that they were ready to prevent any illegality even if it became necessary to use the strongest measures.

Gustave Noske, provincial governor in President Paul von Hindenburg's home town of Hanover, was especially outspoken. As minister of defense in the first days of the republic, Herr Noske put down Communist uprisings with an iron hand. He said, pointing to the assembled Hanover police:

"Before me stand 1,000 steel-hard, trained men. From a thousand gun barrels into which all who dream of forcible seizure of power can look, not only can shots emanate, but they are bound to hit the mark. It is well for everybody in these serious times to know what's what."

Newspapers have been forbidden to post election results in their windows next Sunday or to project them on lanterns screens. Citizens have been urged to sit in the safety of their homes and listen to the election returns over the radio.

President von Hindenburg's only campaign speech will be a radio broadcast from his study tonight.

600 FISHERMEN PERILED ON ICE, 100 RESCUED

Rescuers Fear Finns Must Kill Horses Trapped on Floes; Held in Storm

HELSINGFORS, Finland, (AP.)—Hardy boatmen accustomed to the northern winter today rescued about 100 of the 700 fishermen stranded on great ice floes which broke loose yesterday in a storm in the Gulf of Finland.

The others, with a hundred horses, could be seen from Soursaari Island, half way between Helsingfors and Leningrad, huddled together on two huge floes, unable to help themselves. The island inhabitants could not reach them, for all their efforts.

The wind was still high today, but the storm had broken. Last night the cold was intense and it was feared that the fisherman, suffering keenly themselves, would have to kill their horses unless they were rescued soon because they had no fodder for the animals.

An icebreaker which left Helsingfors last night was unable to get close to the castaways because of the heavy ice. Two airplanes took off this morning for Viipuri with food.

34 Sailors Rescued From Helpless Collier

BOSTON, March 10.—(INS.)—After fighting for their lives for two days and three nights on a wild Atlantic, which tossed the rudder-crippled collier H. F. de Barbeleben up and down in constant danger of capsizing, 34 weary men were rescued today.

The liner Laganbank, which relieved the passenger-loaded White Star liner, Adriatic, of her weird vigil of trailing the crippled collier as it circled crazily and drifted 420 miles southwest of Nantucket lightship, effected the dramatic sea rescue.

U. S. Destroyer Rescues 40 From Burning Ship

MANILA, March 10.—(AP.)—The destroyer Tracy, racing ahead of four other vessels of the United States Navy, saved 40 or more Japanese from the burning freighter Kaku Maru, off the island of Mindoro tonight.

The freighter, en route from Singapore to Hongkong with a cargo which included gasoline, sent out radio distress calls late today saying fire was raging in the No. 2 hold and the ship was enveloped in smoke.

De Valera Ministry Assumes Control

DUBLIN, March 10.—(AP.)—Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail ministry took charge of the Free State government departments today.

The Dail Eirann was in adjournment and will not meet until next Tuesday. Only urgent financial business will be taken up when it reconvenes on Tuesday, Mr. De Valera said, because of the nearness to St. Patrick's Day.

Marconi Presented Award of American

ROME, March 10.—(INS.)—Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph, was presented with the John Stott award today in recognition of his work in behalf of science.

The presentation was made at the American embassy by United States Ambassador John W. Garrett on behalf of the City of Philadelphia. The award carries a gift of $1,000.

PUPILS GRILL CANTOR ON FUN

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 10.—(AP.)—Eddie Cantor, stage and screen comedian, went to school yesterday for a stiff examination.

His examiners were fourth to eighth grade pupils of Hawthorne School. The general theme was how movies are made, and why, but some of the interrogators became personal.

One boy asked:

"Are you as funny at home as you are in pictures?"

"No—nobody pays to listen to me at home."

Someone wanted to know who is his favorite leading lady. Knowing that his daughter, Edna, was in the audience, Eddie diplomatically responded:

"Mrs. Cantor."

"Is it necessary to be funny to be a comedian?"

Society Men, Officer Indicted for Assault

MEDIA, Pa., March 10.—(AP.)—A fight between two socially prominent brothers and Police Lieut. Hugh Weston, of Lansdowne, last December 4, resulted in the indictment of all three for assault and battery.

The brothers, J. Maury Walton, 24, and James H. Walton, 39, knocked Lieut. Weston unconscious in a scuffle after they went to the aid of two girls who said the policeman was following them.

Weston said he merely wanted to question the girls, who were delivering church calendars.

REP. SIROVICH DARES CRITICS

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—The warfare between Representative William I. Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the House Patents Committee, and New York dramatic critics whom he has accused of "killing the theater" by their criticism of new productions, flared forth anew today.

Sirovich "dared" the critics to come to Washington "and say to my face what they have been printing about me."

Frequently interrupting two witnesses, Prof. Hatcher Hughes, of Columbia University, and Harry Hershfield, the cartoonist, Sirovich declared:

Camels Rush Help To Stranded Plane

CAIRO, Egypt, March 10.—(AP.)—The camel, ancient ship of the desert, came to the rescue of the Cape-to-Cairo air mail plane last night when it was forced down among the rocky hills south of Wadihalfa.

Camels were loaded with cans of gasoline and rushed to the stranded plane, which then was able to continue on with its passengers and mail.

BABY GORILLA DIES IN ZOO AT CAPITAL

Doctors' Efforts to Save Life of N'Gi Futile; Cared for Like Human

Death followed a three weeks' fight by doctors and zoo attendants to save the 6-year-old animal. Oxygen tanks were brought from New York to aid in resuscitating him.

N'Gi was one of the few gorillas in captivity and special efforts were made to save him. He contracted a cold and, despite the treatment, it developed into pneumonia.

Yesterday he became worse. Doctors remained with him all night, but their efforts were fruitless.

The gorilla was captured in Africa when only a few months old by J. F. Buck, a wild animal collector of Trenton, N. J. When he was two years old he was purchased by the Washington Zoo through a fund established by Walker P. Chrysler, the automobile manufacturer.

N'Gi was raised according to the most approved procedure for a human infant. A Washington baby specialist prescribed his diet and his meals were cooked in the kitchen of Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo. He had special delicacies like custard along with cod liver oil and ultra-violet light radiation.

A $3,000 insurance policy had been taken out on N'Gi by the Smithsonian Institution, which is in charge of the zoo. The body may go to the National Museum or Johns Hopkins University.

JAIL THREATENS MARY NOLAN

LOS ANGELES, March 10.—(AP.)—Mary Nolan, film actress, today faced the immediate possibility of imprisonment as the result of her conviction yesterday of eight violations of state labor laws.

Climaxing a long series of financial difficulties, the girl who, as Imogene Wilson, was one of the striking beauties of the New York musical comedy stage, was found guilty of failure to pay wages.

Each of the eight charges carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine. Municipal Judge Clement Nye instructed Miss Nolan to appear today for sentence.

Her husband, Wallace T. Macrery, was convicted of nine similar charges and also is to be sentenced.

The charges against Miss Nolan were presented by eight former employes of the gown shop opened here after she had changed her name and entered motion pictures.

TELLS OF SHOT

He told of hearing the shot and going to his mother's room where he found his father dying on the floor.

Then, he said, he went to the basement where his mother stood holding the death gun and took it away from her.

Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair cross-examining, asked Junior:

"Didn't you tell a policeman that your mother gave you the gun and that you put it in the cellar?"

He answered:

"No."

Mrs. Culbertson told the jurors how the shotgun's roar in the narrow confines of her bedroom, where she had attempted to hide the weapon, she said, to prevent her intoxicated husband from going on a hunting trip, brought to an end a two-day drinking party in their home.

TELLS OF DRINKING

She told the jury that her husband and Ralph went to the bathroom early on the day of the killing and remained there for nearly an hour drinking gin. She said:

"They were loud and hilarious."

Knowing that her husband intended to leave with Walker on a hunting trip, Mrs. Culbertson continued, she went to the basement garage and took his handbag back to his bedroom.

Then, she said, she returned to the basement and took her husband's shotgun from the car and went to her room with it, believing he and Walker still were drinking in the bathroom. She continued:

"I was carrying the gun in my right hand and went into the bedroom. My husband was seated on a chair, fixing his socks. He asked me what I was doing.

"I told him that he could not go on the trip.

"He said he was going."

SOBS ON STAND

The story ended momentarily at this point as the witness bowed her head and broke into shaking sobs. She dried her eyes shortly and went on with the testimony.

"He came to me and I jumped back. It hit the door and the gun was discharged."

Attorney Eaton asked:

"Did you touch the trigger?"

"No."

"Did you know the gun was loaded?"

"No."

"What happened?"

"I screamed. Hazel (Mrs. Walker) came in and knelt down and tried to stop the blood. I went to the basement."

"Why?"

"I went down to shoot myself."

"Did you try?

"Yes."

"Why didn't you shoot yourself?"

SON GRABS GUN

"Junior rushed after me and grabbed the gun with both hands. I knew it was loaded then and didn't want him to get it. I put it on the floor and called the doctor."

"Junior" is Albert L. Culbertson, Jr., 11, the older of her two sons.

Eaton then asked:

"Did you go near the body again?"

"Yes. I put a pillow under Cub's head."

Previous to her description of the shooting, Mrs. Culbertson described events in the home when she, her husband and their guests returned from the Pitt-Army football game Saturday afternoon. She said:

"I went to the kitchen and he followed me. I was fixing some orange juice and he said, 'That reminds me, I have not been getting my orange juice lately. You've been giving me grapefruit juice.'

"I told him I had some oranges but that they were sour.

"He continued the argument over the orange juice. Hazel came in and it was obvious she was trying to change the conversation. She wanted to talk about the football game and he wanted to talk about orange juice.

GUEST FALLS

"He pushed her aside and she slipped and fell."

"Did he strike her?"

"No. He just pushed her and when she fell he picked her up. She became very nervous and said she was going home."

Mrs. Culbertson said she thought it was dangerous to start "at that hour and under such conditions" and finally persuaded them not to go. She added:

"Everything was all right then, and we retired.

"Cub kissed me good night and went downstairs and slept on the davenport."

The next morning, she said, her husband started drinking at breakfast time and went to the bathroom with Walker soon after the meal.

In cross-examination, Assistant District Attorney Earl T. Adair asked Mrs. Culbertson:

"Isn't it true you told District Attorney Park that you hid the gun because your husband would not take you on the trip?"

"No."

"But you did tell one story about wanting to go on the trip?"

"Yes."

"Were there any blows struck in the kitchen during the argument over the orange juice?"

"No. There were not. He only pushed Hazel aside."

"Did he hit you?"

"He did not."

"Did you quarrel frequently?"

"We argued sometimes."

"Mostly."

NOTE PRODUCED

Attorney Eaton showed Mrs. Culbertson a note which read:

"Don't feed Bob Vitamont every night. Give him salmon—raw meat, et cetera, and go to hell."

She said she had written the note to her husband when she took the children on a vacation last August and after he had refused to help her get their car out of the garage to start the trip, telling her, she testified, to do it herself.

DENIES BEING HIT

Mrs. Walker followed Mrs. Culbertson on the stand.

She testified that Culbertson had not struck her during the orange juice argument, saying:

"He didn't hit me. He was waving his arms and he accidentally struck me."

She testified that breakfast on the day of Culbertson's death began with a bottle of gin on the table. She added that she did not see the shooting and first knew of it when she heard Mrs. Culbertson scream:

"Hazel! Hazel! He's shot."

Albert, Jr., named for the dead man, was expected to go to the stand before the day ended to testify in her defense.

Preceding Mrs. Culbertson to the stand yesterday were several character witnesses, all of whom told of visiting the Culbertson home and of knowing the couple as happily married. They were Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wagenseil, of Oakmont; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ward, of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kennedy, of Mt. Lebanon; Attorney Ralph Baldridge, A. P. Martin, John Lease and Miss Louise Wooster.

TEACHER TESTIFIES

Miss Wooster lives in Mt. Lebanon and is a school teacher. She and Lease were the "company" who called upon the Culbertsons the night before the shooting and played bridge.

BOMB EQUIPMENT SEIZED IN RAID

FEDERAL OFFICERS EXAMINING SOME OF THE EQUIPMENT SEIZED IN THE RAID ON HOME

The source from which federal officers believe the fatal Easton (Pa.) postoffice bombs, one addressed to Pittsburgh, originated in Chicago. All sorts of bomb-making paraphenalia and Columbo Boris were seized. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

CLEARS EASTON BOMB SUSPECT

CHICAGO, March 10.—(AP.)—Hopes that the source of bombs sent through the mails last December, causing deaths to three persons at Easton, Pa., had been discovered were dashed last night when federal officials announced they were satisfied Columbo Boeri, alias Boris, was not connected with the outrage.

Following Boeri's arrest, Tuesday, Murray W. Garsson, special assistant to the Secretary of Labor, said he was satisfied Boeri, in whose home a large quantity of explosives, guns, and anti-Fascist literature were found, was connected with the Easton affair.

Assistant District Attorney James C. Leaton, after spending the day with postal inspectors questioning Boeri, last night said he was convinced Boeri had nothing to do with the sending of the bombs.

Boeri is being held on a $100,000 bond. Officials said it was likely the Department of Labor would seek to have him deported.

Father Seeks Life Term for Ruth Judd

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 10.—(AP.)—The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, 76-year-old father of Winnie Ruth Judd, is circulating petitions asking that her sentence of death for the murder of Agnes Anne Le Roi be commuted to life imprisonment.

Mrs. Judd is in the state prison at Florence. Certification of her appeal automatically will stay execution of the death sentence, set for May 11.

HOMEWOOD MAN KILLED BY AUTO

Adolp Hilpert, 61, of 7209 Idlewild street, was injured fatally today when struck by an automobile at Hamilton and Homewood avenues, dying shortly afterward in the Pittsburgh hospital. The driver, Wade C. Brant, of 250 Martsolf avenue, West View, was to be turned over to the coroner.

J. W. Cunningham, 62, of 3432 Perrysville avenue, his wife, Mrs. Lulu Cunningham, 62, and Helen Smith, 24, of 153 Watsonia boulevard, were injured when their car skidded and struck a pole in Perrysville avenue, according to police report. They were taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Louise Luety, 31, of Spring street, Bellevue, was injured seriously when struck by an automobile driven, police said, by George H. Hess, of Boquet street, in the Ohio River boulevard near Spring street, Bellevue. She was taken to Suburban General Hospital.

Tribesmen Mobilize To Liberate Gandhi

LONDON, March 10.—(INS.)—Forty thousand tribesmen, mobilized under arms in the northwest frontier province, plan to march upon Peshawar, the capital, and demand the release of Mahatma Gandhi, dispatches to the Daily Herald from Bombay said today.

The dispatches said planes of the British royal air force, flying over the district, were fired upon by tribe followers of the aged nationalist leader.

TAX INCREASE INSUFFICIENT, WOOD SAYS

Congressman Sees Higher Boost Needed to Balance Budget; for Sales Levy

International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee, predicted today, following a visit with President Hoover, that the income tax returns due Tuesday would be so small that the tax increase bill under consideration in the House would prove inadequate to balance the budget and would have to be still further revised upwards.

Wood strongly indorsed the sales tax feature of the bill and inferred President Hoover also approved it.

Wood's statement came as the legislative battle for enactment of the new billion-dollar tax increase bill opened in the House.

DEBATE OPENS

Representative Charles R. Crisp (Dem.), of Georgia, acting chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, told the House in opening debate that disaster threatens the nation unless Congress levies more than a billion dollars in additional taxes a year.

Before the tax fight opened, Speaker Garner indicated to newspapermen that the Cullen amendment to tax 2.75 beer may not be in order on the tax bill because it amends the Volstead act. He said parliamentary authorities were considering the question.

Applause greeted Crisp as he described the bill as "a non-partisan American bill." He said he recognized two schools of thought—that which wants to balance the budget with taxes and that which favors issuance of bonds. He said:

"In my judgment no government can continue to run and maintain credit by spending more than it receives.

EFFECT ON WORLD

"The whole world will become frightened as to the financial stability of the United States government if it does not balance its budget. Government bonds will depreciate as will the bonds of industrial concerns and local governments.

"Unless the budget is balanced all relief measures will be futile."

Crisp maintained that a balanced budget, creating confidence in government bonds, will enable banks to lend money to start the wheels of industry.

Deploring the fact that eight per cent of the population controlled 80 per cent of the wealth, Crisp said:

"If this bill becomes law it will go a long way toward dissipating some of these colossal estates into the treasury of the United States."

He asserted that if Congress rejects the sales tax, it must single out industries—levy a high automobile tax, gasoline tax, tax on bank checks, real estate transfers or similar levies to obtain the necessary revenue. The committee chose the sales tax method.

Republican and Democratic leaders were united on balancing the budget next year and the general features of the bill.

WAITER BRAVES BANDIT'S GUN

Three shots from a gunman's pistol narrowly missed James Sotas, a waiter, of 809 Locust street, as he struggled with the intruder in an attempt to block a holdup of a restaurant in the basement of the Rieck-McJunkin plant, Forbes and Stevenson streets, early today.

The robber tore himself loose from Sotas' grip and fled into Stevenson street, where he eluded two drivers attracted by the shots. The robber had taken $80 from the cash drawer.

After partaking of a meal the bandit, the only patron in the restaurant, drew a gun and ordered Sotas into the kitchen with the chef, Nick Camaris, of 235 Sheridan avenue. After watching the thief take the money from the till, Sotas rushed into the front of the establishment and seized him. In the struggle three shots were fired, two of the bullets entering the ceiling of the room.

Plan for 2 Drivers On Buses Opposed

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—Objections to provisions of the Cousens bus bill that would require two operators for vehicles carrying 20 or more passengers were put before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today by Arthur P. Russell, vice president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Russell also opposed provisions limiting work to eight consecutive hours. He said he was appearing as chairman of the Motor Vehicle Law Committee of the Association of Railway Executives.

Roosevelt Requests 35 Millions Relief

ALBANY, March 10.—(INS.)—Gov. Roosevelt sent a special message to the Legislature today recommending a $50,000,000 bond issue and a $5,000,000 appropriation to finance the state's unemployment relief work until January 1, 1934. The Governor declared:

"Conditions which now face us, in their gravity, are akin to war conditions."

LEAGUE COURT BACKERS SPLIT

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The outcome of the League Court fight was clouded with doubt today after the ranks of its Senate friends split badly over controversies arising from the old fifth reservation, which deprives the tribunal of power to render advisory opinions against the United States.

Prominent League Court advocates joined with the irreconcilables in opposing other court followers on the meaning of the Root formula, the Reed declaration interpreting it and the Walsh resolution proposing ratification upon the basis of the Reed interpretation. All three dealt with the fifth reservation, which was rejected by European powers when America agreed to join the court upon that condition in 1926.

The death-knell of the Root formula, standing by itself, was sounded when Senator Robinson, Democratic floor leader of the Senate, said:

"We are right back to reservation five and that is where we ought to be."

KELLY POSTAL BILLS PASSED

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—Two Pennsylvania representatives yesterday bore the brunt of the government's drive for increased postal revenues to help meet the department's deficit.

Four bills designed to bring in $10,500,000 additional revenue were sponsored and guided through the House by Representatives Kelly, of Pittsburgh, and Kendall, of Meyersdale.

Two of the three bills sponsored by Kelly contemplate raising $500,000 each by extending parcel post rates on second class matter except newspapers, magazines and other periodicals mailed by publishers and imposing a $100 fee for the entry of second class mail. The other increasing rates for insurance and collect on delivery service is expected to bring in $2,500,000 more.

Kendall's bill would increase rates on registered mail up to a volume of $1,000 and extend to $10,000 the indemnity the Postoffice Department is allowed to accept.

BONDS TO BOOM TRADE URGED BY RUKEYSER

Public Construction Will End Slump in Business, House Investigators Told

forces of reconstruction and overcome the factors making for timidity. Congress ought to use federal credit boldly.

"An authorization of $5,500,000,000 would be in order, but to minimize adverse effects on the bond market Congress could limit the actual spending and raising of the money to a billion dollars a year, for five years."

Rukeyser told the Committee he had just recently completed a 7,000-mile tour from coast to coast and found no impairment of the physical equipment of the productive machinery of the industries of the United States. Neither is there any insufficiency of raw materials, he said adding:

"We are suffering from disturbed human relationships. As a result of mistakes in management and as a result of blunders in financial management, we have upset the balance between production and consumption. The equilibrium has been disturbed because the buying power of large numbers has been either taken away or seriously reduced."

Building up buying power, he declared, is one of the important problems facing the nation. He told the committee:

"If we could return the millions of unemployed back to payrolls, heads of families would soon begin to buy without public exhortation or ballyhoo."

CONSUMERS SCARED

The American consumer has been scared to death by the government's policy of stressing dire conditions, Rukeyser testified. He said:

"We have scared the consumer to death by sending unemployment fund raisers around from house to house, telling the housewife there were 8,000,000 unemployed and she had better contribute to the fund as her own husband might be unemployed next month.

"We went crazy on spending during the prosperity era, and now we have gone crazy on retrenchment."

The government's policy of keeping up sinking fund payments to reduce the national debt when it cannot balance the budget was described as an economic absurdity by Rukeyser. He said:

"To try to reduce the national debt as rapidly now as when the country was in the prosperity era is an economic absurdity. To even keep up sinking fund payments when there is not enough money to balance the budget is likewise an absurdity."

There are 12,000,000 families in the United States housed little better than animals, testified Edward F. McGrady, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor.

BACK LA FOLLETTE BILL

Pledging the full support of the federation to the La Follette bill, McGrady predicted unemployment would be as great in 1933 as it is today unless the federal government "takes the initiative in creating work for the people." He said:

"The principal criticism heard against this bill is the cost. Our answer is the cost of unemployment will far exceed the cost of creating employment. We have notified leaders of the government that the serious cost of unemployment is already apparent among American families through loss of courage, loss of confidence in the government and lack of respect for laws. This will last long after the depression is over."

Illinois Democrat Wins Congress Seat

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—A House elections committee decided today that Stanley H. Kunz, Democrat, is entitled to represent the Eighth Illinois District in the House of Representatives. It agreed that an official recount showed he was entitled to election instead of Peter C. Granata, Republican incumbent.

the feelings of "lame ducks" if that system prevailed here.

FOLLOWING THE disastrous fire in the Vatican library at Rome, there comes distressing news from Dublin of the destruction of 18,000 rare books in the Catholic library, one of the oldest and most valuable collections of Catholic books in the world. Some of the Gaelic manuscripts, destroyed in the fire, are of value inestimable, many of them perhaps, not yet translated.

It is an interesting fact that the most tireless and useful translators of ancient Gaelic writings have been German scholars.

SOME WET enthusiasts in Congress say IF we could have beer with 2.75 per cent alcohol in it, the government would get $350,000,000 in taxes.

There was a man who said:

"If I had a little milk, I would have some mush and milk, if I had some mush."

MR. TARDIEU of France announces much suffering in his country because "the economic depression involves over-production and under-consumption of French wines." He implores foreign countries to discontinue their heavy duties on wines.

To avoid false hopes, Mr. Tardieu should know two things concerning the United States:

First: It will probably be a long time before this country legalizes light wine and beer, or either.

Second: Such legalization would apply only to wines grown on United States territory.

For his comfort, it may be added that this country probably consumes now as much French champagne as any country in the world and pays a high price for the bubbles that interfere with digestion and ruin the kidneys.

GRAHAM SPEAKS TO EDUCATORS

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—(AP.)—Careful planing and study of school economies is necessary to prevent lowering the standards of education, Dr. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia schools, warned in opening the annual schoolmen's week at the University of Pennsylvania.

The need for economy can be met partly by putting school department heads on the teaching staffs and by reducing the amount of free time for high school teachers, said Ben Graham, Pittsburgh superintendent of schools. He opposed reductions in teachers' salaries.

The most urgent duty of the State Legislature, John C. Bay, Easton school superintendent, declared, is substitution of income taxes for support of schools, in place of property and per capita taxes.

Harangues Crowd To Get Loan For Girl

NEW YORK, March 10.—(INS.)—An odd manner of transacting business usually done in a bank was adopted by Frank K. Moore, 26, unemployed. It yielded him a suspended sentence in court today.

"I want a $50 loan. I'll pay 4 per cent interest and guarantee your money back."

Dapperly dressed, he held a paper and pencil extended as though expecting someone to step up and hand him the money.

Instead a policeman took him before a magistrate. He said he wanted the money for a girl who befriended him when he was starving.

BUILDING DELAY HIT BY DAVIS

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—Charging the administration with "babbittizing our national architecture," Senator Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, protested to Secretary of the Treasury Mills today against the policy of using government architects to plan all new federal buildings.

Davis wrote Mills that Pennsylvania architects were being denied the right to submit plans for federal buildings to be built in that state. He said the Pennsylvania architects were in need of work while the Treasury architects were so over-burdened that federal projects were being delayed.

He insisted the Treasury change its policy and permit local architects to submit plans for the contemplated federal buildings in his state, "particularly in Wilkes-Barre, Landsdale and Tamaqua."

5 LOTTERY RING SUSPECTS HELD

Five alleged leaders of an extensive numbers racket ring, arrested Tuesday when state police raided a storeroom at 312 Mulbery street, McKeesport, waived a hearing and were held for court charged with operating a lottery yesterday by Justice of Peace Bernhard Volk, Versailles Township.

Thirty-six others, arrested on gaming charges forfeited $15 each by failure to appear.

Those held, all of McKeesport, were released on $1,500 bonds. They are Joseph Bahm, and his son, Sidney, of 705 Union avenue; William Reddington, Ruben Building; John Mulligan, Lee street and Paul Whalen, 114 Seventh street.

Trooper Lloyd H. Nicholson, of the Greensburg barracks, who made the informations, said that Reddington is a brother of County Detective James Reddington, and that Whalen is a son of Police Chief John Whalen, of McKeesport.

"Little Italy"

—A New Idea in Knitted Millinery

The same art that has always made Italy famous for fine straws is now being utilized to give the world something different in the popular knitted "softies."

Our Millinery Buyer, on her latest European trip, was intrigued by these fascinating little hats, and bought extensively of knitted sports caps, roll-your-owns, and turban-and-scarf sets; and more formal ones of crystal glace. They have just arrived, and we have established a special "Little Italy" section for their display . . . $1.00 to $5.00.

FLAYS 2-PARTY VOTE SEEKERS

David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, in a speech to the Women's Democratic Club yesterday appealed to Democrats not to vote for Republican candidates seeking both Republican and Democratic nominations. The chairman singled out four Republican Congressmen—P. J. Sullivan, Harry Estep, Clyde Kelly and Guy E. Campbell—for criticism. All are Republicans seeking nomination in both parties.

Lawrence said:

"From the efforts of four out of the five local Republican Congressmen to get Democratic nominations this year it is evident that these gentlemen are not very sanguine of Republican success at the polls in November. I appeal to the Democrats of these congressional districts to rally to the standard of the bona fide Democrats who are seeking these nominations and to work and vote for them."

Assembly Candidate Urges Tax Reforms

John C. Davis, of Mt. Lebanon, candidate for the Legislature from the Twelfth District, has recommended the repeal of two state laws imposing sales' taxes on manufacturers and consumers to relieve the burden of a Federal sales tax. He said:

"In their place I will favor the collection of more of the economic rent which now goes entirely into the pockets, mainly, of non-residents whose incomes are so large that if the state would take 10 per cent of it, the recipients would never miss it. We must put our taxes on surplus instead of earned moneys that are needed for food and shelter for those who are working."

Architect in Race For Congress Seat

Louis A. S. Bellinger, architect of 530 Francis street, Fifth Ward, has announced his candidacy for member of Congress from the Thirty-second District. His platform includes:

Direct Federal aid for needy in any emergency; local option for states desiring modification of the Volstead act; payment in full before the end of 1934 of the soldiers' bonus; a national housing board to devise means of eliminating blighted areas and slums; laws under a secretary of education to eliminate illiteracy; election of the President by direct vote of the people; reorganization of federal defenses to prevent wars of aggression and foreign entanglements.

SHOUP IN RACE AS UTILITY FOE

C. V. Shoup, of West View, candidate for the Legislature from the Thirteenth District, has announced his platform which includes a pledge to reform the public utility laws. He stated:

"I am for such revision that will enable the proper authorities to cancel the charters of public utility corporations that flagrantly violate the terms of their franchises and flaunt the public with unfair rates and inflated values.

"If the water was squeezed out of the public utility corporations to the extent of about 75 per cent of their inflated value and capitalization, fair returns on their actual investments could be paid to the stock and bond holders and the burden lightened on the average citizen."

Shoup declared he would also work for local taxation on public utilities' real estate, relief and insurance for the unemployed, comparable taxation for independent merchants and chain store organizations, reduction of taxes on homes, old age pensions and bank deposit insurance.

POLLS SLEUTH DROPS CHARGE

After costs in two election cases had been placed on him by a Criminal Court jury in one day, Leo Riordan, special investigator for the Independent Republicans and prosecutor in a score or more cases growing out of the September primaries, requested late yesterday that the District Attorney move for a nol pross in a third case. In half a dozen previous cases juries had acquitted the defendants by reason of a lack of evidence of guilty intention, and placed the costs on Riordan.

When the case of G. A. Kennedy, of Wilmerding, indicted on a charge made by Riordan of assuming duties of a member of the election board in the Fourth District, Wilmerding, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk moved for the nol pross, saying it was Riordan's request. Clunk told Judge Elder W. Marshall that Kennedy had assisted the election board, but not with the intention of cheating in the count. Judge Marshall nol prossed the case, placing the costs on Kennedy, but gave him 90 days in which to pay.

Snee's Son Absolved In Auto Fatality

John V. Snee, of 235 Alice street, son of Judge Sylvester J. Snee, of Common Pleas Court, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of William J. Neal, 51, a Negro, of 7768 Thorn street, fatally hurt in an automobile collision at Rippey and Beatty streets, February 18. W. D. Young, a Negro, of 5240 Mansfield street, driver of Neal's car, also was freed.

Madge Flatly Refuses to Obey Veritzen's Command

My body stiffened as if I had been struck a blow at Philip Veritzen's brusque statement that he must absolutely forbid me to go away with Dicky for a three days' rest before commencing the fourth act of my play.

I knew what a martinet he was, and how like a military regime were the conditions which he imposed upon the people in his organization. I knew that he did not spare either highly temperamental and gifted actresses, or high-powered and high-salaried executives in the rigid rules which he laid down for their guidance. I had heard of the supervision which he insisted upon exercising over their private lives, but I never dreamed that he would attempt to apply those rules to me.

Perhaps this was because he never had attempted so to use them during the time that I was associated with him as historical expert in his great producing organization. Why he had thus refrained I would not ask myself, for I knew the answer, and did not care to recall those months of mental stress when so much of my time was spent in parrying or ignoring Philip Veritzen's romantic advances to me. Happily, however, that time and those experiences were effectually shelved. Never again, I knew, would Philip Veritzen annoy me with romantic protestations. If he only would not spoil it by this intolerable petty despotism, told myself wearily, we were on a most delightful plane of friendly literary comradeship as playwright and producer. But I knew what I must do, and I did it promptly.

"I do not think I can have heard you aright," I said quietly. "No one in the world, not even my husband, uses the word forbid to me."

His eyebrows went up, and into his eyes came the arrogant look of the man who never is crossed.

"Your hearing is not defective," he said. And there was in his voice a heavily sarcastic note which I knew he was wont to use like a whiplash upon the sensitive spirits of those in his power who displeased him. "I did use the word 'forbid.' I might have said 'request,' it is true, but I have too much at stake in this play to waste time in quibbling over the right word to use."

"Then," I threw back my head and looked at him steadily, although I clinched my fists behind my back to keep my hands from trembling visibly, "I must tell you that you have no right to 'forbid' me and I must refuse to grant the thing which you have unaccountably chosen to put into a command rather than a request."

Into his eyes for a second, there flashed something terrifying. Fantastic thoughts came to me of the royal throw-back, sinister ancestry of this man, an ancestry not so many years removed from the knout and the torture chamber. If he had the power of life and death, or of physical chastisement, I think at that moment I should have fared ill. Even as it was, I was absurdly glad that I had stationed Lillian in the little room adjoining the library in such a position that she could hear every word of our conversation without the great producer's knowing that she was there. He might have a changed heart as he himself protested. He might not "care for the Madonna motif" as Lillian said, but I intended never to take a chance upon an interview with Philip Veritzen again without having someone within calling distance.

The glare faded from his eyes, but I noticed that his hands were gripping the arms of his chair with tremendous force and when he spoke, though his voice was steady, it betrayed the terrific restraint he was putting upon himself.

"Have you thought," he said with deadly quietness, "what the consequence of your decision will be?"

His meaning was only too plain, and for a second there came over me the deadly sick feeling only experienced by those who have had success snatched from them just as they were beginning to savor the heady draught. If I did not accede to his preposterous request, that I go alone on my week-end ocean-side sojourn, instead of with my husband, he meant to throw aside my play as he would refuse a pair of shoes that did not fit him, and my chances of dramatic success would go glimmering. I think it was with something like the desperation of a cornered animal that I stiffened myself to fight for the cup for which I had thirsted so long, and which now seemed in such danger of being dashed from my lips.

"Will you listen to me for a moment?" I asked quietly.

He bowed with frigid assent, but made no oral reply.

"If I had come into your organization as an actress or playwright," I began, "before I had taken upon myself the responsibilities of marriage and motherhood, I, in all probability, would bow to your rigid regime as do the other people in your organization, but—I never would have taken up the profession of actress, even if I could, after marriage. I did not dream that you expected the same obedience from the people whose plays you consider, as you did from the other members of your organization. But, understanding this, I have but one course open to me. If my success as a playwright depends upon having my private life regulated, then I will have to give up literary success—unless indeed, I can find some producer who has not the rigid ideas that you have."

From what remote corner of my brain had sprung this covert threat which I had voiced almost unconsciously, and what effect, if any, would it have upon Philip Veritzen?

Crofoot. They are making a tour of industrial districts of the East and Middle West.

PLAY CONTEST NEARS END

Decision on the 24 plays submitted to the playwriting contest sponsored in 1931 by the Irene Kaufmann Settlement will be made soon, according to announcement today which said six plays chosen as the best are being held for consideration of production by the settlement players.

Of these six, three will be selected for presentation during an evening of one-act plays by Pittsburgh authors, an annual major event of the players.

"Escape in the Clouds," by Helen H. Mason; "Gun Glory," by Henry W. Vogelsang; "The Man With X-ray Eyes," by Walter Framer; "Straight to the Point," by Belle Roman; "A Doctor to Be," by Paul R. Sissman, and "A Young Man Chooses," by David J. McDonald, were regarded as the six best plays.

Is It Love When Girl Can't Make Up Her Mind?

Like your sundaes very sweet and messy? Then dig a spoon in this one.

Frank has shoulders like Clark Gable and curly locks like Rudy Vallee, and he's Stella's dream man—when she isn't thinking of Jerry.

But, unfortunately, she just can't get Jerry out of her mind. He's one swell guy—and so devoted to her—only he's short! And Stella doesn't like 'em short!

So there it is! And what's a poor gal to do? Shall she grab the tall, handsome hero, or shall she take little Jerry, and try to stoop to his level the rest of her life?

Don't snort. This is serious—to Stella.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Please try to help me, won't you? I am 21 years old—old enough to know love, when I am in love, I guess—and yet I'm not just sure what it is. I am considered very good looking and have many boy and girl friends. I hold a good position, and don't pet or neck.

HER DREAM MAN

"The trouble is there are two different men in my life. One, Frank, is what I would call my dream man—tall, strong, handsome, with blue eyes and dark, curly hair. He is the kind of man I would be proud to call my husband, and he is 23. He has never come right out and told me he loves me, but I know he does.

"The other one, Jerry, is all that is good, and is also very handsome, but blonde. He would do anything for me to make me happy. He loves me dearly, and has told me so. He is 25.

"Jerry really is more suited to me than Frank, I think, but he is shorter than I am, and when I think of Frank's size, height and masculine beauty and his wonderful friendship and love for me I feel that I should marry him some day. Yet I can't bear the idea of giving up Jerry's friendship, either. I think he is wonderful.

GIRL UNDECIDED

"Has a young man's height and looks anything to do with a girl's love for him? I know I would always be conscious of Jerry's being shorter than I, and I hate it when the man is shorter than the woman. Do you think that would kill my love and respect for him?

"Yet how good he is to me, and how he loves me! All my friends say he is the man for me. I love him, too, yet—well, I don't know.

Maybe this sounds foolish, but to me it is a very important problem, and I am very unhappy over it. Frank is really my ideal, but he is not so fine a soul as Jerry. I know that Jerry would do anything in the world for me, he is always so sweet and considerate.

"So—what shall I do? I'm not playing around with hearts. I am a very serious-minded person and consider love and marriage sacred. I do want to be happy, but what shall I do?"

What'll you do? Well, in the first place you'd better grow up, sister, and learn to kill your own snakes. I can't decide whom you shall marry, and unless you can learn to decide for yourself you'll be a mighty poor bet as a wife for anyone.

Never thought of that side of it, did you? No indeed! You've been going around figuring out which one of these boys can do the most for little Stella, and that's why you're in such a muddle.

FORGET ABOUT MARRIAGE

As a matter of fact you're not in love with either of them. You're just hipped on the idea of giving Stella a romantic thrill—and they happen to be handy. When you fall in love you'll know it. Until you do, you'd better get over the notion of marrying anybody.

Would the fact that Jerry is shorter than you "cause you to lose your love and respect for him?" Not if you have any sense. Scores of women have married men shorter than themselves, and have been happy with them. But they were not the sort of women who mooned over an ideal with curly hair, or trick shoulders, or a snappy line.

They were women who had hearts and heads — who had something worth while to give, and gave it.

Man's Conceit Concerning His Charm for Women Is Amazing—Fay King

By FAY KING

Man's conceit concerning his charm for women is amazing! How soon a woman admits to herself that she is older and less attractive. With what self-depreciation she contemplates comparison with younger girls.

But men, bless them, no matter how old, and bald and bleary-eyed and rheumatic, still consider themselves attractive to the youngest and prettiest girls they may meet.

They never seem to consider it possible that younger and handsomer men might interest the girls more.

At 90 in a wheel chair he believes his young and pretty nurse secretly adores him.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Careful Play Yields Eleven Tricks

Talk all you wish about systems of bidding, but a player must be able to wring full value from his cards to win maximum scores. A slight slip on the declarer's part would have cost him game and a penalty on the hand shown:

Z passed. A bid 1-Club. Thinking his hand good for game at no-trumps, if his partner could bid diamonds strongly, Y made an informatory double. It was no time for B to wait. He jumped in with a demand bid of 3-Diamonds. Z passed. Fearing the heart suit at no-trumps, A wisely carried his partner's bid to 5-Diamonds; the informatory double plus his partner's jumped overcall almost certainly indicated great length in diamonds, with outside weakness. Y doubled.

When your partner has made an opening bid you have an indication of what probably will be your best lead. An informatory double, like a no-trump bid, calls for you to show the suit wherein you are strongest and may win one or more tricks. Z was uncertain whether he should lead a spade or a heart. Finally he led his 8 of hearts, echoing with his 2 when Y won his second trick in the suit, thus calling for a third round. But B trumped, and he did not make the mistake of ruffing with his 2. He trumped with his 9, leaving his 2 as a possible means of entering dummy by means of the 6, in case the missing 8 of diamonds fell upon the first lead of trumps. It was well that he had such forethought.

It was plain that B must lose one spade trick unless he could establish dummy's clubs, so as to obtain a discard. Probably the seven missing clubs lay 4-3 with the adversaries. It was extremely improbable that one adversary was void of clubs; if that happened to be the case, fulfillment of B's contract of five must be impossible. B led his lone club, played dummy ace; then he led back a low club, trumping with his 10. The J dropped at his right. B led back his 7 of diamonds, overtook with dummy's K, the 8 dropped by Y made dummy's 6 a card of entry. Another club was led from dummy, and trumped with the J of diamonds. The 2 of trumps was led back, the trick was won with dummy's 6, and a fourth round of clubs cleared that suit, leaving one good club in dummy. B trumped with his Q, leaving him only the ace of diamonds, with three low spades.

All that the declarer had to do to win the balance of the tricks was to lead out his top diamond, put dummy in the lead with a spade, play off A's remaining top spade, and A's long club. The way the hand was played left no room to defeat what at first sight appeared to be an impossible contract.

The above hand was played in a duplicate match at the Tower Club, New York, but only the man who played as indicated above succeeded in going game. It was a hard hand for anyone to play.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Bridal Attendants

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please help settle this question in the mind of a bride-to-be? I am having a wedding at a hotel. The dinner at the hotel consists of 100 people. The dinner is at 5 o'clock, the ceremony at 8 o'clock, and then there is to be a reception. Is it proper not to have the bridal attendants, consisting of four couples, at dinner?

M. H.

It wouldn't be gracious to leave the bridal attendants from the pre-ceremony dinner, especially when you are having so many guests at this dinner. They might feel very much slighted.

Bridesmaid's Flowers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a friend who is being married soon. A says that the groom buys the flowers for the bridesmaid and B says that the best man does. The bridesmaid and best man have never met.

H. T.

The flowers for all or any of the bridal attendants are bought either by the bride's parents (this is the usual way, since they are planned to harmonize with the costume of the attendant), or, if he expresses a wish to send these flowers, they are sent by the groom. It is never correct for the best man to send these flowers.

Sanitarium Best Place to Start Tuberculosis Cure

It is gratifying to learn that deaths from tuberculosis have decreased, but even now we meet too many cases. To permit one to remain untreated is to make it a constant source of danger to all.

Dr. Copeland

The best advice to give a patient with tuberculosis is for him to go for treatment to the nearest tuberculosis sanitarium. There he is educated in the knowledge essential for the care and cure of this disease.

After having gone to a sanitarium for a temporary stay, the sensible patient comes to regret he cannot remain longer. The surroundings, atmosphere and people with whom he comes in contact are found to be delightful. Rather than being a necessary evil, the experience has proved to many a pleasant one.

Of course it is natural to object strenuously to going away from home. It is hard to understand why it is better to go to a sanitarium, or to imagine what can be done at a sanitarium that cannot be done at home.

It is true that the home can be just as comfortable, if not more so, than any sanitarium in the land. Comfort, however, is not the really essential thing. In a sanitarium the routine of the day is planned to make the life of the patient easy, and at the same time of great physical benefit. There the patient is in contact with others striving for the same object, while at home the patient is with people who are well, and who may not grasp all the small, yet important problems of the invalid.

The danger of infecting others does not exist in the sanitarium. If only for this reason, the patient with tuberculosis should seriously consider the wisdom of going to a place built expressly for the care of persons with this disease.

The great benefits derived from treatment in these institutions cannot be over-estimated. Undoubtedly, if all infected persons would seek relief at sanitariums, the percentage of tuberculosis in the world would greatly decrease.

There are many sanitariums throughout the country which are free. These are supported by endowments. Others are under the supervision of the States.

Remember that a visit to a sanitarium is not a life sentence. It is the beginning of the cure of a disease that is often more feared than it should be. A few months there and health is recovered. The cure cannot be obtained if one is frightened by the disease and attempts to hide it.

BOSTON, March 10.—(INS.)—Winston Churchill, British statesman, was given a royal welcome when he arrived at South Station today and extra police had to be called out to handle the crowds.

FOOD PRESERVATION TEMPERATURE
BELOW FREEZING TEMPERATURE
FAST FREEZING TEMPERATURE
WORLD'S RECORD FAST FREEZING
The Iso-Thermic Tube tray, third from the bottom, automatically freezes ice cubes and frozen desserts faster than any other electric refrigerator.

Did I forget?

MANY a bridge party has been spoiled, many a matinee has been a total loss for women who had hurriedly frozen a dessert before leaving home and couldn't remember whether they had turned the freezing-speed dial back to normal.

Not so with the woman who has chosen the full's automatic Kelvinator, the only fully automatic electric refrigerator. She knows that her foodstuffs can't freeze—ever—because her Kelvinator has four distinct zones of cold, automatically and constantly maintained and that the food storage compartment never gets below freezing.

That's just one of many Kelvinator superiorities. The Kold-Keeper that provides refrigeration for many hours after the current is cut off; the Frost Chest for keeping fish, meats and game indefinitely; the automatic electric light; the beautiful, glistening porcelain, both inside and out, and many others that make Kelvinator such an economical, satisfactory electric refrigerator to own.

RACKET CHARGE HOLDS ROST

Arrested on order of Judge Elder W. Marshall in Criminal Court, Michael Rost of Oakmont, was held in $1,000 bail late yesterday for a hearing by Alderman T. A. Flanigan, charged with maintaining gambling devices.

Samuel Scruggs, Negro restaurant proprietor of Oakmont, testified in court that a slot machine had been left in his place by Michael Rost and that although he could not identify him, his wife could. The court summoned Rost and Mrs. Scruggs. She identified Rost and the court ordered his arrest.

10 MORE TOWNS IN SAFETY DRIVE

Ten cities and boroughs of the Pittsburgh district have joined this city in the National City Traffic Safety Contest, designed to reduced automobile fatalities in 1932, according to announcement of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

There were more than 33,000 deaths and 1,000,000 injuries in automobile accidents last year.

Sift Relief Job Plan For West Homestead

West Homestead Council this week will consider an offer of the Emergency Association of Allegheny County to finance repair work on Dovle avenue, which recently caved in. The cost of the work will be $5,200 and will give 18 men work for a period of 24 days at a wage of $3.20 a day. If the work runs more than 24 days the men originally employed will be replaced by others now unemployed.

$3 worth for $1 is $2 saved by using Pepsodent Antiseptic!

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

PLAIN, simple arithmetic is causing millions to change to Pepsodent Antiseptic. Because Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth washes . . . hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times more for your money and gives extra protection against colds, irritated throats. For your protection against germs associated with common ills remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth washes. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds. It is bad enough to have germs in your mouth before you gargle . . . it's worse to have germs after you gargle . . . so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be sure! Be safe—and save money! Now is a good time to start.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Pepsodent Antiseptic does double duty when combating colds and sore throat irritations. For at the same time it checks bad breath. Remember, P. A. is 3 to 11 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics . . . and it kills germs when diluted.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head	After Shaving
Throat Irritations	Minor Cuts
Voice Hoarseness	Blisters
Bad Breath	Loose Dandruff
Cold Sores	Checks Under-Arm Perspiration
Canker Sores	Tired, Aching Feet
Mouth Irritations

FRIDAY—SECOND BIG DAY!

NATIONAL SALES DAYS

When the Advertising Department asked the Buyers for items for tonight's ad, they threw up their hands in protest. "We haven't any new offerings...We bought enough of these extraordinary values to last three days ... So, all you need to do is tell the folks who couldn't get here today, to come tomorrow, to share in the sensational savings." So, we figured we would just list the "High-spots" of each department, and let it go at that ... the only items we are not repeating for tomorrow are the few hour sale specials ... But EVERYTHING else that was offered today will be continued on sale TOMORROW and SATURDAY ... This event should prove a blessing to a lot of people who need wearing apparel for Easter, and who want to fix up their homes for Spring ... More than ever FRANK & SEDER is the store that the average family looks to for leadership in maintaining price levels within reach of the economical purse ... and these NATIONAL SALES DAYS are a striking demonstration of what we are doing to give the public the GREATEST POSSIBLE VALUE FOR THEIR MONEY!

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PILES
Pazo Ointment is effective at once—or money back. Itching, blind, bleeding and protruding piles cause no further suffering or discomfort when treated with Pazo.

News Given First By Globe-Trotter

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, continues to relay the news first—to WCAE listeners. He is on the air at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

A charming chat on everything ranging from lampshades to tricky dusters and needlepoint to facials is given by Madelon during her "Reflections of Madelon's Mirror" broadcast at 10:30 a. m.

Headliners on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air at 11 are Ann Zimet, blues singer, and Bill Moorhouse, tenor, with Herb McGee as master of ceremonies.

A DULL ACHE ACROSS KIDNEYS

Meadville (Kerrtown), Pa. —"I suffered with kidney trouble, had a dull ache across my kidneys and noticed pains in my temples and top of my head. At times I felt nauseated," said Mrs. Henry O. Schwab of 16 Hope St. "Through a friend I learned of Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets for the kidneys. After giving them a trial, the pain in my back disappeared. I always keep 'A-nuric' on hand to take if necessary."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a foul, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely. And make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

ABLE TO WORK?

Soon there will be work for all. Those who are FIT get first jobs. Chronic diseases impair efficiency. Catarrh, Deafness, Head Noises, Asthma, Rheumatism — ALL CHRONIC DISEASES, $1.00 each treatment—a fee all can pay.

CATARRH & ELECTRIC INST.
504 Granite Bldg. 315 Sixth Av. at Wood
Hours 10 to 4. Mon., Thurs., 10 to 8.

Don't let them count you out!

Better still—why not bring out the hidden beauty in your skin

"I am so happy my skin is now clear"

You, too, may have a clear, smooth skin

"When old friends neglected me . . . and new friends were harder to make . . . I had sense enough to know something had to be done to clear up my skin.

"Happily, I heard about S.S.S. and put it to the test. It was not long before I could see an improvement—now I am simply overjoyed—I not only have a clear skin, but my system is strengthened, too, and again I mingle with my friends and associates with confidence."

Beneficial results come from within

Medical authorities say that skin troubles commonly manifest themselves when the system is in a weakened and "run-down" condition . . . that the skin must have a ratio of body balance . . . must have resistance from within.

In a large degree this resistance is measured by the hemoglobin content of the blood and the number of rich, red-cells it contains. They are the workers that carry nourishment and oxygen throughout the body . . . also they remove the poisonous carbon dioxide. Upon their strength and number largely depends the body's vitality . . . its resistance against infection and disease.

When these precious red-blood-cells are lowered in number, due to overwork, worry, colds, sickness, or dietary neglect, the system suffers . . . usually lowered blood count is symptomed by quick fatigue, lack of appetite, pimples, boils, paleness, or other evidences of a "run-down" condition. Dangerous consequences often follow the neglect of a lowered blood count.

S.S.S. gives New Strength

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach . . . reviving the appetite . . . aiding digestion . . . regenerating hemoglobin . . . restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one-half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

A distinctive thing about S.S.S. is that it is made from fresh roots, barks and herbs . . . it is readily absorbed by the system. Another thing is that its efficiency has been proved by scientific tests and by its use for more than 100 years. It is a safe Tonic to take.

S. S. S. is an economical way to health. Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. It may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

Dingy, Yellow Teeth are NOT Natural

You'll see proof in 3 days

—teeth 3 shades whiter!

NOW don't be fooled into believing that yellow, ugly looking teeth are your bad luck simply because daily brushing doesn't make them white and keep them sound.

Dingy, off color, unclean teeth are NOT natural! If you want proof start using this new scientific technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. Overnight you'll agree you were wrong. And in 3 days your teeth will be much whiter—at least 3 shades whiter.

Double-Action, Double Results

There's nothing in the world that cleans teeth better than Kolynos. There's no preparation quite like it. It is unique. It contains two important ingredients. One—the finest cleansing agent known—literally foams over teeth and gums and into every crevice. It washes away debris, erases tartar and removes stain. At the same time the second ingredient strikes at the source of most tooth and gum troubles. It kills millions of germs that swarm into the mouth and cause discoloration, decay and gum diseases. (In tests Kolynos killed 190 million germs in 15 seconds, protected the mouth for 3 full hours.)

In this way Kolynos easily and quickly cleans teeth right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury. It stimulates lazy gums and refreshes the entire mouth.

No! Dingy, yellow teeth are NOT natural. Prove it. Start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush, morning and night. In just 3 days you'll see that anyone can have clean, attractive teeth. Buy a tube of this highly concentrated dental cream today.

LISTENING IN—With the Radio Editor

RUDY VALLEE returns to the air. Winston Churchill makes his microphone debut and Walter Winchell sails his "magic carpet" across the ocean to Germany tonight for an evening of radio entertainment which is one of the most notable of the year.

Rudy, in top form after his first vacation in three years of broadcasting, sings some new numbers from Boston, where he has started his tour with George White's Scandals." Ray Perkins, Graham McNamee and the Ponce Sisters also are in Boston for the program, on WCAE at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Churchill, eminent English statesman and writer who was in Pittsburgh earlier this week, is heard for the first time by an American radio audience when he is interviewed by Edwin C. Hill, "the man in the front row" on WJAS at 10. Mr. Churchill also speaks from Boston.

Miss Goldsmith

Mrs. Winchell's "blah-boy" has scheduled Dajos Bela and his orchestra from Berlin, along with Joe Moss and his musicians from New York, for WCAE at 10.

Heading a notable array of song-birds are Amy Goldsmith, noted soprano, with Welcome Lewis on WCAE at 9; Sylvia Froos, on WJAS at 7:30; Irene Beasley, on WJAS at 9:15; the Countess Olga Albani, on KDKA at 9:30, and June Pursell, on KDKA at 10:45.

Leopold Stokowski creates more radio history Saturday night when he directs the Philadelphia Orchestra in a two-hour and 45-minute program of modern music, including three Russian compositions. Sponsors of all regular programs are vacating the air from 8:15 to 10 on every station of the Columbia chain for the broadcast, scheduled here through WJAS.

Program Pointers

"Putting Lazy Dollars Back to Work" is the subject of an address by C. K. Robinson, first vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, as part of the government's "baby bond" drive on KDKA at 6:05.

Henry, the KQV janitor, is pressed into service as a sound effects man and gets them all mixed up in KQV's "Henry and Mr. Cooper" skit at 8:30.

Morton Downey sings his old theme-song, "Wabash Moon," and introduces a new number, "Lonesome, That's All," on WJAS at 7:45.

The Alfred Kendall Players present another of their "Broadcasts from the Green Room," on WWSW at 10:45. Alfred Goldenberg, Pittsburgh playwright, is author of the scripts.

Sole survivor of 300 young German sailors who escaped from a war prison near Cape Town, Africa, Commander Ludwig Ehlers, now an officer of the U. S. Coast Guard, is interviewed on WJAS at 5:15.

Aces of the Air on KQV at 8, feature Ben Brad, tenor, and the Candy Club Orchestra, from Chicago.

Fred W. Lotz, WWSW organist, presents the fourth in his series of two-a-week programs at 7.

Countess Olga Albani, who starts her new engagement as soloist in that coffee program on KDKA at 9:30 tonight, has declined offers to appear in three musical shows.

Fan Fare

DONNA DAMEREL, who is "Marge" of the "Myrt and Marge" series, has been adjudged the most beautiful radio star in the Midwest. . . . The poll for national honors will be taken next month. . . . Ann Leaf has such tiny feet her shoes are made to order, size 3½A. . . . Now a group of Smith College girls have organized a Sylvia Froos Club. . . . George Frame Brown, creator of "Real Folks," is studying voodooism. . . . Harry Frankel, who is both "Singin' Sam" and "The Singing Master," used to accompany himself on the guitar, but someone else does it for him now. . . . Ethel Barrymore says she is Bing Crosby's most devoted admirer. . . . And incidentally, it's rumored that unless CBS gets a sponsor for him soon, Bing is going to get an afternoon spot.

Miss Damerel

Jim Borelli, member of the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club Band, recalls the days when he played in Sousa's Band, traveling from 20 degrees below zero in Miles, Mont., to 80 above in San Antonio, Tex., in 48 hours. But the "March King," he says, never complained about the weather.

"Easy Aces," that new serial about bridge, on WJAS, is put on with the microphone in the center of a card table. And it was written by a man whose first name is Ace—Ace Goodman, former newspaperman.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. Results will surprise you. Costs only a few cents.

HILL'S Cascara Quinine Compound

Troubled With Pimples For Ten Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"For about ten years I was troubled with a breaking out of pimples on my face, near the edge of my hair, and in my eyebrows. The itching was very severe and when I scratched it caused disfigurement. My eyebrows fell out.

"I used other remedies but they did not do any good. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and before long I was entirely healed." (Signed) Mrs. E. Salmon, 5021 Unruh St., Phila., Pa.

PROGRAM

Serenade ..... Mozart
Suite in C ..... Boccherini
Suite Op. 14 ..... Sibelius
Omaga Love Song ..... Busch
Shepherd Boy ..... Grieg
Homeward ..... Grieg

The String Symphonic Ensemble of Pittsburgh continued its series of concerts in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night. It was a pity to see no larger an audience on this occasion, for never before has this group played so well, and surely the program was an ideal arrangement for these players.

Mr. Lissfelt

Both the Mozart and Boccherini music is well known and eternally beautiful. It was made for intimate courts and small ensembles. Sibelius has put the tang of the North and of modern harmony into his suite; although an early work it presages much that we find in his later songs and symphonies. The allegretto is a fortunate piece of writing with its lilting melody.

The absence of soloists doubtless added to the musical success of this concert. It is not entirely objectionable to include a singer in these programs, for there is fine music made for such an accompaniment of strings. But the singers who have appeared during these concerts have without exception chosen injudiciously in offering their songs.

Roosevelt Followers Here Heartened

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Pro-Roosevelt Democrats in Pennsylvania have been heartened by the primary result in New Hampshire, where the New York Governor defeated Al Smith in a contest for eight delegates to the national convention. The victory was emphatic, though Smith carried the biggest industrial center.

How significant the New Hampshire result is cannot be determined at this stage of the pre-convention campaign. It was reported some time ago that Smith was reluctant to get into the fight, but, however that may be, the fact remains that he entered, and was beaten. There can be no going behind that return.

What does this mean for Pennsylvania? Don't look for the answer here. But it is reasonable to expect something of a battle. Philadelphia should go for Smith, but the Philadelphia Democratic organization is not the dominant party factor that the Philadelphia Republican organization is.

Guffey Thinks State Will Be Roosevelt's

Joseph F. Guffey and others on the Roosevelt bandwagon will concede the eastern city to Smith, and still give you facts and figures to show that Roosevelt will win the state by a substantial majority. That, however, would mean only the vote of the delegates-at-large, should the pro-Roosevelt slate go through in its entirety—which is doubtful.

If that occurs we shall have the spectacle of Democrats defeating their state chairman, John Collins, and their national committeeman, Sedgwick Kistler, each of whom refused to abide by the primary preference, and declared he would go to Chicago only as an unpledged delegate. Each is trying to do so, and by setting up candidates against them the Roosevelt people have drawn a clear issue, and one of far-reaching potentialities.

Presumably, if Collins and Kistler are beaten, they will be removed from the party posts they now hold through committeemen carried through on a Roosevelt wave.

Mixed Results Likely In Allegheny County

Roosevelt may win the state and yet not have all the delegates, for 68 of these are elected by congressional districts, two to a district. In Philadelphia the uninstructed group, or the Smith group, interchangeable designations for the same men, may defeat the Roosevelt delegates. Here in Allegheny County there may be mixed results, as the rival factions have two candidates in each district. The personality of the local candidates as much, or more, as the personality of the two New York leaders, may be a determining factor.

The interesting revelation would be the second choice of all of these men, Roosevelt and Smith rooters. Do they lean to Newton Baker, to Ritchie of Maryland, to Speaker John Garner, of Texas? Not only would that information be interesting, but it would be important, for, as has been said before, the Democrats now realize their convention will be no one-ballot affair, quickly decided in an atmosphere of complete harmony.

* * *

Wider Discussion of Garner Is Heard Here

Whatever these would-be president makers have in their minds, it is nevertheless a fact that there is a wider discussion of Garner in this community, and it is heard not alone among Democrats. Those now talking of the Texan are not going to Chicago, but they will be sending representatives who may, and should, be responsive to their sentiment as the balloting goes on and if it develops that Roosevelt is a hopeless bet.

Word from New Hampshire is that bigotry and intolerance, so viciously prominent in the last presidential campaign, reared their heads in the Tuesday primary. Probably that is inevitable. So far as Pennsylvania is concerned, the Roosevelt leaders, to their credit, will have no traffic with such evil political weapons. But it is doubtful if the issue can be fully submerged in some sections of the state. It should be remembered that there were some normally strong Democratic sections in the state which did not assist Smith in 1928.

2 DEAD, 7 HURT IN COASTING ACCIDENTS

Mt. Lebanon Brother, Sister Killed as Sled Crashes Into Auto; Police Act

Safeguarding of sled tracks for children was ordered today by Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh after numerous coasting accidents had been reported.

Two children, brother and sister, were dead and seven others were suffering injuries from coasting accidents in the Pittsburgh district last night.

Supt. Walsh ordered police inspectors to designate streets in their districts unfrequented by motorists and without dangerous intersections for coasting, to rope off the streets and have the beat patrolman observe coasters and safety measures.

Tomas Rancel, 7, of 606 Bower Hill road, Mt. Lebanon, died in St. Joseph's Hospital today, following the death last night of his 4-year-old sister, Jean Agnes. They were injured, along with their uncle, Jack Fording, 15, when their sled crashed into the fender of an automobile in East Marlin drive, Mt. Lebanon, according to the Coroner's report.

The Fording lad, with a fractured hip and other injuries, was said to be in a critical condition in the St. Joseph's Hospital.

DRIVER HALTED AUTO

The accident occurred, police said, when James C. Boseman, of 459 Jayson avenue, Mt. Lebanon, drove his machine into East Marlin drive which is partially restricted for coasting. When he saw the approaching sled he drove the car to the curb and stopped. As he did so the sled crashed into his car, police said.

M. A. Dorsey, 65, of 5115 Blair street, his wife, Mrs. Henrietta Dorsey, 63, and Anna Sebesta, 17, of 5121 Langhorn street, were injured when they were knocked down by a bobsled at Elizabeth and Blair streets. Dorsey, who suffered a fractured collarbone and a probable fracture of the skull, was taken to Homeopathic Hospital. His wife and the Sebesta girl were treated by a physician.

Six persons, several of them young women, were coasting on the sled, police said.

HIGHLAND PARK CRASH

Injured in a coasting accident in Highland Park, Paul S. Patterson, 27, of 3530 Beechwood boulevard, was in Pittsburgh Hospital, and Wilson Calhoun, 25, of 5807 Walnut street, in West Penn Hospital. They were injured when their sled collided with an automobile, according to police report.

Jessie Lloyd, 14, of McWhinney street, Homestead Park, was knocked unconscious when her sled crashed against a pole while she was coasting near her home last night. She was treated at Homestead Hospital and sent home.

15,000 in Churches Working to Help Reception Here

More than 15,000 young church people of Allegheny County are busy working to assure the success of the presentation of an English-speaking Passion Play in Syria Mosque for a two-week period beginning March 21. The play has been completed after more than two years' work, under the direction of Joseph Meier, famous German "Christus."

The Pittsburgh presentation is being sponsored by church groups, including the Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Union, the Baptist Young People's Union, the Luther League and the Young People's Christian Union. William Wise is chairman of an executive committee composed of representatives of each group. A preliminary presentation will be given for a week at New Castle, under the auspices of the Cathedral Association of the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Meier appeared in America in a German play several years ago and received many requests for an English play. In Germany he has played every male role in the play. He will play "Christus" here and Paul Dietz, another German, will be seen as "Pilate."

Rum Suspect Crashes Door To Admit Dry Raiders

Since the advent of prohibition, complaints have been heard of dry agents crashing doors of buildings in search for contraband liquor, but yesterday official recognition was taken of an entirely different situation.

According to testimony before the United States commissioner, Raymond Connor, 30, alleged proprietor of a speakeasy on South Twenty-seventh street, "kicked in" his own place of business to admit raiders.

The agents said they were seeking admittance by rapping on a side door when a man stooped in front of the building and inquired what they wanted. The agents told him they wanted in to get a drink.

The agents said he produced a key and opened the front door. He had difficulty in opening an inner-door, so he "crashed" it in with his foot. Three prohibition agents, according to the testimony, lined up in front of a 15-foot bar and each ordered a drink of whisky.

Connor obliged, it was testified, by setting three drinks on the bar and then was startled by one of the visitors saying:

"Thanks a lot—we are prohibition agents."

The agents then searched the premises. They testified they found a gallon of whisky and five cases of home brew behind the bar and 11 cases of home brew in the basement.

Connor was held for court. In default of $1,500 bond he was committed to jail.

ELECTIONMOVES CHECKED BY AUDITORS

Report of County Finances Must Await Return of Mansfield, Who Is Ill

The certified public accountants who have been delving into the records of the County Commissioners' office are about ready to make a report. That it will be bad news for a number of the lesser lights of the former administration is the gossip about the Courthouse.

Nobody connected officially with the audit had anything to say about it when interviewed. However, it has been authoritatively learned that for several weeks the accountants have been tracing canceled checks, records of what they believe to be irregular or illegal transactions concerning the conduct of elections.

SCAN PRINTERS' BOOKS

For three weeks several of the bookkeeping experts have been making a check of the books of the William G. Johnston Company which has done practically all of the county's election printing for many years. An official of the company yesterday confirmed this report and said that although he did not know the reason for the investigation that every record in their possession is open to inspection by the auditors.

For years the election supplies in the many political subdivisions of the county have been handled through the County Commissioners' chief clerk. Checks in payment have been issued directly to him. The trail of these checks has been engaging the auditors' attention. Just what they have been able to develop by the extant records will probably be contained in the report they have indicated they will submit to the Commissioners as soon as Commissioner W. D. Mansfield returns to his office. Mansfield has been ill for a week.

M'GOVERN TOO BUSY

Asked about the progress of the audit yesterday and the possibility of the involving of several former employes of the Commissioners in the matter that may grow out of the elections transactions, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern said:

"I don't know anything about it. I have been busy working out the reorganization of the Department of Public Works. We have that done now and in the new Department of Highways there isn't a vestige of the old outfit left."

Commissioner C. M. Barr, said that until the auditors complete their report and Mansfield returns to his office that nothing will be divulged concerning the audit. He said:

"As far as I am concerned the auditors have an absolutely free rein in this investigation. If they are ready with a report I will insist that it be withheld until Commissioner Mansfield returns.

VICTIMS TO PICK METRO BANDITS

From a "stand-up" of 20 men today 10 victims of the holdup February 14 of the Metro Club, in Murray avenue, were to attempt to pick out the five men under arrest in Youngstown, O., as the bandits.

Those indicted are Donald M. Joyce, Roy Marino, Leo Lee, alias George Green, and Fred Bowser. A fifth indictment named John Doe. Gov. George White, of Ohio, at a hearing in Columbus, declared extradition papers of Gov. Gifford Pinchot would be honored after positive identification of the suspects in the "stand-up."

Assistant District Attorney Earl Jackson and City Detectives Walter Monaghan and Thomas Morgan will have the witnesses at the "stand-up" in Youngstown police headquarters.

Man Shot in Hand Examining Pistol

While John F. Meyers, of 1809 Middle street, Sharpsburg, was visiting at the home of his friend, Mrs. Josephine Lucas, at 1026 Main street, Sharpsburg, last night, he became interested in firearms.

Mrs. Lucas showed Meyers a rusty, old-fashioned revolver which he tried to shoot, but it failed to go off. She then showed him her new .32 caliber revolver. While examining it, Meyers pulled the trigger and a bullet pierced his hand.

Politicians This Year Are Dry or Else—or Both

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

The fact that President Hoover refuses to turn wet means nothing to the boys who think that malted milk is a waste of malt.

There will be a big turnover in politics this summer. The wets will be dry. The drys will be wet. The boys who can't make up their minds will both.

They'll hop the way the cat jumps but they'll stay up in the air longer. The well dressed politician will be armor-proofed with silver flasks and will wear the old oaken bucket for a hat.

That's what makes a politician a diplomat. He's the country store of life. No matter what you want he has it.

The rabid drys claim that modification means nullification and nullification spells secession. But we have no dread of a civil war in which the drys would surrender for a drink.

But why worry about 1932? Why not let things go along the way they are and both sides claim the victory?

CAIN TO LIST TAXPAYERS

A permanent mailing list of Allegheny County taxpayers is being sought by County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, with a view to sending out tax statements each year.

All taxpayers are requested to register names, addresses and location of property as to ward, borough or township, at Room 108, Courthouse. Those registering will receive tax statements without the necessity of calling personally or sending a written request. These, under the new system, will be mailed 60 days before the expiration of the discount period.

Dinner Ends Session Of Photo Finishers

The annual dinner of the Master Photo Finishers of the United States and Canada last night closed an all-day session in Fort Pitt Hotel. Cedric G. Chase, president, in an address during the day, declared the organization believes their industry basically sound, and this year will spend as much for promotion work as ever before.

Other speakers at the session were Joseph G. Taylor, vice president; David S. Merriam, of the Pako Corporation; M. C. Griswold, of the Eastman Kodak Company, and Joseph L. Werner, Jr., of the Pittsburgh Eastman Kodak stores.

River Drag Goes on For Bet Swimmer

Police today resumed dragging the Monongahela River near the site of the new South Tenth Street Bridge for the body of August Serraro, 20, of Lombard street, who was believed to have drowned in an attempt to swim across it during the frigid weather Tuesday night. Serraro was said to have wagered his friends he could swim across the stream. He boasted, his friends said, of swimming across the river last March.

BACKERS, FOES OF PROPOSAL AIR VIEWS

Need of Action Admitted in Charity Revenue Crisis; Taxpayers' Burden Feared

City Council has withheld a decision on the advisability of a $5,000,000 bond issue and a $500,000 appropriation of unemployment relief until tomorrow afternoon when organizations for and against the proposals may again state their views.

Legislation for the bond issue must be started by Monday, or it will be impossible to place the question on the ballots for the April 26 primaries and it is estimated that a special election would cost the city approximately $65,000.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association must decide by next Wednesday whether it will continue work or close its doors, Frank B. Bell, their spokesman, told Council yesterday.

MAYOR HEARS DEBATE

Representatives of the Emergency Association and Welfare Fund spoke for submitting the bond issue to the voters. Prominent realtors spoke against it. A compromise was proposed by the Retail Merchants' Association. Mayor Charles H. Kline heard the arguments without comment.

Councilman P. J. McArdle pointed out that city taxpayers pay a large percentage of county taxes. John S. Herron, president of Council, suggested that Council approve the cause but said the entire bond issue might well be obtained from the County Commissioners since citizens of Pittsburgh would still bear 60 per cent of the burden.

Opposing factions seemed nearer to agreement at the close of the conference. Emergency Association leaders declared they were not in favor of selling the bonds if there is any alternative.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

It just shows you how we can get all excited about something, and think that life and death depend on it, and in six weeks nobody can remember it. Those poor delegates, they was fairly well known a month ago, now their own folks don't know where to send them mail. I am going to ask for contributions for funds to build a home for delegates who have been sent off to conferences and forgotten.

Yours, WILL.

P. S. What a wise guy that Charley Dawes was to escape that burial alive.

Spring 'Flitting' Time, 'Phone Survey Shows

Forty-eight per cent of Pittsburgh's annual flittings are made during March and April, a survey of telephone transfers, made by William Bradford, division manager of the Bell Telephone Company, shows.

Approximately 20,000 telephone transfers are made a year, with April furnishing the most, or more than 30 per cent of the total. These changes constitute an accurate barometer of "moves" among Pittsburghers generally, Bradford said.

Figures obtained from a two year period show that more telephones are moved during February, March and April, and in September and October. The high April transfer is occasioned by the fact that most leases terminate at the first of May and some of the actual moves may not be made until the following month. The report says:

"As a result of its studies in connection with the 'moves' of Pittsburgh telephone users, the company has been able to organize its forces to care for installations and the furnishing of service when desired."

DIPLOMAS HERE FOR WRITERS OF ESSAYS

More Washington Contest Prizes Awaited; Lists To Be Open Until April 4

A package containing 50 diplomas — the first of the group of awards to be given for the writers of winning essays in the Hearst contest on George Washington's farewell address, arrived in Pittsburgh today.

Shipped to the contest editor of the Sun-Telegraph the diplomas with gold cup and gold silver and bronze medals to follow will be turned over to the committee judging the essays.

The contest, however, will continue open until April 4 and any one under 21 may enter by submitting an essay on the farewell address. The limitations are included in the following classifications.

The name, age, address and school affiliation, if any, should be written on an attached piece of paper.

The classification and prizes.

The William Randolph Hearst gold cup and $100 for the best essay, not to exceed 500 words in length, in any class, by any person up to the age of 21 years.

For the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length, by any person between the ages of 16 and 21, in or out of school, the Hearst gold medal for second, silver medal and third, bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in any junior high school, a gold medal for second, a silver medal and for third, a bronze medal.

For the best essay, not to exceed 400 words in length, by any child in the grammar grades, a gold medal with silver medal for second, and bronze medal for third.

In each of the classes 2, 3, 4 and 5, there will be awarded 100 diplomas for honorable mention for the 100 best essays produced in each class after the first, second and third prizes have been awarded.

COUNCIL SIFTS RELIEF BOND PROPOSAL

suing the bonds if there is any way out, but we are back to our last line of defense."

J. R. Brady, speaking for the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, finally suggested that every effort be made to raise the money from other sources and if all else fails that a special levy be asked.

Edgar J. Kaufmann, speaking for the Retail Merchants Association, also was not in favor of the Emergency Association's program, with the provision that Council would not oppose the bond sale, but reserve the right to oppose other source of income as exhausted. A further campaign for private funds with a goal of $750,000 per year from each employe to be matched by a similar sum from the employer, was suggested.

The crisis in relief affairs was explained by Mr. Bell. The number of families receiving aid increased from 24,000 to 28,000 in the week ending yesterday.

OWNERS NEUTRAL

The Building Owners and Managers sent a letter in which they refused to go on record either for or against the bond issue, but suggested that if the issue is approved it be used for the building of flood walls and improvement of the wharves. Much additional revenue from parking was seen as a result of this improvement.

Herron strongly urged another drive for private funds. He warned of the possibilities of destroying the city's credit.

Senator James J. Coyne was called upon to speak as a property owner in both city and county. The hardships of the people of Allegheny County should be relieved, he declared, but insisted that the money be spent through the regular channels of city government rather than the welfare organization.

In closing his speech, he suggested taking 20 per cent of incomes over $3,000 per year for relief.

Senator Frank J. Harris has opened headquarters in William Penn Hotel for his campaign to furnish jobs each to 24,000 families over a period of three months. Workers are organizing today for an intensive campaign, Senator Harris said.

"Many volunteers have already offered to help a family. We are going after the big fellows first."

Justice of the Peace Joseph Buttyan, of Chalfant Borough, after pleading guilty to extortion before Judge Elder W. Marshall, in Criminal Court, was required by the Judge to resign his commission, which had two years to run. The Judge then paroled Buttyan for one year, explaining that the evidence showed no wilful extortion, but rather a technical violation of the law. He said:

"Your ignorance of the law is so great that you are unfit to serve as Justice of the Peace."

Buttyan was charged with extorting $75 from Antonio Sparato, who had been arrested for having liquor in his possession. Records of the Justice's office showed the suspect had been fined for conducting a disorderly house without a hearing being held.

The Judge said Buttyan had no right to impose a fine without a hearing and should know that all violators of the liquor laws must be held for court.

Former Constable John T. Thomas, indicted with Buttyan for conspiracy, was also paroled.

SHALER VOTE BOARD NAMED

A new election board for the First District of Shaler Township was named today by Judge Elder W. Marshall in Quarter Sessions Court following the resignation of the old board. New board members are: Judge D. O. McCracken Hawthorn road, majority inspector; Mrs. Mary B. Lang, 403 Davis avenue, minority inspector; Mrs. Margaret Hunter, Seavey road.

They replace Jacob Diebold, W. J. Muhlfried and Daniel D. Brown who resigned March 7. Attorney W. J. Connelly, representing the new board, told the court that following the November election, discrepancies had been found between the number of ballots in the box and the number of people who voted.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Suggestions to Aid in Making Reports to Government

Claims for deductions for losses are divided into three classes, and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income tax laws. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business or profession; (2) in any transaction entered into for profit, or (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualties, or by theft.

Business losses result, usually, from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of inventories which are required whenever in the opinion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue their use is necessary to determine the income of any taxpayer.

The term "transaction entered into for profit" means any kind of a business proposition. For example, a taxpayer purchases an automobile to be used solely for business purposes, and which is sold at a loss. As this is a business proposition from start to finish the loss is deductible. But if he had purchased the automobile to be used for pleasure or convenience, the deduction would not be allowed; it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the theft of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible as it falls in class 3. If because of faulty driving but not of "wilful negligence" an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained, as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty." Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the automobile of the taxpayer collides, the loss occasioned the taxpayer likewise is deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent by which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

JOB DRIVE LED BY PENNA.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—The war against depression campaign aimed at obtaining 1,000,000 jobs for unemployed Americans was nearly one-fifth of the way toward its goal today.

Eighty-four communities in 28 states reported yesterday to headquarters here that they had added 7,495 wage earners to the previous total, bringing the number of persons returned to wage earnings positions since mid-February to 184,812. Forty-eight of the communities made their first reports.

Pennsylvania's 3,161 was the greatest state total for the day.

The campaign is conducted by the American Legion, its auxiliary, the American Federation of Labor, the Association of National Advertisers and thousands of other volunteer organizations.

KERR PROPOSES CITY SURVEY

Council will receive a resolution Monday to authorize a control survey of city affairs by the Central Records Company of Chicago, Controller James P. Kerr said today.

Kerr said such surveys are an innovation in municipal affairs. He said the system is in use in the Kaufmann department store. Edgar J. Kaufmann, president of the store, recommended the system to Kerr.

Kaufmann, appearing before Council's committee on rearings yesterday with Dr. Kerr, pointed out that the survey could be conducted at no expense to the city. Its purpose, he said, was centralization of all appropriation, budget, tax and expenditure figures. Aside from this, machinery that might be installed should Council decide the survey was worthwhile would keep a continuous running inventory and accomplish many other accounting-control services.

No "Acid Headache" No Upset Stomach

Science says: "If you do, the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST and EASIEST way to avoid FEELING its results is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia taken this way:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a whole ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips Milk of Magnesia tablets, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes the excess acids in your stomach and alkalinizes its contents, sweetens them; banishes headaches and sour stomach.

Demand genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, either the liquid form or the new, convenient tablets.

The era when children were seen, but not heard, is so far past in Pittsburgh that the young folks are going to have a theater of their very own.

Starting Saturday morning, April 2, at 10:30 o'clock, at the Nixon Theater, a series of little plays for children, will open the beginning of the permanent theater. The first play will be "Aladdin," and it is hoped there'll be a daily. Besides a number of novelties are being planned to entertain the youthful theatergoers.

Many society women who are mothers of small folks will serve as patronesses. Among them will be Mrs. E. P. Reed, Mrs. William B. Schiller, Jr., Mrs. Arthur P. Barringer, Mrs. William L. Gibson, Mrs. Gerald Wilt, Mrs. Charles H. Matthews, Mrs. Francis J. McKnight and Mrs. Frank McCready.

Rose Natalie Yost, former manager of the Pittsburgh Cinema Guild and of the Pittsburgh Chamber Music Society, and C. A. Wakeman are directing the new theater.

B-P. W. First Organization of Sex To Be Admitted Within Staid And Exclusive Portals

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

In the words of Judge Sara Soffel, for the first time in its history, the doors of the Duquesne Club were crashed by a woman's organization when the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club celebrated National Business Women's Week with a dinner there last night.

More than 100 guests, a few of them men, were present. Mrs. Lillian Torrence read that beautiful "Collect for Club Women," by Mary Stuart, herself a B. P. W. member. Miss Martha Morrison, president of the club, voiced a word of welcome and introduced several representatives of other clubs and distinguished guests, among them Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Clubs, and Mrs. Margaret Stewart Gray, founder of the Pennsylvania Federation of Business and Professional Women.

There was music by Charles W. Hall, tenor, with Miss Eleanor Moren accompanying, and Miss Alice Schoenefeldt, soprano with Miss Grace McMillan at the piano.

But the chief interest of the evening centered around the splendid talk given by Miss Thyrsa W. Amos, dean of women at Pitt. Taking "The Art of Living" as her subject, Miss Amos defined art as "a means of address" and said that the important thing in the art of living is the wise use of materials—the mind and body. Vision of the whole person is necessary and distinction must be made between mind as merely intellect and mind as imagination, emotion and spirit, she said.

Talks on Living

She drew a nice distinction, too, between education and culture, saying the educated person has facts and the cultured person makes use of them. One must have the idea of being and becoming excellently human. Miss Amos went on, urging her hearers to challenge their philosophy of life, to develop a sensitiveness to the best and to cultivate the inner riches that make for enjoyment.

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 10.—Back interest still characterizes many of the new evening frocks, although most of them show little back above the waistline. But the intricate strappings that mark and make the back decolletage and the bows at the waistline are very interesting and almost make the frock. This season there will be many flounced, ruffled or tiered skirts done in the manner of Worth and much liked by women always. The ruffled skirt gives a soft look that is most attractive, especially for the younger woman, by whom it should be worn. For the more mature woman the skirt on long, clinging lines is more attractive and becoming. Black is shown, but not featured here, and is often combined with strong color note giving the key to the accompanying accessories. Nearly every house features colors for evening, lots of blue, some red and green, all very well done, none of them showing any radical changes except for a strong leaning toward the Directore. Yet all managing to subtly convey the information that they are of this spring's crop.

* * *

THE FROCK is by Worth and is of black grosgrain silk. The bodice is fitted with darts and accents the bust in the approved manner of the season. The narrow belt is clasped at one side with a buckle and tassel of coral beads. The seven flounces which form the skirt are circular in cut, with the fulness massed at the left side in each instance.

FLIGHT WINNER TO SEE AIR SHOW

Entertainment Waits Pittsburgh Boy In Detroit

Here's an opportunity for boys who like to fly and who will appreciate a chance to see the very latest in models and gadgets for airplanes.

The Sun-Telegraph, co-operating with the National Aircraft Show to be held in Detroit for a week beginning April 2 and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, is going to give one Pittsburgh boy a trip to Detroit and return by airplane, a tour over Detroit by airplane, a visit to the aircraft exposition and a special sightseeing trip through Detroit, including a visit to the Ford automobile plant.

This will be the trip of a lifetime for the air-minded lad who wins it. It is to be awarded in a contest in which the candidates are to answer 24 questions pertaining to aeronautics.

CREATES INTEREST

The purpose of the contest is to create a greater interest among the boys of Pittsburgh in this science and industry that has made marvelous strides in development during the recent few years. The youngster who wins the award will see, and have explained to him by experts, all the exhibits at the show, including the very latest models in airplanes of every make and character. Only boys from 15 to 20 years of age are eligible to enter the contest.

The two questions for today are:

9. How does the air fare from your home to Detroit compare with other forms of transportation? Is it higher or lower than the cost of a railroad ticket plus Pullman car accommodations?

10. How much time would you save by flying from your home to Detroit?

So that boys who missed the first eight questions may still enter the contest, these questions are herewith reprinted:

1. How much more does it cost to send the average letter by air mail than by ordinary mail?

2. Can ordinary stamps be used for an air mail letter?

3. If ordinary stamps can be used for an air mail letter, how would you mark the envelope to insure delivery by air?

4. How much time is saved in sending a letter by air from your home to Detroit?

5. How many times a day does the air mail leave your city for Detroit?

6. Do the air mail lines carry passengers in their planes?

7. If you wanted to go from your home to Detroit by air, who would you call to obtain information on the service?

8. How would you go about making a reservation for a seat in a plane, if you wanted to travel by air from your home to Detroit?

SCHEDULE FOR TRIP

GOING

Leave Pittsburgh Tuesday, April 5, 11:30 a. m.
Arrive Cleveland Tuesday, April 5, 12:50 p. m.

Century Air Lines—No. 3
Leave Cleveland Tuesday, April 5, 1:20 p. m.
Arrive Detroit Tuesday, April 5, 2:45 p. m.

RETURNING

Century Air Lines—No. 4
Leave Detroit Friday, April 8, 2:30 p. m.
Arrive Cleveland Friday, April 8, 3:55 p. m.

Pennsylvania Air Lines—No. 6
Leave Cleveland Friday, April 8, 4:30 p. m.
Arrive Pittsburgh Friday, April 8, 5:45 p. m.

24 QUESTIONS

The boy who sends in the most nearly correct set of answers to the 24 questions and submits the best 100-word letter will be the winner. Should there be ties, the contestants so tied will be given an equal award. There will be a board of three judges to examine the papers.

Argentine Loses Right to Dictate Babies' Names

BUENOS AIRES, March 10.—(AP.)—A French father won the right in the courts here today to name his daughter Nelly.

The Registrar of Births had insisted that the Christian name must be Argentine, in accordance with a national law, and that therefore the father would have to name the child Nelita.

$7,000 Awarded Man Hurt in Auto Crash

Joseph Malora, of 1227 Monterey street, was awarded a verdict of $7,000 damages for injuries in a traffic collision by a jury in Common Pleas Court in his suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company and Thomas A. Morgan.

Morgan's car, leaving a parking space in front of Malora's home July 9, 1929, was struck by a street car and forced against another automobile, which struck Malora, standing on the sidewalk, he claimed. The trial was before Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

Fay Marbe, Film Star, Wins $6,000 Verdict

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Fay Marbe, film actress, was awarded $6,000 in a settlement effected out of court yesterday in her $50,000 breach of contract suit against Prudence Pictures Corporation.

Her $100,000 suit against Samuel Zierler, president of the film company, was adjourned indefinitely. She alleged malicious interference with her motion picture work.

Man Wills $110,000 Estate to Family

James W. Grant, also known as James G. Hanby, of Pittsburgh, disposed of an estate valued at $110,000 by his will, probated yesterday. He left $5,000 in bonds to his mother, Mrs. S. H. Hanby, and property in Delaware County equally to his mother and a sister, Mrs. Iva M. Mayne. The remainder was left to his wife, Mrs. Hattie G. Grant, and a daughter.

Mothers, Mix This 'At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough due to a cold. It takes but a moment to mix, costs little, and saves money, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

'Flat Broke,' Says Louise Brooks, Star

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—By her own statement, Louise Brooks, film actress, is "flat broke."

She said today at a hearing of her voluntary bankruptcy petition. Her only possessions, she said, were her clothes.

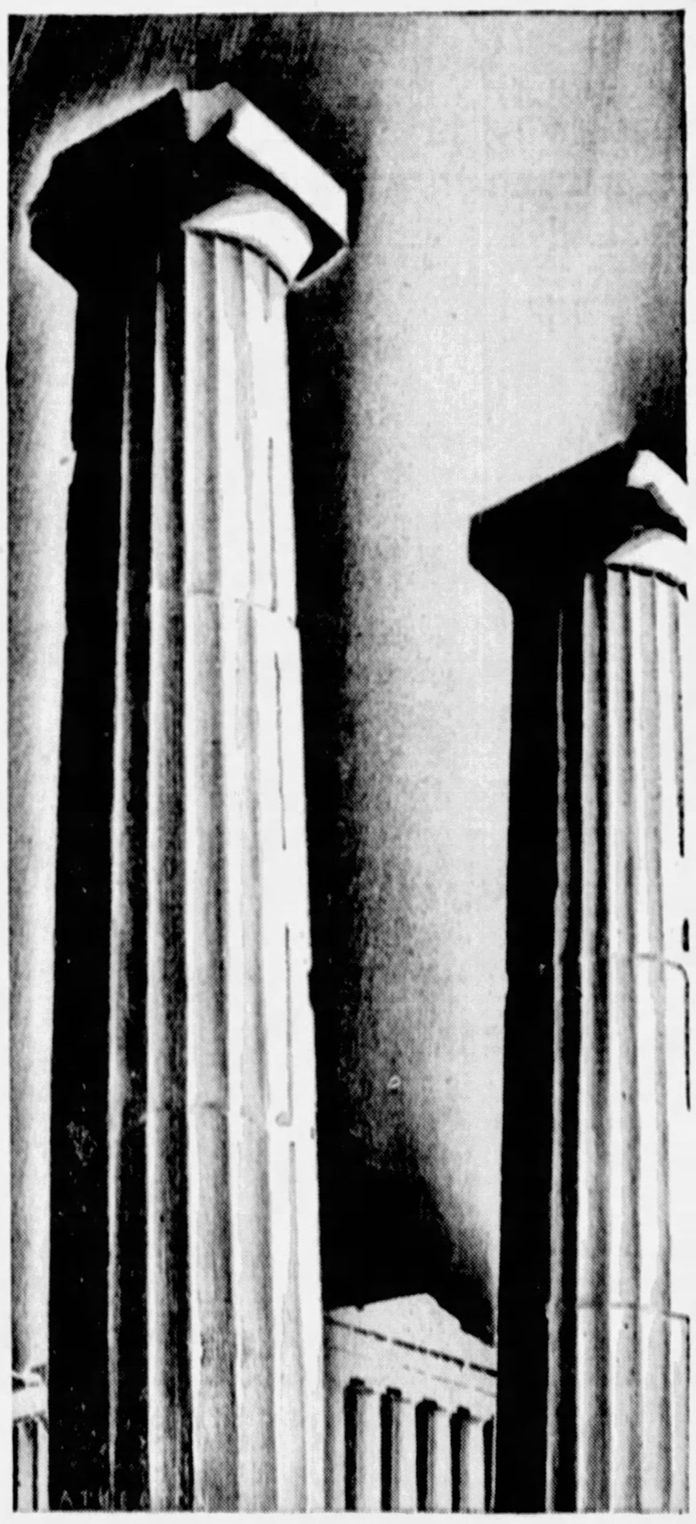
PILES

Piles are swollen veins which are sometimes broken in the lower end of your bowels. They may cause fistula, abscesses, ulcers and infection in the rectum. Don't let your piles run on until you must have a surgical operation. But do not treat them with harsh patent medicines, some of which require the use of hard rubber or metal tubes. For hard things should never be put into the tender rectum except upon the advice of a physician. Ask your druggist for Unguentine Rectal Cones. They bring the same blessed comfort to piles that Unguentine brings to burns and cuts. They are soft, pleasant and easy to put in. They quickly relieve the burning, bleeding, paining, itching, swelling, bulging piles and help to prevent infection in the rectum. Ask your druggist for Unguentine Rectal Cones by name and get what you ask for.

FLEETWOOD



FIBER OF BEAUTY

The most beloved order in all architecture is the chaste and classic Doric. It is the oldest of the Greek forms, cherished through countless generations of builders for the subtle grace of its beauty. One learns, then, with surprise, of the sturdy fiber of this beauty . . . for the practical character of Doric architecture is extreme strength and great solidity.

We shall, if we may, point to an analogy in Fleetwood coachcraft. As products of the studios and shops of one of the world's most famous custom coachbuilders—created in the closest possible accord with the new Cadillac chassis design—Fleetwood custom bodies suggest only a consummate expression of beauty and luxury. Yet their polished grace and finished charm conceal great strength—strength of a vital, fatigueless, lithe quality, to defeat alike the wear of strain and the ravages of time. Consequently, when one travels in this superb coachwork, the journey is made completely enjoyable by faultless comfort, restful quiet and a sense of the utmost personal security.

The latest expressions of Fleetwood custom coachcraft are presented on the new Cadillacs—V-8, V-12 and V-16. When you see them, recall that beneath their faultless lines and finish is body strength without parallel.

THE THEATERS :-: Putting the Critics On the Spot :-: THE SCREEN :-: Hollywood Gossip And Newsy Talk

By GEORGE SEIBEL

True to my revolutionary ancestry and rambunctious nature, I am defying Congress. Having received a gentle summons from Congressman Sirovich, Nemesis of the drama critics, to appear in Washington next Monday and give reasons why I shouldn't be shot at sunrise, I'm not going. Not even though Mr. Sirovich has said that "these smart Alec dramatic critics by wise-cracking are not going to get out of telling the Patents Committee why they pan shows."

He adds that the culprits who refuse to come will be defying Congress.

George Seibel

Mr. Sirovich's letter says that modern dramatic criticism has destroyed the legitimate spoken drama of our country, trampling upon the rights of authors and dramatists and depriving them of their constitutional right to the protection of their intellectual property.

automobile was invented to carry people off afar and the radio to keep them at home. Taxes you know, are a form of confiscation, and when Congress confiscates 10 per cent of the theater's income, or fines people 10 per cent for going to the theater, Congress doesn't need to look for the assassins of drama among the critics.

"You will have to excuse me at your hearing. After all, dramatic criticism is largely a matter of opinion. I am ready to admit that I know as little about it as any Congressman. But if you desire expert knowledge about taxation, I am an authority on that. Taxation is progressive confiscation, and Congress is doing its best to kill the drama with this new tax."

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

The simple answer to this is that it isn't so. But I have written Mr. Sirovich a letter as long as his, telling him who really is killing the drama.

"My dear Mr. Sirovich:

"I have your letter of February 29, inviting me to attend a meeting of your committee on Monday, March 14, to give you the benefit of my advice and suggestions regarding the state of the theater. In your letter you more than intimate that dramatic critics are 'the undertakers and pallbearers to the spoken drama,' and I assume that I am to appear as one of the defendants. But as I have never been a prize-fight or baseball reporter, as you seem to think, I believe I am justified in declining to accept your subpena.

"I have just spent a week in New York City, and it does not seem to me that the spoken drama is in as sad a state as you assume. Real estate speculators who have built too many theaters have suffered losses, but I saw better plays and better acting than I have seen for some time. Evidently your New York critics have not been able to kill off dramatists like Elmer Rice, Eugene O'Neill, Benn W. Levy, Robert E. Sherwood, Ferenc Molnar, Philip Barry and a legion of musical-comedy makers.

"Let me suggest to you, if you wish to do anything for the benefit of the theater, that you should go after that part of the new tax bill which threatens to do more to kill the theater than all the critics. The new amusement tax of 10 per cent on all shows is the hardest blow the theater has received since the

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

The truth is that criticism helps the theater—and I don't mean constructive criticism, which is a term someone has fished up to be kind to the critics. Destructive criticism also is valuable to the theater—it's like weeding a garden. You must pull up the weeds to give the flowers a chance.

The only questions about criticism are: Does the critic know what he is talking about and does he tell the truth?

Many managers and actors realize the value of what is called destructive criticism. Within the past season or two occasions managers and stars whose plays I had commended called me into private conference.

"We wanted you to say the worst you could about our show," said one charming star. "We want to strengthen the weak spots that we fear are there."

I was able to reassure this charming star about those weak spots—no changes were made in the play, and it is a great New York hit.

Why, indeed, should any critic want to kill the spoken drama? After he comes home from the funeral, it will be his own fate to starve. Or run for Congress!

Autoist With Corpse Kills Negro in Woods

SALEM, N. J., March 10.—(AP)—A motorist who later threw the body of a slain man into the woods near Quinton yesterday shot and killed Irving Hite, Negro woodchopper, threatened Hite's wife and escaped in his car. The pair encountered the autoist on the highway. He shot Hite in the neck, then drove off.

Police, following the tracks of the car, came upon the body of a man about 22 lying off the lane in a clump of brush about 200 yards from the Hite home. He had been shot twice in the chest and once in the neck. All marks of identification had been removed.

Things I Never Noodle Now

Give a Look and Have a Leer.

That the government itself vouches for the honesty of those employed at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving (in Washington, D. C.) yet these same employes may not go out to lunch!

That Mayor Walker appeared in a television studio and when his image appeared on the sets—he was seen with a mustache!

That all the phone booths in New York City have doors—except those in the subway stations where you need 'em most.

That Juliet was Romeo's second love.

That the signers of the Dec. of Ind. thus put a price on their heads. So J. Hancock put down his name in bold script as a defiance to King George, but Carroll, another signer, added his address!

That Peter the Great cut off the head of his wife's lover, pickled it and placed it on her mantelpiece as an ornament.

That Spinoza, the greatest intellectual of his day, derived his greatest enjoyment from watching spiders.

That more saps keep drinking likker to warm up in cold weather, when booze actually lowers your temperature.

That Kay, Hargreaves, Crompton and Jacquard, who invented textile machinery to save laborers from back-breaking toil, all fled for their lives—from the angered workmen!

That Balzac chirped: "None but simpletons can delight in talking about actors and repeating their sayings." (Oh, foooff!)

That Dave Perry, of N. Platte, a flyweight, whenever he felt like it, would pick on and beat up—Buffalo Bill.

That the Prince of Wales, more often than is known, has dolled himself up in feminine attire at frolics.

That certain law-and-order keepers in Italy cannot marry unless they are titled officers. (What fun is that?)

That there were 15 Presidents before Washington.

That the oldest drug store in America, established 1805, is located at No. 6 Bowery, N. Y. C. (Ah, there, newsreel editors!)

That while all dictionaries straddle the definition of the word "few" . . . it means eight. Then see Peter, 3d Chapter, 20th verse: "Few, that is, eight souls were saved by water."

That typewriting machines are not patented. They are copyrighted like songs, books, shows, newspapers, and so forth.

That there once was a lake called "The Collect" on the present site of the Tombs Prison in New York City.

That an electric company in Brooklyn paid its employes an annual bonus—only on the condition that they lived there.

That the de luxe magic lantern theaters will shortly ruin what is left of the legit theater with a new stunt . . . They've already contracted to use the stage version of "Lysistrata" as a curtain-raiser for Ann Harding's "Presige" chin-ema. Hah've y'been, Dr. Zerovich?

That the Congressman has decided to challenge George Jean Nathan and that Winchellofer before the House and over the radio. (I'm the best press agent he ever had, the ingrate!)

That you can check it with the Dep't. of Finance that in 1800 there was but one millionaire. In 1930 there were 29,700.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

When the Russ revue, "The Blue Bird," gets through working in Syria Mosque tonight, we shall have, as the next thing to look forward to, Cornelia Otis Skinner. Miss Skinner will come to the Alvin next Tuesday night to portray "The Wives of Henry VIII." Her appearance here, for one performance only, will be under the auspices of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters.

* * *

The first attraction coming for a full week, date, March 21, will be Bernard Shaw's new comedy, "Too True to Be Good," headed for the Nixon. The Alvin's break will come a week later, with George White's "Scandals." The two have things kinda topsy-turvy, in that a popular star of revue, Beatrice Lillie, is featured in the straight comedy while Ethel Barrymore Colt, whom the gods, anyway, would classify as belonging in the legitimate groove, is featured in Mr. White's latest revue.

* * *

It is reported that Ethel Barrymore's play for next season will be a work called "Encore," by Max Stein and Sheridan Gibney, to be produced in October . . . Ben Lyon, in Washington for a personal app., took the missus, Bebe Daniels, on the arm and went to call on Speaker John D. Garner, of the House of Representatives, who may be our next President. . . . Besides Anne Forrest, the cast of the "Death Takes a Holiday" revival in Chicago includes Robert Fiske and Catherine Mason, ex-Pittites. . . The title role in the "Lena Rivers" fillim is in the hands of Charlotte Henry, who made her Broadway bow at the age of 14 in a play that included Junior Durkin . . . Bill Robinson and his company, making a coast-to-coast vaude tour, recently worked all night in a Brooklyn theater to complete a fillim, "Harlem Is Heaven," before taking to the road . . . Patsy Ruth Miller is in New York in connection with the production of a play, "All That Glitters," written by her husband, Tay Garnett, in which she will portray the lead.

Boy, 13, Acquitted Of Father's Death

PHILADELPHIA, March 10. (Universal.)—A jury last night acquitted Anthony Pomate, Jr., 13, of murdering his father.

The boy, blue eyes still brimming with tears he shed while telling his story on the stand, walked to the jury box and said:

"Thank you very much. I'll be a good boy and good to my mother."

It was to save his mother that he killed his father in their home on New Year's Day, the evidence showed. The father, drunk, was abusing the family.

One Hollywood 'Baby Star' Of 1931 Gets Name In Big Letters

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 10.

Whatever befalls other "baby stars" of 1931, Sidney Fox is soon to have her name in big letters on the screen.

The pretty young actress who made such a hit, with me at least, in "Strictly Dishonorable," is to have full stellar credit in her next picture for Universal.

Sidney Fox

For the moment, the studio isn't ready to discuss the vehicle, except to say it will be a screen original and that Edward Luddy is writing it.

Without wishing to start an argument I think Sidney Fox will be the tiniest star in Hollywood. She is only four feet, eleven inches tall. Before coming to the coast a year ago last December, Sidney was on the New York stage. Her last Broadway role was in "Lost Sheep." She is not, as many people believe, a southern girl, but was born in New York City. Her most recent picture is "The Mouthpiece," for which she was loaned to Warners.

ABOUT NORMAN FOSTER

There's been talk around Hollywood that Norman Foster would make a trip to China, but this won't be materializing for a while anyway. Foster has just signed a Warner contract to play opposite Loretta Young in "Week-End Marriage." This is the Faith Baldwin novel, which Freeland will direct.

AND SO TO GOSSIP

A certain Hollywood character actor is disconsolate. Last year his salary was $50,000 a picture. Now he's down to $2,000 a week. His divorce settlement cost him $140,000 and he must pay his ex-wife $5,000 a year for life. Finally, the government insists he pay around $40,000 income tax on the money he gave his wife.

Saw Madge Evans with Tom Gallery at the opening of Eddie Horton's new play. This is getting to be pretty regular. . . . Pat Somerset is working as a dress extra at Paramount. Prettiest blonde to reach Hollywood in some time is Helen Vinson, Jack Warner's discovery. She created quite a flurry on her first visit to the studio. . . . Mitzi Green is growing up. Saw her lunching with Eric Linden at R. K. O. and looking quite the young lady. . . . Ann Harding tells me her daughter, Jane, has never been up in a plane yet. Ann is still terribly frightened about that kidnaping threat against the child. Her house is a fortress. She says:

"Fame and money aren't worth it. I wish I were the most obscure person in the world."

GUNDELFINGER ADVANCES

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 10.—W. T. Gundelfinger, of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the second round of match play for the Volusia golf championship, over the Ormond Beach Golf Club course today. He is meeting Thomas H. Sumerville, of Charlottesville, Va., in the title 16.

Gundelfinger won his initial match yesterday from M. Kennedy, of New York, by 1 up. The Pittsburgh golfer was forced to sink his last putt on the eighteenth green in order to win.

Henry Haynes, of Lake Placid, N. Y., winner of the qualifying medal, also was carried to the last hole to dispose of William Collingwood, of Binghamton, N. Y., by 1 up.

ARMOUR-DUDLEY CUP

MIAMI, Fla., March 10.—Tommy Armour, British open champion, and Ed Dudley, western open titleholder, scored a decisive 3-and-2 victory over Billy Burke, national open champion, and John Golden, Noroton, Conn., to win the $5,000 international four-ball golf championship on the Miami Country Club course yesterday.

BRITISH RUGBY SCORES

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—Results of football games played in England yesterday were: English League, first division: Portsmouth 3, Bolton Wanderers 2.

Rugby Union: Air Force 16, Oxford University 16.

Rugby League: Wigan 8, Leeds 3. Swinton 29, Wigan Highfield 0.

WOLF RETAINED

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Wilbur today announced that Frank Wolf is to be retained as coach of the athletic squad of the Interior Department. The decision followed a series of conferences on athletic programs for 1932 and 1933.

Hunting and Fishing

All species of trout have been planted in Glacier National Park in order to determine which are the more adaptable. So far all the fish have done well, owing to the abundant natural fish foods and because the waters vary scarcely a degree in temperature the year around. The varieties are cutthroat, eastern brook, Dolly Varden, rainbow and grayling.

What the English poet, Sir Henry Wotton, said about angling in the sixteenth century is as true today as it was then. He referred to the gentle art as "a rest to the mind, a cheerer of spirits, a diverter of sadness, a calmer of unquiet thoughts, a moderator of passions, a procurer of contentedness."

Audubon noted naturalist was fond of out and gun. "My guns and fishing tackle always were expensive and right comparatively often with silver," he wrote of his youthful days.

Washington State is the only one that continues a county system of fish and game control, all the other states in the Union having gone over to state control years ago.

Shooters in all parts of the United States will provide an annual fund of $7,000,000 to cope with the depletion of American game, if Congress approves the unanimous recommendation of all the interested sports men's organizations announced today by William F. Adams, chairman of the American Game Conference. The conference recommends a federal tax of one cent on every shotgun shell. A further bill embodying this plan will be introduced in Congress within a few days. The proposed tax is to be collected at the source, the ammunition factory, by means of a stamp applied to the face of shells, exactly as is now done with cigarets.

There were 44 moose and 9,594 deer killed in New Brunswick during 1931, according to figures contained in the annual report of Chief Game Warden H. H. Ritchie to the Minister of Lands and Mines, Hon. L. P. D. Tilley. The decrease in the kill of moose last year, compared with 1930, when 1,000 moose were killed, was 619, but, according to the chief game warden, this decrease was anticipated following the amendment to the Game Act restricting the sale of game meat. The sale of resident deer licenses reached a new peak in 1931 of 11,926. The chief game warden reports the estimated kill of deer in 1931 to have been 9,594 as compared with the estimated kill of deer in 1930 of 10,950.

The great "TOOTH" mystery

Why do teeth start to go when you're young? Why do some people keep them longer than others? Why does the dentist talk about "pyorrhea" when you are worrying about "teeth"?

The loss of teeth has no connection with wrinkles and gray hair. Today you may flash a carefree smile that shows white teeth without a flaw. Tomorrow your dentist may be forced to remove one of them, or two, or three.

The shock is cruel in these cases, not so much from pain as from hurt pride. It seems very mysterious to the victim, particularly if he has always thought he was giving his teeth the proper care. Brushing teeth night and morning, keeping them beautifully clean—this he has done but it was not enough. The average person is likely to think only of the surface. The dentist's thoughts go deeper. For pyorrhea is a gum disease.

Don't neglect seeing your dentist periodically. And when you brush your teeth, use Forhan's, the toothpaste for both gums and teeth. It is the lifework of a specialist in pyorrhea, Dr. R. J. Forhan. Pyorrhea may be eating down into your gums for five or ten years before it causes the loss of a single tooth. But half the lost adult teeth are actually taken by this dreaded disease. That is why the dentist worries about your gums.

Get ahead of pyorrhea. Buy Forhan's Toothpaste today and start immediately to clean your teeth and massage your gums according to the directions in the package. Forhan's comes in a big brown tube that lasts a long time. It is pleasant. You will like it and so will every child old enough to use a brush. All drug stores.

COUGH "MELTED AWAY"

"Jackie was out in real pneumonia weather and caught a nasty-sounding cough. Immediately I put Jack to bed and started treatment with Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. It soothed and relieved him. The cough seemed to melt away. In the morning there wasn't a sign of a cough left." Mrs. W. Roby, 13608 Emily Street, Cleveland, O.

MATTY NEVER EQUALED, M'GRAW SAYS

IN THE OPINION of many veteran National League fans the greatest pitcher that ever lived was Christy Mathewson. Some hurlers have been noted for their speed, others for their curves, still others for their control, slab smartness or finesse. Throw together the best qualities of all of them, and you have Mathewson. The pitching of three world series shutouts in six days, with only one runner getting as far as third base, was but the masterpiece of a career that was a classic from beginning to end.

Christy Mathewson

Now comes John McGraw, who knew more than anybody else about Mathewson, and who admittedly knows a thing or two about pitchers in general, to back up the supporters of Big Six in the recently revived arguments as to the game's greatest slabman. Asked by a scribe with the Giants to name the best of all time, McGraw shook his head in the negative when several names were suggested and then remarked: "All the conversation about pitchers eventually comes right back to Mathewson. There was only one Matty and nature seems to have thrown away the mold."

M'GRAW DECLINED TO rank old Cy Young among the greatest. He said Young had never been rated a truly great hurler when in the National League that the old Baltimore Orioles had always had an easy time with him, and that Cy had made his reputation in the American because he was in a young circuit that for some years was only half a major league.

"Rube Waddell? Well, yes and no," McGraw said in answer to another suggestion. "Rube had the mechanical equipment, but the fact that he could not be depended on hurt his standing. I recall that on the eve of the 1905 world series, Waddell, then the ace of the Athletics, disappeared. He had gone fishing just when his club needed him most.

"AFTER 30 YEARS WITH the Giants," the New York manager continued, "it is a source of keen satisfaction to look back at Matty and Roger Bresnahan, the greatest battery of all time. I note that some of the boys of the present generation rate Mickey Cochrane above or with Bresnahan as a catcher. Please don't make me laugh."

McGraw named as his all-time big four in pitching Matty, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander and Three-Finger Brown, all right-handers, and called attention to the fact that three of the four had been National Leaguers. He also paid high tribute to Nap Rucker, the old Brooklyn left-hander with the amazing slow ball, and the late Addie Joss, of the Cleveland club.

IT MAY HAVE been a fear of being traded to Cincinnati that brought Third Baseman Wally Gilbert into the Brooklyn fold. Joe Stripp, of the Reds, is a holdout, and it was rumored Gilbert would be swapped for him. Whether that had anything to do with it or not, the fact remains that Gilbert suddenly decided to sign. He says he realized from the start that he would have to do so in the end, but held out in the hope of getting better terms because he considered a cut of 37 per cent unfair. Babe Herman, the only remaining Dodger holdout, has been told that $15,000, instead of the $19,000 he received last year, is the best he will get, and that he can take it or leave it.

Jimmy Bradley

A STANDOUT AMONG the sandlot stars in Pittsburgh's baseball colony, Pitcher Jimmy Bradley, of the South Side, is likely to go into the professional class in a serious way this year, inasmuch as the clever left-hander has reached his twenty-first birthday. Jimmy has just received an encouraging letter from Max Carey, former Pirate ace and present manager of the Dodgers, who says he will try to get Bradley placed with a minor league club.

Carey saw the South Side boy in action at Forbes Field and apparently liked his general manner. Jewel Ens, erstwhile pilot of the Bucs, also admired the youngster, and was partly responsible for Bradley's departure to the Pittsburgh farm at Wichita. The rookie, however, was not given a chance to show in his short stay in the Western League.

A VICTORY OVER the strong Homestead Grays was partly responsible for Bradley's appearance in a Pirate suit. Triumphs over the crack Negro outfit are few and far between, so that Jimmy's feat was heralded from the housetops. Bradley moreover is a clever first baseman and can use a bat.

The fact that he is left-handed is an asset to the South Sider in his first-base inclinations and his feats are just about as big as those of Lefty Grimm. Big hands always are helpful to a diamond performer. Jimmy's father, James J. Bradley, a hot Pirate fan, had been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for more than 25 years.

DR. LOUIS SUGARMAN, of Philadelphia, famous basketball referee who has been selected to handle the Celtic-Renaissance pro game at Motor Square Garden next Tuesday night, is no stranger in this district. Leaving Notre Dame, he was grabbed by Johnny Freund in an emergency 24 years ago when Harry Hough and Jimmy Knox were injured. His very first opponent was the great Andy Sours, of McKeesport, but the kid gave an excellent account of himself. Within two years he ranked with the greats.

FIDEL LA BARBA gave up one flatic title when, after defending the flyweight championship successfully against Johnny Vacca in 1927, he retired from the ring temporarily to enter Stanford University. Now he thinks he has a chance for another crown and is starting East to take part in the featherweight tournament that Scotty Montieth will hold in Detroit to find a successor to Battling Battalino.

Even La Barba's closest friends on the Coast can't see a chance for him to reach the top, however. They say the fire of youth is missing, he has lost some of the stuff that once carried him to the flyweight peak, and the beatings he took from Battalino and Baby Arizmendi in the last year didn't do him any good.

Marty Brill

TWO STARS OF Notre Dame's undefeated football team of 1930, the last of Knute Rockne's creations, will be together again next season as a result of the signing of Marty Brill to coach the La Salle College basketball next season. For the year coach at the institution conducted by the Christian Brothers in Philadelphia since 1862 is Tom Conley, who was star end and captain of the Irish eleven on which Brill gained all-America honors and was pronounced by Rockne the greatest blocking back he had ever seen.

LAST YEAR BRILL was assistant to Doc Little at Columbia. He had several offers to play professional football, but preferred to rejoin his old pal and stick to coaching. This will be only the second season for La Salle in intercollegiate football. It will meet such teams as St. Mary's, Gallaudet, Bellevue, Canisius and St. Thomas. Conley and Brill will also coach football to the youngsters of Benilde Academy, a school for boys of the elementary grades, conducted in conjunction with La Salle. There were 74 students in the academy last fall and 70 of them turned out for football.

GAMES TONIGHT

Pittsburgh at London.
Cleveland at Syracuse.
Windsor at Buffalo.

LONDON, Ont., March 10.—The Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets will wind up their International Hockey League road schedule tonight when they meet the local Tecumsehs here.

After tonight's fray, the Canary Shirts, apparently definitely eliminated from the title play-offs as a result of their defeat in Windsor last night, will return to Pittsburgh to ring down the curtain with four games at home.

JACKETS DEFEATED

WINDSOR, Ont., March 10.—After being held on even terms for two periods, Windsor found its stride in the third period here last night to score five times and defeat Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, 7 to 3. The Bulldogs actually scored 6 goals in their final drive, but one was disallowed.

It was a wild finish, for the Jackets sandwiched one goal between the last Windsor pair. Only a minute was required for the three.

Gallagher, Jack Arbour, Earl Robinson, Huggins and Ouelette scored in succession for the Bulldogs in the third period. Proudlock scored for the Jackets.

OUT OF PLAY-OFF

There was no scoring in the first period. Each club got two goals in the second. Abbie Cox was in the Pittsburgh nets for the first time in several weeks. The defeat just about wrecked Pittsburgh's play-off hopes. The win put Windsor two points ahead of Detroit for third place. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3		Windsor—7
Cox	G	Smith
Raine	D	Arbour
Stuart	D	Gallagher
Fields	C	Huggins
Gyves	R	Robinson
Proudlock	L	Duggan

Pittsburgh, spares: Barnes, Bonnes, Rankin, T. Arbour, Watts, Dunning, Lovell.

Windsor spares: Ouelette, Brown, Laver, D. Roche, Phillips, F. Roche.

Referee—Jim Smith.

Second period—Pittsburgh, Fields 2 (5 Windsor, Robinson, 1 (2). Windsor, Earl Roche (Laver), 10:01. Pittsburgh, Dunning (Fraser), 12:22. Penalties—T. Arbour, Gyves, Fields.

Third period—Windsor, Gallagher (Phillips and Ouelette), 6:01. Windsor, Arbour (Phillips), 7:00. Windsor, Robinson (Huggins), 11:10. Windsor, Huggins (Brown), 15:03. Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Gyves), 19:30. Windsor, Ouelette, Robinson, 19:50. Penalties, Fields, T. Arbour, Dunning, Laver and Ouelette.

SAINTS ADOPT DRASTIC CUT

LATROBE, Pa., March 10.—The retrenchment winds which have been bowling over college athletic programs with great gusto during the past few months have struck forcibly here, stripping the St. Vincent College sports schedule of every inter-collegiate game with the exception of baseball.

The new policy will go into effect September 1 with a program of intramural athletics being substituted. The drastic slash comes at a time when Bearcat athletics were at a new peak of success.

The move follows closely the moratorium of one year on inter-collegiate sports declared recently by St. Francis College of Loretto.

The Rev. Jerome Rupprecht, O. S. B., faculty director of athletics, when asked about the decision declined to make a statement.

The decision to discontinue athletics emanated from the board of trustees and not from the athletic council. No specific reasons for the decision were given, except over-emphasis of athletics and the desire to maintain the high scholastic reputation achieved by the college in years past.

Sport Tales

McDonald is being groomed for the Yale, Princeton and University of Pennsylvania scholastics and the Penn relays and much is expected from him by Coach Sweeney.

Venzke is the sensation of the indoor track and field season. With his breaking of world records in the major meets in the East.

TOO COLD—FIGHT OFF

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 10.—A [illegible] has caused the postponement from tonight until Monday night of the [illegible] between Mario Bonnemaison, [illegible] champion, and Joe Knox, [illegible] contender, for the crown.

FAIRMONT BEATEN

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 10.—(AP.)—Richard defeated Fairmont College 38 to 23 in Fairmont's opening game of the [illegible] last night. The score at half time was 21 to 14 in favor of Bethany.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE GREATEST FATHER OF HIS TIME—Rameses II, who ruled Egypt for 66 years (1298-1232 B. C.) was the most illustrious of the Pharaohs and his reign is described as the culminating glory of ancient Egypt. He took great pride in the accumulation of gold in the royal treasure houses, in the magnificent structures he erected, in his military exploits and in the prodigious number of children his queens and concubines bore him. The bas reliefs of the famous subterranean temple of Ipsamboul and again of Wady es Sebua disclose the names of 111 sons and 51 daughters inscribed upon the walls. He lived to see most of his children reach maturity and die around him. Merephta, his fourteenth son, who married his own sister, Rameses' daughter No. 6, Nofrit, is said to be identical with the Pharaoh of the Exodus. The mummy of Rameses was found in 1886 and is now on exhibit at the Museum in Cairo. THE METROPOLIS BUILT IN A DAY—Anchiale, a great maritime metropolis of the Assyrian kings, was situated in Cilicia. The founder of the city was the redoubtable Asur Bani Pal (Sardanapalus), who, according to Strabo, was buried in Anchiale. The royal tomb was surmounted by a statue of the great king in the attitude of snapping his fingers, and an inscription in Assyrian characters upon it recorded the fact that at the royal behest the city had been built in a single day.

PITT MERMEN WIN CROWN

Pitt swimmers won the championship of the Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association yesterday by defeating the previously unbeaten Carnegie Tech natators, 39 to 20, in the Skibo pool. One of the largest crowds ever to attend an intercollegiate water meet here was on hand. The Panther mermen wound up their season undefeated, making it 14 in a row in two seasons.

Although the Tartans scored heavily in the runner-up and third-place positions, it was a majority of first places that pulled Pitt through. Tech's big victory was in the 150-yard backstroke, when Boyer, who recently smashed the National A. A. U. 1,500 meters record, won. The big star of the meet was Jack Hanna, of Pitt, who scored in the 440-yard free style and 100-yard free style races. The summary:

UTTERBACK STARS

Harris Utterback, Pitt broad jump star, took two firsts and placed second in the three events on the K. R. C. indoor meet program last night. The members of the Pitt team scored 39 points to 20 for Tech. Utterback's leaps were 22 feet 10½ inches and 22 feet 3 inches. Higgs, Westinghouse A. A. A. star, was third. Work, P. A. A., 24 feet 10½ inches.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate officials today were eager to refute a published statement accredited Holdout Pitcher Heinie Meine. Meine was quoted as stating that while he did not receive a cut in pay in contracts tendered him, he would not report to the club until he was given an increase.

"Meine's pay was increased," asserted Vice President Sam Watters. "In view of all the existing circumstances we feel that the club has been very fair with him. I do not know how such an inaccurate statement could be started."

Meantime, Heinie lingers at the home hearth and no correspondence passes between the star righthander and his employers. Heine is not the sort of a lad who speaks out of turn, and he would not be doing as much now were he to consult with his bosses. In other words, it is supposed to be Heine's turn to take his pen in hand, not necessarily to sign, but to let the home office know he is interested.

Gus Miller, of Oakland, is doing a lot to down the depression. Gus has his shoulder to the employment wheel to the extent of hiring 125 ushers for the season's work at Forbes Field. Head usher at the Oakland Orchard since the pretty park was opened in 1909, Miller has put red caps on a lot of boys and young men who have become prominent.

Bill Regan, of the Baltimore Orioles, and George Susce, of the Detroit Tigers, escorted patrons to their chairs, as did Lawrence Coller, the present business manager of the Pirates. The lads thus employed, are paid a daily stipend and quite often their palm is crossed with silver by a pleased customer. The act goes over in a big way during a world series.

Ripper, by the way, is making a serious effort to land a berth in Bucky Harris backstopping department. A hard-to-control temper militated against George in his freshman days, but he shows improvement as he fights against this liability. On the other hand, George's aggressiveness is very much an asset when he directs it in the proper channels. His habits are perfect, he is blessed with a remarkable physique and, therefore, has much to recommend him, particularly as a catcher. He throws a la Hartnett, 'tis said.

Speaking of promising recruits, the Pirate camp appears to be overrunning with impressive boys. Standing out in the galaxy of embryo Bucros is Shortstop Lloyd Vaughn, Wichita strong boy and speed merchant, who looms as a serious contender for the Thevenow toga.

Vaughn and Tony Piet played "side-by-each" at Wichita, their performance around the middle of the bag being of such a style as to startle the baseball scouts. Piet came along to the Bucros and maintained his pace in 40 odd games. It is most unusual to see two young giants around second who flash speed as well as power.

SECRIST LEADS PIN TOURNEY

Bill Secrist, of the P. A. A., topped the singles division after the first day's rolling in the Tri-State tenpin torney, which opened yesterday on the Iroquois alleys. Secrist rolled 618. C. Weber, also of the P. A. A., was second, with 585 for three games.

R. Barney and G. Ritchey came out on top in the doubles, with 1,148. L. Marone and H. Johnstone being runners-up with 1,106.

Keystone Athletic Club No. 1 was high among the five-men teams, aggregating 2,739 pins.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The quarter final round of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball elimination series gets under way in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight when Mt. Lebanon High School, champion of Section IX, opposes Ford City High School, champion of Section VI.

Mt. Lebanon, coached by Henry Leucht, former Waynesburg College star, furnished one of the big upsets of the tournament in the second round when it eliminated Aliquippa, champion of Section IV, while Ford City qualified for tonight's setto by vanquishing North Union, Section XIII standard-bearer.

TEAMS WELL MATCHED

There is little to choose between tonight's contestants. Mt. Lebanon did not flash its real form until the final half of its battle with Aliquippa, but once it struck its bearings there was no stopping the Cochrane road passers.

Like most of the teams appearing in the second round, Ford City did not make much of an impression in its victory over North Union. Neenie Campbell, however, has a team capable of playing first-class basketball, and a big improvement is expected tonight.

The chances of brother coaches meeting in the final game hinges on the outcome of tonight's battle. Bill Campbell is the Homestead coach, while Neenie Campbell is the Ford City mentor. The teams are playing in different brackets and there is no chance of them meeting until the final round.

Coach Leucht has been drilling his players on shooting fouls during the practice sessions staged this week. Mt. Lebanon almost ruined its chances for victory against Aliquippa by missing 12 out of 15 tries from the charity mark.

TOURNEYS CARDED

Grove City, Greensburg and Buckhannon will be the scenes of important scholastic tournaments this week-end. Tonight and tomorrow night will find the championship of District 10, of the P. I. A. A., decided on the Grove City College court. Farrell, Sharpsville, Oil City and Strong Vincent, of Erie, will be the contestants. The survivor earns the right to engage the District 9 winner on March 19. Greenville is the site chosen for the playoff.

The eighth annual Westmoreland County tournament will be conducted at Greensburg tomorrow, Saturday and next Thursday. Eighteen teams are entered in Class A and 10 in Class B.

Huntington begins the defense of its West Virginia state basketball crown tomorrow at Buckhannon when the 16 sectional qualifiers inaugurate the nineteenth annual tournament. The tournament will be completed Saturday.

DIMEOLO RE-SIGNED

[illegible]

Nick Altrock Says:

BILOXI, Miss., March 10.—The spring season is sure slow getting started. Here Arthur (The Great) Shires has been training with the Boston Braves for a week and he hasn't even threatened to raise them to the first division.

Nick Altrock

When Shires worked for our Washington Club, he had so much confidence in himself, he often covered first base from the bench.

Still, in a Presidential year, it's a relief to know that Arthur has stopped talking.

I see Babe Herman is holding out for $19,000 salary from the Brooklyn Dodgers. I predict there will be compromise and Herman gets the last $4,000 in cigar coupons.

PANTHERS MAY WIND UP WITH 50-50 RECORD

PITT, CARNEGIE MEET LIONS IN FINAL TILTS

GAME TONIGHT

West Virginia U. at W. Va. Wesleyan.

By JESS CARVER

It looks very much as if Dr. Red Carlson is going to succeed where many of the boys thought he would fail and win half of his basketball games. The carrot-topped maestro needs only to bring his Panthers through with a win over Penn State here Saturday night and he'll wind up with 15 games won and 15 lost.

When the Panthers were staggering along there for a while, taking 'em on the whiskers with almost monotonous regularity, it did appear that the team might finish below the 500 figure. Up until the Harvard game last week you could have bet dough that Pitt would not win as many games as it lost, but since then the Gold and Blue has taken four in a row and will be favored over State Saturday.

The Lions arrive in town tomorrow and will assist Carnegie Tech in closing the none-too-brilliant Carnegie campaign. Tech is crippled again, what with Lou Jagnow hobbling about on a cane and out of action. They missed him plenty against Geneva Tuesday, as the Covenanters made it two in a row for the season over the Plaid.

West Virginia winds up its season tonight with a return game with West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon. The Bobcats topped the Mountaineers in the first game of the campaign, played at Morgantown, and appear to have the stuff to repeat this evening.

BOXERS NAMED FOR TOURNEY

Temple drew five, Pitt, Carnegie Tech, West Virginia and Bucknell four each, and Duquesne and W. & J. three each, for the first tournament of the newly organized Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference to be held in the Skibo gym March 18 and 19, at a meeting held in the office of W. Don Harrison, Panther athletic director, yesterday.

The executive committee made the announcement after scanning the rating sheets submitted by the boxing coaches. Twenty-seven boxers were chosen.

Baseball Notes

BRADENTON, Fla., March 10.—(AP.)—The St. Louis Cardinals presented only a powder-puff attack and the Cincinnati Reds handed the world champions their third defeat of the Grape Fruit League, 9 to 0, yesterday. The score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati (N.)	1	9	2
St. Louis (N.)	0	4	2

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—(AP.)—Detroit's Tigers defeated the San Francisco Seals, 5-3, yesterday in an exhibition game. The score by innings:

Detroit	11	11	2
S. F. (PCL)	3	6	2

Batteries—Koenig, Page, Lohenstein and Bauer; Weir, Davis, Monroe and Ward.

Butch Bows To Wilson At Moose

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Preliminaries of Golden Gloves tournament, Howard A. C., Beaver Falls, Pa. Amateur bouts at Morgantown A. C., Morgantown, W. Va.

Jack Dempsey vs. Hank Hankerson and Tiny Powell (exhibitions), 2 rounds each; Sammy O'Dell vs. Tex Takia, Babe Triscaro vs. Joey Ross and Press Johnson vs. Jackie Coogan, 6 rounds each, and Jack Tarnell vs. Elfie Botsell, Lynn Jordan vs. Bud Creed and Young Terry vs. Billy White, 4 rounds each, Akron, O.

Baby Joe Gans vs. Al Trainor, 10 rounds, and Joe Smallwood vs. Elmer Brennah, 8 rounds, Philadelphia.

By HARRY KECK,

Jackie Wilson, East End Negro bantamweight, last night added the name of Mose Butch, Oakland southpaw, to the list of those he has beaten. The pair, old rivals, fought in the Moose Temple arena, in Penn avenue, before a slim crowd, and, after the first two rounds, there was nothing to it but Jackie.

The Negro lad, who has been coming along fast and recently was awarded a victory over Willie Davies, was too elusive for Butch, and had the latter swinging like the proverbial gate in a windstorm and missing sadly, the while Jackie repeatedly beat him to the punch.

BAD NIGHT FOR MOSE

The harder Mose tried, the more he rushed and ranted and raved and "burned up" over his ineffectiveness, the worse he looked. It was a bad night for him. He tried to rally in the final round, but ran into a series of punches that stung him and left him holding on at the finish.

Wilson weighed 122 pounds and Butch 121½ at 3 p. m.

Lee Sala, of Donora, short and chunky and full of fight, all but mopped up the resin-infested ring with the likes of tall, gangling Carl Montebano, Braddock middleweight, in the six-round semi-final. Sala couldn't miss Carl and Carl couldn't hit Sala and that was that, with Carl even running second at his usual stunt of outroughing the other fellow. Carl could appreciate how Butch felt in the main bout.

CLEMENTS WINS

Lloyd Clements, of Jeannette, light-heavyweight brother of that big Clements Leo—or is it Jack now? — out-assaulted Walter Ketchel, of th. East End, in the bruising second bout and Sammy Asto, of Uniontown, and Bobby Rowe, of the East End, bantams, boxed to a tough referee's draw in the opener.

Tiger Joe West and Guy Salerno box the windup at the Moose Temple next Wednesday.

Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, is laid up with a bad cold and bruised shoulder, both of which it is said he received in the bout with Spider Faulcner at the Garden last Monday night.

Battling Gizzo and Cowboy Eddie Anderson meet in a return bout in Flint, Mich., tonight. The former won the first meeting in the same ring by a substantial margin.

THREE ADVANCE AT HANDBALL

A. A. Bialas, of the P. A. A.; John Endzwick, of Cleveland, and Joe McNally, of Detroit, advanced to the second round of the annual National Junior A. A. U. championship handball tournament, which got under way today on the courts of the Keystone A. C.

Bialas defeated M. E. Fierst, of the Y. M. H. A., 21-6, 21-7. Endzwick defeated W. H. Dunlap, K. A. C., 21-10, 21-7, and McNally eliminated H. F. Foley, Downtown Y. M. C. A., 21-12, 21-10.

AMATEURS BOXING O. K.

RICHMOND, Va., March 10.—(AP.)—Amateur boxing bouts last night became legal in Virginia. Gov. Pollard signed a measure exempting amateurs from the old statute governing fights between men and between men and animals, which made all boxers felons. Professional bouts are still prohibited under the amended law.

Between Rounds

The boxing commission has approved an arrangement between Hill Simendinger and Cy Seibert whereby the latter turns over his interest in Frank Novak, the heavyweight, for a period of two years. Ill health has prompted Seibert to retire as a manager for an extended period.

Eddie Shena, Turtle Creek amateur, who has been serving as a sparring partner of Jimmy Belmont, has been signed to take the place of Hans Roberts against Max Elling at the Kaufman Arena tomorrow night, thereby rounding out the card. Benny McArthur and Charley Baxter are in the 10-round main bout, Paul Oger and Davy Grove in the eight-round semi-final and Johnny Hazel and Georgie Schlee in the opener.

Elling also will appear on the card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, against Ben Smalley, of Uniontown, in the opening bout. Leo (Jack) Clements, Jeannette heavyweight, boxes Charley Brodd, of McKeesport, in the second bout, and Benny Bass meets Frankie Bolarski in the windup, with the semi-final yet to be arranged.

Andy Kaile will box John Shuster in the main bout of the fifth annual benefit amateur boxing show under the auspices of the Homewood-Brushton Boosters' Club, in Motor Square Garden March 22. They are heavyweights. Twelve bouts are listed.

The Beaver Valley Golden Gloves amateur championship boxing tournament will be staged by the Howard A. C., in Beaver Falls tonight and tomorrow night.

YALE, HARVARD TIE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10. The Yale and Harvard hockey sextets battled to a 4-4 tie in an overtime game here last night, making the second tie in the Harvard-Yale hockey series this season.

SQUASH PLAY NEARS FINAL

The semi-final matches in the Class A city squash racquets championship tourney, being staged at the Keystone Athletic Club, are on the schedule for today.

Dave Gilmore, Allegheny Country Club, meets W. B. Bickel, K. A. C., at 4:40 this afternoon, and McCook Reed, Pittsburgh Golf Club, encounters G. C. Kennedy, K. A. C., at 5:15.

Grand National List Is Reduced to 39

LONDON, March 10.—(AP.)—The probable starting field for the grand national steeplechase race, which will be run over the historic Aintree course March 18, was reduced to 39 with the announcement of the final acceptances. The 39 eligibles with their weights follow:

Gregalach, 175 pounds; Shaun Goilin, 172; Grakle, 171; Coup de Chapeau, 164; Invertee, 161; Heartbreak Hill, 160; Vulcrest, 157; Sea Soldier, 156; Apostas, 154; Annandale, 150; Near East, 150; Merriment, 150; Remus, 149; Glanceola, 149; Ottawa, 148 and Hank, 148.

The following will carry 147 pounds: Frankie Earnshaw; Augustus Aspirant; Knighton; Gaga; Red Lamp; Dusty Foot; K. C. B.; Delatre; Harewood; Forbra; Great Span; Prince Cherry; Ruddiman; Pegnus Jara; The Ace II; Tamasha; Quite Calm and Tootenhill.

Fight Results

At Moose Temple—Jackie Wilson defeated Mose Butch, 10 rounds; Lee Sala defeated Carl Montebano, 6 rounds; Lloyd Clements defeated Walter Ketchel, 4 rounds; Sammy Asto and Bobby Rowe drew (referee's decision), 6 rounds.

At San Francisco—Martin Zuniga defeated Joe Conde, 10 rounds; Kenny Austin and Gilbert Allel drew, 10 rounds; Pietro Georgi defeated Cowboy Brooks, 4 rounds; Archie Forson defeated Manuel Furato, 4 rounds; Al Davis defeated Joe Robinson, 4 rounds; Clair Tousstrup defeated Al Snitzer, 4 rounds.

CLEVELY PAYS $213.80

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Casbah, a 3-year-old son of Sir Gallahad III, carrying W. A. Porter's silks came to the races at Tropical Park yesterday heralded as a speed demon and he made good in an impressive fashion. Although 14 persons picked Dick Cleary to win the second race at the Fair Grounds and 26 selected him as the winner of the first event, nobody put them together in the daily double combination betting. Cleary paid $213.80 for a $2 mutuel and Casbah returned $4.60 for a similar priced ticket.

BENNY BASS BOWS

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—(AP.)—Wesley Ramey, of Grand Rapids, Mich., won by decision over Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, in a 10-round match here last night.

MATMEN BACK AT GARDEN

Wrestling is back with us tonight.

Charley Reinecke and Ray Fabiani present the second show of their revival of the mat sport in Motor Square Garden, with five bouts making up the card.

Frank Speers

Frank Speers, former Georgia Tech football star, who upset the dope by winning over Ray Steel in the semi-final of the first show, two weeks ago, is in the main bout, one fall to a finish, with Floyd Marshall, of Chicago, famous as the airplane spin.

In a special 45-minute time limit semi-final, John Maxos, the Greek, who was injured being thrown by Strangler Lewis in the windup of the initial show, returns against Charley Fox, of Cleveland.

There will be three 30-minute limit preliminaries. Jack Zarnos takes the place of Ernie Dusek, who was injured in training, against Charles Blackstock, of Chicago; Gino Garibaldi, of Italy, takes on George Vassell, of Greece, and Hans Kampfer, of Germany, grapples with Benny Ginsberg, Jewish star.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30.

JOHNNIES NAME WEBER

CITY LOOP MEETS

HOMEWOODNINE FAILS TO SIGN HEINIE BOLL

By TOM BIRKS

Whatever the Homewood club of the City League does this season in developing young players from the East End section. It will have to do without the help of Heinie Boll captain and third baseman for Manager Hank Daly.

Boll said this morning he has been dickering with the club, but there appears to be no way in which the gap can be bridged so far as the financial end is concerned. He stated he would not be with Homewood this season.

Boll, ranked as the greatest third baseman on the local sandlots, and probably the best money player in the game, has been with Manager Daly five seasons. Three championships have been carried to the East End in that time—two County League titles and one City League pennant.

BOLL NOT DICKERING

While Boll admitted he would not be with Homewood he has not been dickering with any other manager in the loop.

Tonight the City League holds its second organization session at Books, and President Harry Yerx feels confident eight clubs will be lined up. Dormont, Homewood, Book and J. L. Thomas are set to go. The North Side Civics and the North Side Buicks can be classed as doubtful. There are indications new blood will be injected into the circuit.

When the West Penn League held its recent meeting, Linwood was among the missing, and, according to sources from the Lincoln avenue district, will not operate as a first-class club.

NEW CLUB IN FIELD

It is reported many of the players, including Jimmy Arrigo, Lewis, Hussey, Rentier and Jim Maloney, will be seen with the Westinghouse Alumni team. The club led by Hooks Carroll, had a successful football season, and now is turning to baseball.

With the opening of the season two months away, these players may play elsewhere, but supporters of the Alumni Club insist they will be doing their stuff for the East Enders at the Homewood playgrounds.

The maneuvering for the control of the Greater Pittsburgh League continues. Another effort is to be made at Edgewood tonight to whip this league into shape, with last season's sponsor handling the reins. Edgewood, Braddock Klabans, Iroquois and Verona are slated to form the nucleus in this loop.

CHARLEROI FIVE 18-17 VICTOR

Charleroi High School, champion of Section V, earned the right to meet Homestead, champion of Section VII, in the quarter finals of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball eliminations on Monday as a result of its victory over Swissvale High, champion of Section XI, in a second round battle last night, 18-17.

Trailing Charleroi, 10-5, at the end of the first half, the Paulie passers struck their real stride in the third period to score nine points while holding Charleroi to four markers and the start of the final eight-minute stanza found the teams deadlocked at 14-all.

Charleroi outscored Swissvale, 4-3, in the closing period to sew up the contest. The Charleroi victory margin was a foul, both teams registering seven baskets during the fast struggle.

Big Joe Kostolansky, rated one of the best centers in the W. P. I. A. L., and Stevenson, shared the scoring honors for Charleroi, each bagging six points. Kostolansky's floor work played an important part in the Charleroi victory. The loss of Hugus, brilliant Charleroi guard, who was elected on fouls in the second period, had much to do with slowing up the Stepanian attack.

Corr, Miss Cutnell On Seals' Program

How the University of Pittsburgh trains its swimming teams was the subject of a talk given by Coach Pat Corr during the Sports Quiz period of the Trained Seals of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over Station WCAE last night. Corr was a guest speaker, along with Miss Mae Cutnell, star local mermaid, who is a candidate for Olympic honors, and Ben Bright, local swimming coach. Another fine program is being arranged for the Seals next Wednesday evening.

Ruth and Ruppert To Confer Sunday

NEW YORK, March 10.—(INS.)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, who will go into a salary huddle with Babe Ruth next Sunday at St. Petersburg, Fla., predicted today that his star slugger would sign a one-year contract at a "compromise figure."

The colonel will offer Ruth a one-year contract for $70,000. The Babe will accept $70,000 on a two-year contract, but wants $80,000 if the document is for one year only.

U. S. Grand National Candidates Trail

SANDOWN, England, March 10.—(AP.)—The Chicago syndicate's Grand National candidate, Son Soldier, a son of Man O'War, failed to gain a place with two other American horses in the Select Handicap Steeplechase over three miles 125 yards today. The other American horses were J. H. Jock Whitney's Blaster and M. D. Blair's Arustiga.

C. O. Brocklehurst's Pelorus Jack won.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 10.—The actions of Jimmy Bivins and Johnny Niggeling, recruit moundsmen in the games played to date, has brought a gradual upward climb in the pitching for the Pirates.

Bivins and Niggeling, who hurled their second game of the inter-club series yesterday, looked exceptionally good, especially Bivins, who limited the Yans to three hits during the five innings he worked. The Regulars won the tilt, 9 to 3.

Niggeling took up the burden at the start of the sixth and, while he was nicked for four safeties, he was not bearing down as he might have been. Gibson ordering him to take things easy after the Regulars had assumed a commanding lead.

This was the second appearance of the pair during the inter-club battle, having pitched in the opening game of the series, as opponents. Bivins chucking them for the Hooligans, while Niggeling did the mound work for the Regulars. In the first contest they each were nicked for seven safeties in six innings.

Remy Kremer and Charley Wood are both out of actual service. Remy has quietly been trying to throw off an attack of the flu. Gibby has ordered Kremer to take a rest.

Wood threw a big scare into the camp by coming up with what was at first thought to be appendicitis. Charley complained of a pain in his side, and he was immediately taken to a local doctor for an examination.

Washington Court Play Reaches Finals

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 10.—Washington county's annual basketball tournament went into the final round last night.

McDonald defeated Claysville, 36 to 26, in an extra period battle and East Pike Run whipped Cecil, 26 to 23, in Class II games. East Pike and McDonald will clash for the division championship.

Fitzgerald Victor In Youngstown Go

YOUNGSTOWN, March 10.—Freddie Fitzgerald, local welterweight, outpointed Jimmy Brown, Cincinnati, in a slashing six-round bout here last night. Danny Davis, manager of Brown, just before his boxer entered the ring, received word from Cincinnati that his wife and two daughters were near death from monoxide gas-poisoning. The bout was moved up on the card to enable Davis to catch an early train home.

F. G. Shattuck strengthened its position last year, the net working capital having been increased to $6,687,464 from $5,635,956. The Street was actively discussing the improvement in the earnings for the fourth quarter, which amounted to 34 cents a share as compared with 16 cents in the preceding three months. Stockholders have been asked to vote on a reduction in the stated capital from $19,975,000 to $15,125,000, the difference to be applied to writing down good will to $1.

Coca Cola was in demand after the report for 1931 was published, due to the fact that the results of $11.83 a share were somewhat in excess of the highest estimates which previously had been heard around Wall street. In 1930 the company reported $11.15 a share. There was a substantial short interest in the stock several months ago, but most of the pessimists were run to cover from time to time when the stock met resistance to selling and then advanced briskly.

International Business Machines is one of the exceptional organizations which has been able to report an increase in net income for the past 10 consecutive years. In 1931 the per share earnings amounted to $11.08, against $10.98 in the previous year. In addition, further reduction was made in the funded debt, and the company again improved its financial condition. Reports have been heard recently of a better demand for some type of office equipment due to the continued practice of economy.

Penick & Ford should be added to the list of companies which purchased its own stock during 1931. The roster of such organizations is steadily increasing. Penick & Ford bought 24,965 shares of stock in the open market last year and added these shares to the amount already in its treasury, leaving 400,000 shares outstanding. When conditions within the stock market are definitely changed for the better again, the influence of such purchases, which reduce the floating supply, should make itself felt.

Chicago and Northwestern Railway's February net income showed an increase of about $250,000 over January, President Fred W. Sargent says. Gross also showed improvement over January. The gain is partly due to an upturn in the manufacturing centers in Northwestern's territory, particularly Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., Kenosha and Waukegan, Ill., he said. Outlook for spring crops in the road's territory is excellent.

According to gossip current in speculative circles two operators prominent in market news from time to time are having considerable difficulty in working their way out of a recently adopted short position in Auburn. The action of that stock recently has indicated that some such condition prevailed. Auburn having shown a tendency to be quite jump after a period of quiet which followed its recent sharp downward plunge. The operators reputedly "bagged" in the stock are credited with having been quite successful on the bear side of things over the last few years.

STEEL BACKLOG TAKES DROP

NEW YORK, March 10.—(INS.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation went to a new all-time low in February, the corporation reported today.

The backlog dropped 102,521 tons to a total of 2,545,629 tons on February 29. On January 31, unfilled orders were 2,648,150 against 2,735,353 tons on December 31, 2,933,891 tons on November 30, and 3,965,194 on February 28,1931.

Wall street had been expecting a decline, but not nearly so large as reported, general opinion being that it would be comparatively small.

Steel mills are currently running on the average of 27 per cent of capacity and the average operations last month were even slightly lower.

Retail Trade Fair During February

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—Retail trade continued on a fairly even keel during February, and there was no more than the seasonal reductions compared with January, according to department store sales reports from 229 principal cities of the United States, made public by the Federal Reserve Board today.

There was, however, a reduction of 16 per cent from February, 1931, while in the period from January 1 to February 29 the reduction from last year was 19 per cent.

Milk at Pre-War Level in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, March 10.—Milk dealers throughout greater Cleveland have reduced their price for milk 1 cent per quart, bringing the retail price to 8 cents, the pre-war level.

Business

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

PITTSBURGH TERMINAL Coal Corporation reported a greater loss for 1931 than in 1930. This reflected the generally depressed state of business and the fact that the troubles peculiar to the coal industry were aggravated by new labor disturbances at the company's mines and by lower prices.

The net loss for the year after charging off depreciation, depletion and interest was $755,998. This compared with a loss of $642,945 in 1930. The loss for 1931 was less than those of 1928 and 1929 when the company was suffering from a general coal strike. The last profit was shown in 1926.

The bare income accounts and balance sheets of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation are not the only factors to be taken into consideration in judging its securities and future prospects.

* * *

Bonds Guaranteed By Railroad Company

ON THE FAVORABLE side we find that the $2,667,000 of first sinking fund 5 per cent bonds, due in 1942, of the Pittsburgh Terminal Railroad and Coal Company, a predecessor organization, are guaranteed principal and interest by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company. This peculiar situation is due to the fact that both the railroad and the coal company were formerly a single organization.

On the unfavorable side we find that all the company's properties are subject to a lien of $378,266 in favor of the United States government for which warrants of distraint have been issued for non-payment of taxes assessed against the corporation, together with interest, penalties and costs. This assessment is being contested by the corporation.

Sinking Fund On Bonds In Default $679,297

THE EXISTENCE of this lien naturally calls attention to the current financial position. At the end of the year current assets amounted to $572,122 against current liabilities of $251,575. This left working capital of $320,547 against working capital of $555,872 a year ago.

The principal current assets consisted of notes and accounts receivable of $429,979, after deducting reserves. Cash amounted to $49,744. Obviously an unfavorable outcome when the tax case is ultimately decided would place the company in a difficult position.

Interest payments on the bonds have been kept up to date, but sinking fund requirements of 8 cents a ton of the coal mined are in default to the extent of $679,297.

Report Big Truck Merger Pending

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Rumors, which have been cropping up at intervals during the past two years, of a merger of Mack Trucks, Inc., and the White Motor Company have again made their appearance in Wall street.

The reports have it that conversations between managements of the two companies are approaching the stage where an announcement might be expected in the near future. Consolidation of these two large truck manufacturers would be the most important for several years in this particular field.

STOCK MARKET LIST MOVES NARROWLY

U. S. Steel Sags on News Of Reduction in Tonnage; Bethlehem at New Low

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—The zigzag movement in the stock market of the past week continued to narrow today.

A little selling around midday accompanied publication of United States Steel's unfilled tonnage figures, but on the whole prices held close to yesterday's final levels. Speculative interest was at low ebb, with floor traders apparently providing most of the activity.

United States Steel sagged about a point, and similar losses appeared in National Steel and Bethlehem preferred, the last-named reaching a new low. Other issues selling off a point or so included American Can, International Harvester, Du Pont, American Water Works, Union Pacific and Consolidated Gas. Bullish activity appeared in some of the mining issues, notably Noranda, Homestake and Alaska Juneau. Auburn moved up 5 points in what appeared to be short covering, then lost some of its gain. International Silver made an extreme gain of 3¼, which was not fully maintained. American Telephone showed a fairly firm tone. Some sizeable blocks of Socony-Vacuum appeared on the tape, but it held up well.

The steel figures were somewhat more unfavorable than expected in most quarters, but the stagnation of the industry during February had been apparent, and the stock market was able to hold up fairly well in the face of the news. The shrinkage of 102,521 tons in unfilled orders during February to a total at the end of the month of 2,545,629 tons was the eleventh successive decrease, and reduces the backlog of orders to the lowest volume reported since 1904.

Buying of International Silver was said to be based largely upon the strong cash position reported by the company. Activity in the gold mining issues appeared to be largely professional.

Reports regarding the discussions of international copper producers today indicated that a final agreement on production cutting may take longer than recently expected.

The further reduction in the bank of England's discount rate to 4 per cent from 5 had been too widely expected to have much influence on the market, and was somewhat offset by a substantial drop in the bank's reserve ratio. Wall street was keenly interested in the Federal Reserve statements to appear tomorrow.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Oppenheim Collins & Co. report for six months ended January 31, 1932, gross earnings of $180,780, after interest expense, loss, federal taxes, etc., equal to $2 cents per share on 201,211 shares, compared with profit of $46,480 in the first six months of the previous fiscal year, or $2.11 per share on 220,000 shares.

Alton Railroad and Chicago and Alton Railroad February report shows deficit after charges of $136,696 against $225,202 in 1931; five months, deficit of $564,884, as reported against deficit of $616,562 in same period in 1931.

Western Air Express Corporation and subsidiaries report for year 1931 profit of $113,367 after depreciation, interest, etc., but before deduction of the corporation's share of loss reported by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., in 1930, the company reported net loss of $200,676.

Interstate Department Stores Company and subsidiaries for the year ended December 31, 1931, was $147,127 after depreciation, but after deducting $1,000 for preferred dividends for 61,751 shares of 7% stock, earned 2 cents a share on 200,000 shares of common, excluding shares held in treasury. This compared with net profit of $667,764 in 1930, or $2.93 a share on common on 213,962 shares.

Fairbanks Morse and Company and subsidiaries report for year 1931 net loss of $1,168,016 after taxes, depreciation and inventory write-down of $2,240,081. In 1930 the company had net profit of $821,613.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and subsidiaries report for year 1931 net profit of $5,000,000, after taxes, interest, depreciation, depletion, etc., compared with net income of $7,936,132 in 1930.

Federal Light and Traction Company reports for year ended December 31 net income of $1,832,300, equal after preferred dividends to $2.57 a share. This compares with net income of $3,141,747, or $5.16 a share in 1930.

Holland Furnace Company and subsidiaries report consolidated net income in 1931 aggregated $46,577,937, compared with $66,191,901 in 1930. The income for 1931 was $4.20 per share, against $6.566,219 in 1930.

General Motors Acceptance Corporation and subsidiaries report for year 1931 net profits of $6,975,525, after interest, taxes, etc., equal after dividends on 1,000,000 shares of preferred stock to $2.57 a share on 2,000,000 shares of common, against net income of $14,576,526 in 1930, or $29.14 a share.

Standard Brands Company report for 1931 shows net loss of $68,576 after taxes and depreciation, compared with net income of $574,417 in 1930.

Bituminous Coal Output Declines

NEW YORK, March 10.—Production of bituminous coal for the week ended March 5, showed a considerable drop as compared with the preceding week. As estimated by the National Coal Association, output was approximately 6,000,000 net tons, against 6,295,000 tons for the week ended February 27.

Four-System Rail Plan Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Interstate Commerce Commission will hear oral arguments on April 25 and 26 on the proposal of eastern railroads to substitute a four-system unification for their lines in lieu of the five-party allocation proposed by the commission in its official consolidation plan of 1929.

Belgian Producers In Rayon Accord

BRUSSELS, March 10.—Five Belgian rayon producers have ratified an agreement for unifying output of viscose rayon through a company to be known as Union des Fabriques de Textiles Artificiels, shortened to Fabelta.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 10.—Most of the activity on today's curb market was confined to the utility shares, which took a downward trend after a dull and rather steady opening.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in; 000 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list:

ENGLISH BANK RATE CUT

LONDON, March 10.—(INS.)—The bank rate was further reduced today from 5 to 4 per cent.

The reduction came within a few weeks after the rate was dropped from 6 to 5 per cent, and on the heels of a rapid rise in the price of sterling, which gained nearly 30 points in two days.

The stock exchange closed after a session of irregular trading and with little response to the reduction in the bank rate. The pound sterling closed at $3.68½, unchanged from the opening.

COPENHAGEN, March 10.—The bank rate was reduced today by 1 per cent to 5 per cent, effective tomorrow.

DUBLIN, March 10.—The bank rate of the Irish Free State was reduced by 1 per cent to 5 per cent.

Farm Board Blamed For Price Decline

WASHINGTON, March 10. — Federal Farm Board activities in livestock marketing has tended to depress the prices of cattle, said President Charles Wilson, of the Chicago Livestock Exchange, to House Committee on Agriculture. Farmer co-operatives as distinguished from those politically controlled by the farm board are thoroughly satisfied with the service they receive from the old line companies, he said.

Banker Proposes Silver Conference

WASHINGTON, March 10. — An international silver conference confined to discussion of definite topics was suggested today to the House Coinage Committee by George W. Leman, of Irving Trust Company. He believes the British are now more willing than before to have such a conference. Stability of exchange is what should be aimed at to encourage trade, he said.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XXXI

It wasn't that she minded Gwin's arms around her. He wasn't the least bit personal or unpleasant about it. He just took her in his arms when she cried, as if it were the most natural and normal thing in the world to do. And it did help . . . to have even a stranger's shoulder to lean on . . . but it was so humiliating to break down this way . . .

She struggled unhappily to hold back the tears, but they squeezed through her fingers, plopped onto the sofa, leaving small, pear-shaped stains.

"Now you just wait a moment, and I'll bring you something that will cheer you up," he promised in the tone one uses to offer lollypops to a child.

He came back with a squat green glass bottle and two tiny Venetian glasses. "Cordial. You'll like it. It's apricot."

She drank it. "Oh, isn't it nice?"

"Yes—my very first."

"We might have one more, and then we'll have to go in search of lunch. I have a pupil shortly after two."

TO TEST VOICE

After the second cordial Lily Lou was all aglow. It seemed very natural and nice to be having lunch with Dwight Gwin. He called a cab and they drove across town to a small place called The Oyster Bar.

"Not up to New Orleans of course," he said, "but surprisingly like it. We'll have roasted oysters, and a little chicken, and then if you are a very good child I might let you have some maple mousse!"

But when they were eating he said, "No, on second thought you can't have any mousse. I wish I hadn't fed you at all. I want to try your voice when we get back. I should have done it before we ate, but you looked so pathetic I thought you needed the food."

Lily Lou's heart gave a bound. It was one thing to be friendly with Dwight Gwin, and even to have cordials and lunch with him. But to have him try her voice! Dwight Gwin, to whom big professionals came to coach for new roles!

"Oh, but you wouldn't take me. Besides, I couldn't come—I mean, you'd be too expensive—"

"Not at all. That is, not to you."

He smiled teasingly as he said it, and she echoed his smile, but weakly. She thought of her mother's worried warnings about strangers in a big city, and May's hints about how some girls get ahead.

But what did all that matter now? People would soon be saying and thinking worse than that of her. She'd be a fool if she didn't seize the chance to study with Gwin, if he'd take her—

Once decided, her cheeks began to glow, and her eyes to sparkle with excitement. She had the voice, she knew she had it . . . If only she hadn't eaten the chicken . . . Oh, dear, to let a plate of chicken jeopardize your whole career!

She began to boast a little to bolster up her courage. "I haven't had so much voice training, but mother used to say I could carry a tune before I could talk, and I have had a lot of piano and harmony. I thought I was going to be a pianist, at first—"

"Oh, no! We all are. Mother plays the organ, and she used to give piano lessons when she was a girl. And my dad sings, and my brothers—all of us. They're not trained, you know. They just sing—"

"The singing throat, eh?"

"What?"

"We'll see, later."

SINGS WITH GWIN

The taxi was held up at every corner. Always the wrong signal, traffic jam after traffic jam. Even Gwin grew impatient. Lily Lou felt her throat tighten. "I won't be able to sing a note," she thought, clenching and unclenching her hands.

Gwin didn't ask her to sing. He sat down at the piano and began to play, from memory. Snatches of light opera. Some old songs. Gounod's Ave Maria, humming and singing softly as he played. "Come on, you too," he invited.

"Clair de Lune—do you know that? Not so well. How about I Know a Lovely Garden—no? Ah—this—you'll know this—Connais tu le Pays—"

She wasn't sure of the words, and he made no move to find the music. Without waiting for her he began, singing almost under his breath. Almost as softly she joined him. . . . The words came back to her, the joy of singing, the poignant beauty of the melody stirred her. . . . She had it. . . . She was in voice. . . . It was going to be all right. . . .

She waited, breathless, smiling a little.

"Your French is frightful," he said, glancing at his watch and rising from the piano bench to look down at her with a rueful smile.

"I know. My languages—"

"You must study. My poor child, how you must study! And you are—how old, twenty. And no languages. God! Is it possible?"

"But my voice. Surely that—that isn't hopeless? I can sing! I know I can. I can feel it—here!" She touched her heart, the first quick fear slipping from her. "Maybe I do everything wrong. Maybe my voice isn't placed right. But it's there! And the music is in me. I have perfect pitch—I can tell any note—"

"Yes, God gave you the voice. No credit to you. Sit down. Show me if you can read."

He flung an opera score on the piano, opened it at the second act of Barbara di Siviglia. "Now—the accompaniment only. No, no—go on—keep going—"

He stopped her finally. "Good. Howard Johnson will be here at two. You will accompany him. I engage you. I take you as a pupil. After that—we shall see."

"He's gone."

"You didn't let him go because I—because I wanted—"

"No, no. Leave all that to me. Ah, Johnson, how do you do? Come right in. Let us begin. Uno voce poco fa . . . all right, Miss Lansing!"

Lily Lou played. Her fingers were stiff with nervousness at first, but it was not very difficult, she had always read easily and accurately. She got through it.

After the baritone there was a young Russian girl who was coaching Mimi. "That," said Gwin, when she had gone, "is French as it should be sung. But alas, she does not sing."

TELLS MAXINE

"Not that it matters," Gwin said. "For his public likes him that way. Besides he has no ear—he's just as happy—"

It was confusing and exciting and wearying as Lily Lou realized when the day was over. But what luck! A chance to study with Gwin, and a job besides, and most of her mornings free for study—

Mrs. Manchester was out when Lily Lou got home. She rushed in to tell Sadie in the kitchen. "I'm going to study with Gwin—Dwight Gwin, Sadie . . . you must have heard of him! I'm his accompanist, and he thinks I have a natural voice. Oh, Sadie, isn't it wonderful!"

"Just fine," Sadie said. "Seems like it's your lucky day, Miss Lily Lou."

About six Maxine came in, and flung her sketchbook on the floor. "Lord! I'm tired . . . 'ty ears and whiskers, Lansing, what's happened?"

Lily Lou laughed delightedly. "And what do you think of that?" she finished when Maxine had had every detail, even to the Russian soprano's clothes and Gwin's trick of running his fingers through his curly gray-ish hair.

"I think it's grand. But how are you going to eat? Where are you going to get twenty for board here?"

"Why the same as before. I told you I'm going to be Gwin's accompanist. He's going to pay me the same as Wanda Pillsbury did. A hundred a month."

"And free lessons besides?"

"Yes. Why . . . Is it . . . Isn't it all right, Maxine? Don't they usually pay when they—"

Maxine picked up her sketch book and the hat she had flung on the floor. She was smiling slightly. "Anything's all right that you can get away with in this town," she said. "It's your affair, Lansing. Watch your step, that's all."

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing, young and pretty telephone operator, gives up her opportunity for an operatic career to marry wealthy Ken Sargent. Ken's mother threatens to have the marriage annulled. Ken loses his position with his father, but secures a better one. The young couple take a small apartment, and are ideally happy. Then one night Lily Lou awakens to hear Ken sobbing. Next day, Lily Lou meets Peggy Sage, an old friend of Ken's and is stunned to learn from her that Ken lost his job. Later, she is relieved when Ken explained he did not take her into his confidence because he wanted her to be proud of him. After Ken leaves the next morning, a knock comes to the door. It is Ken's father. He asks Lily Lou to give up Ken and informs her their marriage was annulled. He gives her $500 and Lily Lou goes to New York. Her money soon begins to run low. She gets a position playing the piano for a dancing teacher. Her search for the vocal teacher she wanted fails. News from home reveals the news of Ken's engagement to Peggy. Becoming ill while at work, Lily Lou goes out on the fire escape for some fresh air. She faints. Dwight Gwin, dancing teacher, calls a doctor. Lily Lou loses her job as pianist.

Now Go On

ALL IN A DAY — By MARK HELLINGER

Comedians at Play

IF YOU can stand just one more story about the inside of show business, I promise I'll leave off along those lines for a long time to come. Yes, my friends, I mean it sincerely. And you know what the sincere word of a columnist means, don't you? It means that I'll probably do another one just like it the day after tomorrow. Or tomorrow.

It seems we were all sitting around in one of those big rooms and talking of this and that. There was the star comedian of the troupe, two or three of the principals and so on. In other words, the usual mob. And, also as usual, the conversation turned to the subject of gags.

You'd honestly be surprised at the importance of gags in the daily routine of the average theatrical troupe. They seem to mean a very great deal. Anything for the sake of a laugh. What difference if some sap is just a little more miserable or some lovesick damsel just a little more jealous? Like a stranded company in the game of life, the players are paid off in laughs.

"I love a great gag. As long as the joke isn't physical or too hasty. I can't see any harm in it. What can we do that will hand us a laugh?"

The suggestions that followed were many and varied. One bird had an idea that it would be grand to awaken the producer and tell him his New York theater had caught fire and was burning to the ground. Another felt that the ideal thing to do would be to order 80 sandwiches and have them sent to the room of a sleeping gentleman who didn't know what it was all about. And so they went. There was a knock at the door. A dancer went to answer it. We heard him speaking to someone at the door. Meanwhile we kept talking.

"My idea tops everything," enthused one bird. "Let's phone the company manager and tell him to told 12 seats for tomorrow night in the name of the female star. The house is sold out completely and the guy will go crazy. How does it strike you?"

Sounds silly to you? Of course it does. And I'm very frank to admit that I don't blame you. But those are the things we call gags. And are you going to argue with me at this stage of the game?

"Well," I said, "if that's your idea of a good gag, I—"

That's as far as I reached. Back came the dancer with a boy about 22 years of age. His eyes were a brilliant blue. His collar was too wide and too high. His hair was sandy, his clothes were none too clean and his bow tie looked as though it had been tied by a threshing machine.

"Boys," cried the dancer, "I want you to meet Joe B——. He's a great kid and he says he's a fine performer. He wants you all to watch his dance and see if you can't find a spot for him in the show. Give him a chance, boys. Give him the chance he deserves."

The broad winks that accompanied his remarks told the story. This Joe, the boy who had knocked at the door, was evidently one of those chumps who are to be found around any theatrical organization whether it is on the road or in New York.

They think they are the greatest singers or dancers to be found anywhere, and they are strictly terrible.

This boy didn't wait for any further introductions. He bowed, and went right into his dance. Before he had finished the first few steps it was obvious that his efforts were no more than childish. The dancer stopped him and went into a gag.

"You're terrific," he enthused. "You're grand. You'll be a sensation on Broadway, won't he, boys?"

We all agreed that he had. Hal Le Roy stopped cold. And when you stop to consider the fact that Hal is probably the greatest solo dancer in the world today, that's no faint praise. But the newcomer didn't seem to think so.

"Fellers," he chirped, "you ain't seen nothing yet. I'm a man who goes on and on with my talent. Put me in front of a payin' audience and I'm absolutely terrific."

"Did you say paying or praying?" he muttered.

"I said payin'," he repeated easily, "but I can't see as how it makes much difference. The fact remains that I'm a wonderful singer and everything, and I'd just like the opportunity to show you how fine I am. If you'll only put me in the show, I'll stop it cold at every performance. How about it?"

Well, there's little use describing the conversation that followed that speech. As you can well imagine, they started kidding the man. They signed him for 20 weeks at the Palace for $10,000 a week. They put burning matches under his shoes, and they had him giving the world's worst imitations of Ted Lewis. It was all pretty sad.

I can't remember exactly how it came up, but somebody asked him how he happened to get into the show business. His reply came in a strange voice.

"It was my mamma," he replied. "She told me I would be great some day. She encouraged me. So I kept practicin'. And here I am."

No doubt about it now. This boy was a complete half-wit. The gag was beginning to grow just a little bit sad. No use kidding a warped mind. Even a show business gagster must draw the line somewhere.

"She was a wonderful woman, my mamma," he went on. "She used to have dreams that she saw me with my name on Broadway. So when she died only a few weeks ago, I made up my mind to make good for her."

Want to know what happened after that speech? We didn't ask him any questions as to how he happened to come to our room. We merely chipped in and handed the poor kid a lump sum of money. He took the dough. He asked when he could start work. We told him we didn't think we needed anybody right then. He shrugged his shoulders. And he walked from the room.

I shook my head.

"Poor kid," I muttered, "here we were kidding him, and all the time he was nothing more than a half-wit. That's why, sometimes, I hate this type of gag. The laughs are few . . . and you never know whom you're hurting, or why.

"Suppose that boy had taken us seriously? Suppose he had decided to quit whatever he's doing and hang around with the troupe? None of us would ever have forgiven himself. No, boys, it's no go."

And nobody cast a dissenting vote . . .

* * *

"Boys," he said, "we're on the lookout for a young chap who's been fooling a lot of show folks around here lately. He's been getting their money by posing as a half-wit dancer. If you see him, tip me off, will you?"

And nobody cast a dissenting vote . . .

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Hundreds and hundreds of boys and girls, members of the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, and the members of the Crystal Chapter, Wilmerding, and the new Carnegie Chapter, the two independent chapters, have already sent in the miniature comic mask of Popeye which appeared with the Komic Club news of last Sunday for them to color in order that they might compete for one of the Komic Club sweaters which each chapter is giving away. The winners will be announced at the meetings Saturday.

At the meeting last Saturday of the Schenley Chapter of the Junior Komic Club, Manager Thomas reports that the bank which he has organized from among the youngsters played the accompaniment for Vera Lehman's Review, which entertained the children. Those taking part in the review were Adriana Simakis, Russell Hoeltje, Helen Simakis, the Rhythm Sisters and Dave Jeffery, who acted as master of ceremonies.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Has One of Country's Largest Concerns Building Small Boats

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Make It Vivid!

Something More Than Vague Generalities About Destitution Is Needed to Produce Generous Gifts.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association seeks through the Harris plan to induce well-to-do people to take care of 24,000 destitute families until June at a cost of $100 a family.

It will be no easy matter to raise $2,400,000. It will take more than a mere request to collect it. Hard, enthusiastic work will be necessary.

One of the essentials of a successful drive is to bring the situation home to those to whom the appeal is to be made. That cannot be done with vague generalities. A vivid, definite description of individual cases of suffering due to unemployment will accomplish far more than the strongest general statement.

The fact is that multitudes of Pittsburghers, while aware in a vague sort of way that there is suffering, do not appreciate its intensity and scope because they never come in contact with it.

Their own incomes are lower than they were, perhaps, and they find it necessary to economize. At the same time they are comfortable; they and their families have plenty to eat and are well clothed. Their neighbors, too, appear to be getting along fairly well, and life, so far as they can see, proceeds much the same as it always did. They know, of course, breadwinners who have been out of work for some time, and guess rather indefinitely that things must be becoming hard for them; but they see no direct evidence of real hunger or extreme hardship. Naturally their hearts are not touched.

If the Harris plan is to be the great success that it is to be hoped it will be, the hearts of all these well-to-do people who do not as yet appreciate the direness of the need must be touched; and that can be done only by letting them see destitution in all its pitiful suffering.

There is an immense amount of wealth here that can be tapped for the succor of the unfortunate by a Moses with the ability to smite the rock of charity with the rod of emotion.

If the Emergency Association will furnish the public some concrete examples of needy cases after the manner of the welfare agencies in their appeals for Christmas funds, it will be easier to reach the feelings of the thousands of "good fellows" who are being depended upon to take care of the 24,000 destitute families.

New Steel President

It Is Good News for Pittsburgh That a Pittsburgher Has Been Chosen to Succeed Mr. Farrell.

The announcement that William A. Irvin has been chosen to succeed James A. Farrell as president of the United States Steel Corporation on April 19, when Mr. Farrell retires, is good news for Pittsburgh.

Mr. Irvin was born in Indiana, Pa., and has spent the greater part of his business life here. He is accordingly familiar with local conditions and local needs.

The selection of a local man for the presidency is in recognition of Pittsburgh's dominating position in the steel industry, and it seems a fair inference that under Mr. Irvin Pittsburgh's dominance will continue to be recognized.

The Fair Rate Fight

The Time Has Now Come to "Smoke Out" Every Candidate for the Legislature.

With commendable energy the Allied Boards of Trade and other bodies affiliated with the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association continue night after night to hold public meetings at which the demand for better treatment from the public utilities is voiced.

The voters in all parts of the county and in all parts of the state are thus being given a clear understanding of the situation. The remedy lies in their own hands.

The lists have been closed for entries in the contest for election to the Legislature, and it is time to "smoke out" the candidates and make everyone of them tell what he is willing to do, if elected, to give the people of Pennsylvania fair utility rates.

Let them say, for example, whether they will be for or against a bill forbidding the utilities to increase their rates until a hearing has been held and the reasonableness of the increase proved.

Correcting a Mistake

City Council Is Doing the Sensible Thing in Letting The Transit Commission Carry On.

City Council made a mistake in withholding appropriations for carrying on the work of the Transit Commission. By thus interrupting the preparations for the building of the proposed downtown subway, Council ran the risk of wasting the $300,000 already expended on the project. It is gratifying, therefore, to see recognition of the fact that a mistake was made, in tentative approval of an appropriation of $8,300 for the re-employment of an engineer and draftsmen.

The subway project should be kept alive, even though its construction should not be undertaken now.

It is much to be desired, therefore, that the final action that is to be taken next Monday on the appropriation for the Transit Commission will be favorable to continuation of the commission's work.

THE HEARST PAPERS ADVOCATE:

2—Proportional representation in the United States Senate—no state to have less than two Senators.
5—Army, Navy and Aviation—all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
6—Vigorous federal action under a Secretary of Education to abolish illiteracy in the United States.
7—Federal sales tax and excise taxes to replace the income tax which has degenerated into a racket.
9—Construction of Nicaragua Canal for commerce and defense, advocated by Hearst papers since 1895.
10—Acquisition of French and English West Indies as part payment on debts to United States.
11—Selective immigration to admit only those suited for American citizenship and American needs.
15—A five-day working week or a six-hour working day to provide more jobs and better conditions for workers.

Has It Come to This?

Crime syndicates flourish throughout the land. They were born under prohibition and grew fat and powerful on the riches that evasion of the dry laws heaped on them.

Their wealth and their power enable them to flaunt all constituted authority. So powerful have they become that they murder with impunity and kidnap with immunity.

In the past two years 400 cities have reported kidnapings. Two thousand persons have paid ransoms for release.

Law and order have compromised with the underworld in the Lindbergh kidnaping.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 10.—The hard drinking reporter has been beglamoured by fiction, the stage and screen—a reputed symbol of a sentimentality toward drinking in the newspaper shops. A standard dose from this pharmacopoeia of romance is that the drunken writer turns out the most brilliant copy while in his cups.

With rare exceptions this has never been true. Henry L. Mencken, a robust defender of wassail, recently admitted: "As a city editor my views of the traditional drinking genius soon changed. I was to discover that the best copy was turned out by sober men."

In my somewhat varied and migratory experiences in print shops I do not recall a single boozer who beat boozing. Some hushers rose to momentary pinnacles but dropped like plummets. Final chapters were a record of suicides, straitjackets in psychopathic wards and wooden crosses in potter fields.

While there are still irrationalisms from drink in editorial rooms they have been generally ironed out. Newspaper publishers have learned no matter how brilliant the reporter, he is a dangerous experiment in emergencies if drinking.

I know drinking members of the guild fairly well, having years ago been one of them. Many of the ink-stained sots were unpurchasable but were also unreliable. And unless they cut away from drinking they rarely amounted to much at the finish line. Their fervor was false.

Reporters graduating to high editorial posts, to playwriting or authoring best selling novels may have had flings but they tapered off before they went to responsible posts. I can count 11 whose inebriacy brought professional oblivion.

Twenty years ago the sober reporter was in the minority on staffs of newspapers. On one paper in the Middle West was only one teetotaler and he was regarded a trifle effeminate. Today the picture is reversed. I do not know a single forthright reporter who is a souse.

* * *

I rather care for this sign on a Bronx beauty parlor: "We Grow Hair—Not Fuzz."

* * *

A telegraph operator at a dinky station near New York took the following phone message from an excited fellow with Teutonic accent and dispatched it over the wires: "Bruised debt. Erased effort and erector. Analysis hurt two infections debt." The real message was: "Bruce is dead. He raced a Ford and wrecked her. And Alice is hurt too. In fact she is dead."

* * *

Among small towny touches to the metropolis is friendly conversation often geysering up in traffic knobs along busy streets. Today a garrulous young chauffeur with the breath of Killarney in his voice called out to no one in particular: "Two more weeks of this stuff and I'm going on the cops." It was his way of telling the world he was to become a policeman.

* * *

And there's something wholesome in this young bride's note at hand: "My husband lost his job two weeks after we married, 18 months ago. We pooled capital and rented this tiny bungalow on a lake. He came home today with perhaps more than the two-hundredth disappointment over a prospective job. And isn't it ridiculous, but we continue happy as larks just the same?" Be a columnist. Get lots of mail!

* * *

Because of a temptation to back-track forgotten trails I keep no clippings or files of my writing. In the mail today was a yellowed column of 11 years ago. I glanced at it hurriedly and thrust it away as though reading extremely bad news. I wonder if 11 years from now this column will read so hopelessly inane.

* * *

Worst of all bad columns was the third. The first paragraph burst forth like this: "So stands lofty Manhattan, a mountainous pinnacle fashioned by man, a dizzy summit of amazingly high crags. . . ." and so on for the full route. Nor have I forgiven the smartie in Boston, who cut it out and wrote at the bottom in red ink: "Tell us some day about the tall buildings, sweetheart!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Once I wanted an exciting life.

I would even accept a martyrdom, provided it were a sensational martyrdom—

Once I wanted life like that. Set in electrics. Now I've changed. Somebody else can have the thrills and adventures, the pageants and martyrdoms. I no longer want an exciting life. INSTEAD, I WANT TO BE EXCITED ABOUT LIFE. Which is a very different matter.

An exciting life buys you nothing . . . It's grand in anticipation but a flop in realization. I've known snatches of life like that. The lights shone. The diamonds blazed. Expensive flowers smelled expensively. I heard my own voice going on and on, saying all the smarty things I had always wanted to say.

But inside I was cold. I couldn't make the things seem real. I couldn't make it part of myself. Plenty was happening around me but it wasn't happening IN me. The whole thing was just a lot of unproductive scenery. And I was like a cynical stranger looking in at a decorated window and saying—"Oh, baloney!"

On the other hand, I have done many unexciting, simple things. I have stood in my kitchen, making bread on a sunny day. The window was open and the light spread in a still, shining pool on the brown floor. Outside, the young cherry tree broke in white foam against the powdery blue sky. The new grass was a green filagree over the black, freshly spaded earth. The wet blades glittered—gave off spangles of crimson, violet, copper. A shimmering, blue gauze of light clung like a web to the swelling twigs, the gray rocks.

There came the smell of earth, of burning leaves, of freshly scrubbed paint—the sourish, potent smell of yeast and flour.

My body felt clean and eager as the soil. My arms moved pleasantly, kneading the bread—pressing against the warm, resilient strength of the dough.

A simple hour and a simple chore. But it meant more than endless, arid nights set in electrics. It meant more because I lived more. I put more into that hour and got more out of it. It wasn't a dream. Or a smarty, show off gesture. It was part of actual life.

It was real. And I was real. I was doing something that needed to be done and I was doing it with everything I had. I was using all of me—getting the maximum return out of all my senses. And so everything I saw and did was part of me . . . AND WAS THEREFORE IMPORTANT AND EXCITING.

It isn't necessary to make bread in order to get a reaction like that. You can get that reaction when you're doing splendid things as well as when you are doing simple things.

BUT YOU MUST BE REALLY DOING THE THING. You must be doing it with all you have . . . putting everything you have into it . . . taking everything you can out of it . . . not just acting an unnatural part in a mental movie set which has no connection with your real life.

If you can feel like that when you're doing things, then no moment of your life, HOWEVER SIMPLE, will be dull or unimportant or unprofitable.

And if you CAN'T feel like that when you are doing things, then no moment of your life, HOWEVER GRAND, will have any lasting power or meaning.

"But how can I possibly feel like that when I'm doing a job I hate?" you cry indignantly.

If you hate a job, then that's your own bad luck, stranger. It isn't the job's fault. It's your fault. You wouldn't hate ANY job if you looked at that job in the right way. There isn't a job on earth that isn't exciting. IF YOU'LL LIVE IT EXCITINGLY.

THERE ARE NO DULL JOBS . . . THERE ARE ONLY DULL PEOPLE.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Music at Dusk

Now Music steals across the purple dusk
And lays her lovely hands upon my heart,
Enthralled, I hear unearthly loveliness
Drift upward from the vibrant keys and strings,
The clear notes rise: upon the air they press
Peace flutters down with Beauty in her wake,
As tranquil as a moonlit mountain lake

Text For Today

A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another, as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.—John, xiii:34.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Lovers—Today and Yesterday

Now that a woman can order the dinner by telephone and get her divorce from Mexico by mail, there doesn't seem to be much of anything left in the way of "modern conveniences" to invent.

* * *

No woman really understands a man, until she has learned that his digestion affects his heart and that his love is not necessarily dead every time his emotions go into a state of coma.

Petting is the blinding gas which keeps two silly people so dazzled that they can't see how bored they are with each other.

* * *

As long as you can make a man sufficiently miserable to spoil his appetite, dear heart, he still LOVES you.

* * *

* * *

Nipping a love-affair in the bud never destroyed the ROOT of a real affection; any healthy sentiment will soon grow another blossom.

* * *

Sometimes, a woman envies her husband's watch. He treats it so gently and tenderly, takes it everywhere he goes, and never admits that it is WRONG!

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

Years ago, before the so-called efficiency experts became the advisers of business heads, there was more fraternalism between employers and their workers.

Under the new business methods, proprietors, superintendents and bosses have been taught that they should not mingle with their men except in a strictly business way.

This spirit often has been carried so far that never a cheerful word or smile is exchanged by workers and their superiors in many establishments.

Superiors don't want to know anything about the troubles and the problems of the men under them.

The Tax Bill: Crisp; Market Inquiry

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

A generation ago, when the appropriations for the maintenance of government reached a billion dollars, the country was shocked. Tom Reed, the Speaker, justified the figure by saying that this is a "billion dollar country." But he had no thought of a two billion dollar deficit. The new tax bill imposed on Congress by the deficit of the administration is calculated to bring in more than a billion—because of the deficit.

The Democratic House is not responsible for the deficit—which means the necessity. The deficit, the necessity, grows out of the governmental management of a Republican President and administration, a Republican Senate and a Republican House. When the Democrats came in control of the House they found that some other person's baby had been left on their doorstep.

That baby is the threatened credit of the government of the United States. While the party, upon whose doorstep some other person's baby is left, might let it stay outside and die of exposure or starve, it would be the action of a brute. And the Democratic House cannot afford to permit the credit of the nation to be imperilled. That must be guarded at all hazards. The only way to guard it is to wipe out the deficit as soon as possible by increasing the taxes—enormously.

* * *

Responsibility Lies On Administration

The Administration has the responsibility, but its tax plan was inadequate to meet the need. Indeed, after it had reported the amount of the deficit and the House was at work seeking means of meeting it, Ogden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, reported that he had over-estimated the revenue and that the Administration had fallen hundreds of millions short in its estimate of the deficit. The Administration would have made the taxes retroactive—that is, it would have made the increase apply to the incomes of 1931. That would have worked a severe hardship on business. No business man wanted it.

Instead the House has adopted a manufacturers' sales tax, which is not to be applied to the necessities of life—food and clothing. The Administration is satisfied with any plan that will lift it out of the abyss into which it has fallen.

* * *

One Day of Crisp Aided the Consumer

The burden of framing and reporting the measure in the House falls on Charles R. Crisp, because of the illness of the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. He has a fine background of statesmanship. When his father was Speaker of the House, he was the parliamentarian, and no member now is such an expert in parliamentary procedure. During the consideration of the present tariff act, which has brought disaster on the country, there came a day when in the absence of Garner, the leadership of the Democratic minority fell to Crisp. That was the day Hawley, the Republican leader, lost control, and for a day Crisp actually dominated the situation and more was done that day for the American consumer than had been done before, or was to be done thereafter. It was one of the most dramatic incidents in recent parliamentary history. But Crisp is more than a parliamentarian. He is a statesman, a thinker, a student and worker, unpretentious in manner and method, scrupulously fair in statement, utterly without the rant of a demagogue. There is not a finer figure in the House.

* * *

Crisp Recalls Distinguished Father

His father, Charles F. Crisp, was a distinguished statesman who was elected to the Speakership in 1891, after a memorable contest in which several extraordinarily able men were involved. The most conspicuous candidate among several was Roger Q. Mills of Texas, who later went to the Senate. He had a strong sentimental claim upon the position, for during the first Cleveland administration, when the fight for tariff reform was launched, it was the "Mills Bill" that incorporated the views of the President. Many thought he was entitled to the Speakership, but there were a number of candidates, including Crisp. In the end the latter won, when Morrison of Illinois went over to him with his supporters, including young Bryan. He made an admirable presiding officer.

A Crisp and a Texan! And now after all these years we again have a Crisp and a Texan prominent in the House. The Texan, however, is in the Speakership, and a Crisp is conspicuous among the leaders on the floor.

* * *

Market-Minded Statesmanship

It is amusing to note the manner in which the action of the Senate in providing for an investigation of the stock market is misrepresented in some of the headlines which convey the impression that Congress is primarily concerned with the action of the "bears" today. That was the plan of the President. The administration forces were insistent on an investigation of the "bears" of 1932. The political psychology of the plan was to concentrate attention on the "bears" and "shorts" today, and convince the public that but for these, the market would soar and business prosperity be restored. That is the vice in the market-minded statesmanship which has wrought such havoc in the last few years.

But the "bears" of today were the "bulls" of 1928 and 1929; the "shorts" today were the "longs" then; and the financial wreckage we see about us came from the "bulls" and the "longs" of 1928 and 1929, who were given every possible assistance by the administrations. The Senate did not provide for an investigation of the "bears" of today; it refused to be a party to any such mockery. It provides for a real investigation going back to the gambling debauch of 1928 and 1929, which received every possible encouragement from the administration to the utter ruin of vast numbers. It is to be assumed that in that investigation some attention will be given to the deceptive statements given out from high governmental quarters, and to the failure in those quarters to sound a note of moderation and warning.

Millions Know Better Now

Aside from the generally low character of the campaign of 1928, which imposed on millions, nothing contributed more to the result than the fact that millions thought the country was soaking in prosperity because of a soaring market. The fact that the market did not remotely reflect the state of business was not generally understood by the groundlings; and those in power, market-minded statesmen, insisted that it did. Stocks that had never paid a dividend were fought for at outrageously high prices, and demagogues pointed to this as evidence of the prosperity of the business behind the stock. Even then the employment agencies were crowded; legitimate business was drooping; agriculture was prostrate and in ruins. Anyone who called attention to these things was jeered. Look at the market! That's the proof of prosperity! It is even possible that Mr. Hoover was thus impressed when he made his historic promise to "eliminate poverty."

And that market, crazy as a March hare, was politically capitalized by the administration. And successfully! We know a woman who played the market in those days on tips and accumulated as much as $70,000. She came of rabidly Democratic stock, was a Democrat herself, and there were other reasons why she could have been put down as certain for Smith. After the election she said: "Oh, I did not vote for Smith." "And why not?" I asked, amazed. "I did not think it would be good for business," she replied loftily. In October, 1929, her $70,000 was swept away. She knows better now; so do millions of others.

Isn't It So?

The rule of motorists these days seems to be not to begin to slow down until they see the whites of the pedestrian's eyes.
